CROWD WILL GO TO FOOTBALL GAME

Unless the weather becomes bad between now and Sunday, it is anticipated that there will be a big crowd accompany the Roseburg Elks football team to Coos Bay for the game on the 18th with the Coos County All Stars. This is expected to be a football game which will furnish a great deal of excitement for spectators and should be an exceptional contest.

The Coos Bay team has been only recently formed but is composed of men who are experienced in the game. Several Pacific coast stars make up the squad and are working to get into shape for the contest.

The Roseburg team on Armistice Day displayed an unexpected ability. Persons who have been attending the big games this year, say that the local team puts up the best brand of football to be found in the state, and are confident that the locals can hold their own against any of the college or independent teams in Oregon. The team is heavy and fast, and is piloted by an experienced quarterback, Glenn Smith, who has had a great deal of experience in the game, playing quarterback for the University of Oregon. "Buck" DeHarr is a former U. of O. varsity end and "Okey" Taggart on the opposite end of the line, held down the end position for O. A. C.

Carl Black at fullback and John Husehark, both played on the O. A. C. freshman team and had a great deal of football experience in the army.

All of the other members of the team have had experience on high school or army teams and are well qualified to play the game. The weight of the line is above the college average, and the backfield has both weight and speed, making a well-balanced team.

Plans are now being made for the Douglas County Concert band to accompany the team on the trip.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over RHEUMATISM

Has Also Proven Remarkably Successful in Severe Cases of Rheumatic Neuritis.

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times the terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of aimless study, that he was to be free from rheumatism with the accumulated ingredients, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he conducted physical, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Alkalin, to others who, too ill, with what might be called mercenary views, after years of suffering he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed Nathan Fullerton, The Rexal Store, Roseburg, Oregon to dispense Alkalin with the understanding that if the first part bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.

LABOR STARTS OWN COLLEGE IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(United Press.)—Labor will open its own college here today. The plan was advanced by the A. F. of L. in Atlantic City at the 1922 convention and the local school will be under the auspices of the New York Central Trades and Labor Council.

It is not the purpose of the college to give workers a conventional college education, but to school them in public speaking, parliamentary order, economics, labor and law and social forces in American literature, John P. Coughlin, secretary-treasurer of the proposed college, said.

The curriculum was being arranged to aid the worker in union progress, and that later it was planned to add courses which would prove invaluable to him in his trade.

All first there will be no central building for the college. Different halls will be reserved for each of the ten studies. By Jan. 1 it is hoped that all ten courses will have been started.

Each course of ten lectures, including textbook study, will cost the student $2.

ART TRULY IS A LANGUAGE

Bears a Lesson and Charm for Even Those Not Versed in Its Rules.

Art, in its broad and permanent meaning, is a language—the language of sentiment, of character, of national impulse, of individual genius; and for this reason it bears a lesson, a charm, or a sanction to all—even those least versed in its rules and least alive to its special triumphs. Sir Walter Scott was no amateur, yet, through his reverence for ancestry and his local attachments, portraiture and architecture had for him a romantic interest. Sydney Smith was impatient of galleries when he could talk with men and women, and made a practical joke of buying pictures; yet Newton and Leslie elicited his best humor. Talfourd cared little and knew less of the treasures of the Louvre, but lingered there because it had been his friend Hazlitt's Elysium. Indeed, there are constantly blended associations in the history of English authors and artists; Reynolds is identified with Johnson and Goldsmith, Sulzberg with Berkeley, Barry with Burke, Constable and Wilkie with Sir George Beaumont, Haydon with Wordsworth, Leslie with Irving; the painters depict their friends of the pen, the latter celebrate in verse or prose the artist's triumphs, and both intermingle thought and sympathy; and from this contact of select intelligences of diverse vocation has resulted the choicest wit and the most genial companionship. — Henry T. Tuckerman.

NEGLECTING THEIR LANGUAGE

Younger Chinese Since the Revolution Show a Preference for English and French.

