

Cross Appeal For Relief Funds For Survivors of Japanese Disaster Finds America Prompt and Liberal

JOHN BARTON PAYNE

no definite advice have been given by the American Red Cross regarding the fate of the States Naval Hospital, in which, as shown above, officials of that organization, who are utilizing to care for the thousands of injured survivors of the earthquake.

Institutions of this type still left standing that are proposed to hasten assistance to this end Chairman John Barton Payne, who is the only one called upon to relax in their assistance the stricken Japanese received from the territory indicate that, in reports of property loss, which are exaggerated, the suffering is so intense that it will be necessary to raise more money than the original quota of $5,000,000, which was designated before the broad extent of the catastrophe was definitely known.

The American Red Cross was officially designated by President Coolidge as the logical channel through which sympathetic Americans should send their assistance. The Chief Executive also has recognized, from reports received by him from his representatives in Japan, that the need for continued effort is imperative.

In a joint statement issued by Chairman Payne and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, one week after the earthquake, they discuss the necessity for relief of the stricken population regardless of the extent of the property loss. Of this they say:

"The human problem is widely different from the great economic problem of property losses and rearrangement of business. In the case of the great San Francisco disaster, the financial stability and the credit of the United States were in no way impaired but it was only through the charity of the American people and the rest of the world that the inhabitants of San Francisco were maintained until they could reestablish the normal processes of life.

"In order to expedite recovery from this disaster it is, therefore, necessary on one side to recognize the economic strength of Japan, the solidity of her credit; for American merchants and business men to extend to Japan the usual and normal facilities of trade;—on the other hand, it is imperative for American charity to respond with that generosity which is befitting to our people in their fortunate situation in a great friendly nation that has met so appalling a human problem in the loss of life and suffering and destruction."

These members of the Red Cross executive committee also emphasize the fact that every cent of the fund now being assembled will be spent for actual relief in Japan. No personnel is being sent to the affected districts and the fund is being administered by a volunteer committee of substantial business men.

ELKTON MEN ARRESTED

August De Neth and his son August, Jr., were arrested today at Elkton by Deputy Sheriff Ed Grubbe and Bob Powell. The father and son, it is charged, have been engaged in the sale of moonshine and when arrested a quantity of moonshine and wine was found in their possession. Officers claim that they have been selling liquor to boys at dances. They are being held charged with sale and possession of liquor.

day the taro patches are overgrown with brush and weeds, and the native fruit trees—bananas and papayas—have gone wild and scraggly. Wild goats roam the valley in hundreds, and at night wild dogs and cats, the remnants of former days, may be heard skulking about the campfire of the traveler who has ventured in from the outside world. Close up against a cliff, hidden by the latana bushes, may still be found the ruins of an old grass hut, and nearby the rotted prow of an old fishing canoe.

Seek Cure Now

But with this change which has come to the Kalalau Valley there has come also a change in the manner with which lepers in the islands regard the settlement at Molokai. No longer is it considered by them as a place of permanent imprisonment, as in the days of Koolau, but now rather as a great open-air hospital, where those who come in the early stages of the disease have an excellent chance to regain their health.

This is a result of the splendid care which the territorial government gives the lepers at Molokai; good food, good houses and the wonderful chaulmokra oil treatment which has worked such marvelous cures. Instead of hiding out, as in the old days, the natives who find themselves afflicted with the disease report to the health authorities and ask for treatment. Besides being an excellent thing for the patient, this also works as a benefit to the community whence he comes, as it does away with the possibility of his friends and relatives contracting the disease from him.

FARMERS' AUTOS FORCE RAILROAD TO GIVE UP

(International News Service.) PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—The fact that every farmer along the lines of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Street Railway Company owns an automobile is given as one of the reasons for the abandonment of that enterprise by Gaylord Thompson, its president. The abandonment was recently approved by the Pennsylvania public service commission after it was shown that during 1922 the trolley road, which connects Bristol and Doylestown, in Bucks county, lost $25,000.

The line was originally built 30 years ago at an estimated cost of $250,000. It is 19 miles long. Today it is valued at less than $10,000.