To judge from the numerous articles that are being written on China, its literature is not reaping great benefits from the revolution. In the first place, the Chinese language is being pushed more and more into the background. The younger generation no longer receives the training it once received in the Chinese "Classics," and hand in hand with this goes their preference for foreign languages—English primarily, and then French, with a little German. It is, of course, impossible for a country to build up a body of national literature in a foreign language. Intellectually, however, China is making reassuring progress. Its three greatest political writers, all of whom have been active now for nearly a quarter of a century—Tschang-Schi-tung, Kang-Yu-wei, and Liang-Kitschao—are as active as ever in their efforts to save the nation from the fate of India or Burma or Korea or Egypt or Poland.

Fine for the Youngsters.

"Play as you enter" is the welcome sign on the sides of the "Jollytown" trolley cars in Baltimore, Md., where the traction company has set aside several cars for the children to play in. They are complete in every detail except that the power is turned off and they are anchored to the ground. Instead of the usual advertising cards, Mother Goose rhymes and pictures are displayed along the sides. The clanging gongs and the loud calling of imaginary and unheard-of street names afford noisy proof of the popularity of the play cars as the crews take them along fancied routes.

Melting Sulphur.

Sulphur is often used to anchor bolts in cement or stone floors, but as it catches fire so easily when melted over an open flame, its use is somewhat inconvenient. The difficulty can, however, be avoided by first melting some lead, and then partly immersing the sulphur vessel in the molten lead. The sulphur will be melted in a short time, and there it will not catch fire, unless the temperature of the lead is allowed to exceed 625 degrees Fahrenheit.

All Balled Up.

B. P. reports this apocryphism: "My brother works in a theater. He's a sheen sifter. I mean he seems shifts—that is, he's a sifter of sheens, a sifter of shifts. Oh, hang it, he's a siftery seener—a sheonery—a shift seener—a shiffery—well, anyhow, my brother works in a theater."—Boston Transcript.

Autobob is a Child Killer.

An autobob is a person who drives an automobile without regard for the safety of other people. One of his worst traits is to drive recklessly in front of other cars and whiz past street intersections. He is a killer of children. He always looks where he should, but never sees what he should.

Scarcely Complimentary.

Some time ago a person in an industrial town arranged a special service for working men.

The service was well attended and the preacher began his sermon with the remark: "Rarely indeed have I been privileged to address so many tons of soil."

A Line on Values.

"Fifteen cents for a quart of blackberries?"
 "Yes, mum."
 "Seems high."
 "Did you ever try picking a quart?"
 "No, I never did."
 "I advise you to try it."
 Nature's Treat.
 Stude—Got anything on your hip?
 Stude—Yeh!
 "What is it?"
 "A birthmark." — Oregon Lemon Punch.

Fashion Swerves from the Straight and Narrow Path

A straight line may be the shortest distance between two points, but Fashion laughs at Euclid and decrees that the shortest road to style distinction this year is to be cut on the bias.

This sumptuous coat dress, in which we observe the maiden feels extremely the thing, and very much like a Russian princess in the days when Russian princesses were in favor as heroines, is cut on the cross in front, and slants up just the thickest, but most becoming bit at the line where the bodice meets the first apron flounce. And, by the way, we may have to number our flounces this fall to keep track of them.

The material is rich green velvet from the South Manchester looms, with collar and wristbands of soft, white ermine. The sleeves turn back their cuffs, as do to many of the newer gowns, and a dropped shoulder adds to the interest of the line.

The small white bows at the north and south of the slanting bodice line repeat in their fabric—velvet—the entirely adorable Oriental turban which tops this Russian costume with that insouciance with which Dame Fashion welcomes entangling alliances and international complications. The turban is laid in soft, white velvet folds over a slight foundation of buckram, and further enhances its charm, and its wearer's mysteriousness by a harem veil.

Gift of the Nile. Africa is especially dependent upon irrigation and it has been pointed out that modern engineers have not discovered any essentially new method of supplying thirsty lands with water. Reference may be made to the statement of Herodotus that Egypt is the gift of the Nile and mention may be made of the latest conclusion as to the source of the Nile floods. The observations of Lyons have finally demonstrated that the rains falling in the immense basin of the White Nile are of no importance to Egypt. From June to August the Nile rises and advanced sinks until once more the floods come down in the Blue Nile from Abyssinia. Egypt is simply an irrigated valley 780 miles long, and apart from the delta, which is 100 miles long, this valley is nowhere more than 15 miles wide and in some spots is less than a mile.