Lesson No. 4

Pies "Like His Mother Used to Make"

PIE has been called the great American dessert, and to be able to construct a good pie is one of the supreme tests of a cook.

The first essential of any pie is a flaky, tender crust—the kind that will fairly "melt in your mouth." One of the secrets of this is to have your ingredients as cold as possible when they are mixed; another is to avoid handling the pastry dough more than is absolutely necessary.

There are many kinds of fillings that can be used for making pies. Fruit, mince-meat and similar fillings are usually in convenient form and require little special preparation. In this lesson I will give you some excellent recipes for more complicated pies.

to set rim, then reduce the heat as eggs and milk in combination should be cooked at a low temperature. This recipe makes one pie.

Meringue

3 egg whites, ¼ cup powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon lemon extract. Beat eggs until stiff, add sugar slowly, beating all the time. Flavor.

Lemon Cream Pie

1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1½ cup boiling water, 3 egg yolks, ¼ cup flour, ½ cup Carnation Milk, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Mix flour and sugar, add boiling water, stirring constantly. Cook 5 minutes; add butter, the beaten egg yolks, Carnation Milk, the lemon juice and rind. Line plate with pastry, bake in hot oven. Cool. Fill with lemon cream mixture. Cover with meringue (see recipe below), bake in a slow oven until the meringue is a golden brown. This recipe makes one pie.

Questions and Answers

Why is milk sometimes called "the perfect food?" Mrs. J. S. C.

Because it contains the food elements necessary to sustain life and build strength. Carnation Milk, which is pure, rich cow's milk with just part of the water evaporated, is the safest form of milk, because it contains all these food elements and brings them to you in perfect condition, sterilized but unchanged.

What do you recommend as a safe hot drink for children? Mrs. R. E. M.

Cocoa or chocolate is nourishing, and when made with pure, rich Carnation Milk is a real food and very wholesome. A simple, wholesome drink is the one our mothers used to call "cambrie tea." Make it by using 1 part Carnation Milk and 2 parts hot water. Sweeten to taste.

Pie Crust

¾ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, cold water to moisten. Sift salt with flour. Cut shortening into flour with a knife or work in quickly with tips of fingers. Use enough cold water to make the particles of the mixture adhere together. Turn on a lightly floured board and roll thin, handling as little as possible. This recipe makes one pie crust.

Cocoanut Pie

2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup flour, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups water, ½ cup cocoanut, ½ cup Carnation Milk.

Scald the milk in double boiler. Mix the flour with a little cold water, and add to scalded milk. Cook until it thickens; add sugar, salt and yolks of eggs well beaten, then add to mixture and cook for two minutes. Add vanilla and cocoanut. Add to baked pie crust. Beat the whites of eggs stiff, add 1 tablespoon of sugar and put on top of the pie. Set in oven long enough to brown on top. This recipe makes one pie.

Custard Pie

2 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup Carnation Milk, ½ cup nutmeg.

Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and milk. Line a pie tin with pie paste; add the mixture to which the vanilla has been added. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg. Bake in hot oven at first.

LONE HAWAIIAN ISLE SCENE OF GRIPPING TALE

Isolated Kalalau Valley Is Where Desperate Leper
Defied Pursuers

NOW WHOLLY DESERTED

Lepers No Longer Consider Molokai as Prison, But as a Means to Be Cured

(International News Service.)

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Oct. 22.—Kalalau Valley, on the island of Kauai, made famous thirty years ago by the leper, Koolau, who fought off the soldiers of the provisional government that came to take him to the settlement at Kalaupapa, Molokai, is one of the most lonely and at the same time one of the most romantic spots in the Hawaiian Islands.

Persons who have read Jack London's "House of Pride" will recall the gripping tale of Koolau; of how this leper, refusing to give himself up as the other lepers had decided to do, fled with his wife and small son to the upper fastnesses of the valley and, with three rifles and a good supply of ammunition, kept guard over the narrow defile that was the only approach to the cave where they had taken refuge.

One deputy sheriff and three soldiers who refused to take Koolau's shouted warning not to attempt this ridge paid for their daring with their lives. Later a field piece was brought in and an attempt made to blow the hiding place to pieces, but without success. Finally the hunt was given up. Koolau remained in the valley, but died several years later of tuberculosis.

Bounded by Cliffs

Kalalau Valley faces the sea, with a broad beach of yellow sand. Its sides are hemmed in by precipitous cliffs which rise thousands of feet into the rain clouds. The only means of entrance to the valley at the present time—the old Hawaiians knew a trail up the cliffs—is to anchor outside the breakers and "surf in" to smelt boats to the beach, or to take a narrow and dangerous footpath more than ten miles in length which follows the cliffs along the rocky Napali coast.

The valley is wholly deserted of human inhabitants. Thirty years ago it held hundreds of Hawaiian families, and its wide area boasted a maze of taro patches, irrigated by water brought down from the heights by an ingenious system of ditches. To-

PAROLE EFFORT FOR THOMPSON OPPOSED

SALEM, Oct. 22.—Considerable local interest attaches to the move which is being made to secure a conditional pardon for Bennett Thompson, serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for the murder of Mrs. Helen Jennings and Fred Ristman, a chauffeur. Mrs. Jennings was a sister of Mrs. James Wilson, formerly a prominent resident of Salem, whose husband was killed in an automobile accident in Salem a few years ago. While Mrs. Jennings was a resident of Washington county she was well known to many people of Salem.

Thompson for a number of years has been an engineer at the prison and considered one of the best workmen there. His accomplishments as an engineer have brought him the praise of practically every workman who has been on the job at the prison, although everyone has admitted that Thompson is a bad man with a bad record.

Thompson, himself, has consistently contended that he was innocent of the charge against him. He killed the chauffeur and Mrs. Jennings, according to the evidence, while out on parole from the penitentiary.

District Attorney Tongue from Washington county in the past has consistently fought every attempt to gain executive clemency for Thompson. Thompson's work at the prison as engineer keeps him near the back prison wall and prison officials have stated it would not be difficult for him to effect an escape if he desired to do so. Thompson promised one warden that he would not attempt to escape during his incumbency and the warden ceased fearing that he would make the attempt, as his word along those lines is considered pit edge in the prison. This promise, however, has long since lapsed, it is stated.

Location Not Positive

Chief O'Connell announced that information that bandits were along the coast was not positive and warned of fields of the west to be on the alert. Orders are to arrest and hold incommunicado.

Establishing the identity of the alleged bandits is regarded as one of the greatest achievements of detective history of the west, if not of the entire country. It is bit the officials with the valuable aid of Professor Heinrich have pieced together clues that they declare are infallible. Officers were optimistic in regard to apprehending the quartet or at least some of them within a few days. Their identifications are so complete that the men will be easily recognized. A reward of $15,200 has been placed on the quartet.

Every road, trail and avenue of travel was being closely watched to night and guards had been doubled at all points.

SALESMAN PAYS FINE TO CITY

I. N. Noble, a traveling salesman, was arrested here last night charged with unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor, and upon appearance before City Recorder R. L. Whipple this morning paid a fine of $200. Noble, it is claimed, was on the way from Coos Bay to Roseburg yesterday and at Camas Valley struck a small boy with his car. The boy was playing with companions on a bridge. It was stated, and ran in front of the machine and was knocked down. Noble said that he waited until he found out that the youngster was badly hurt and then came on into town. The parents of the boy, however, telephoned to Office Ketch who arrested Noble upon his appearance in Roseburg. The officer smelled liquor on the salesman's breath and searched his car, finding a gallon jar partially filled with liquor.

TREE DIGGER FOR MOYER NURSERIES

C. E. Moyer, who has been for the past three years developing a nursery at Dillard, finds his growing business this season so great that he no longer could get along with obsolete methods of digging the young trees for shipment, so ordered an up-to-date digger from the east. The machine arrived today. The machine is operated by four or six horses, as may be required, and will go deep enough to lift the nursery stock out of the ground with the least possible damage to the root system. Mr. Moyer has a splendid lot of trees growing, and under his experienced care they have made a remarkably showing. This is strictly a home industry, and practically the only nursery in the county at this time.
