WHITE SLAVERS GET TWO YEARS

Boys Picked Up By Officers Here Sentenced in Federal Court at Portland.

GIRLS 15 YEARS OLD

Extreme Youth of Principals in Case Prevented More Severe Penalty From Being Imposed.

John and Carl Foster, aged 21 and 19 years respectively, were each given sentences of two years' imprisonment in McNeil's island penitentiary in the federal court at Portland yesterday. Both men were arrested in Roseburg recently charged with violation of the Mann white slave act. They were found in company with Ruby Munz and Erma Morrow, each 15 years of age, the two couples having made the trip from Modesto, California, to Roseburg, registering at a number of hotels along the line as married couples. They were arrested here upon information telegraphed to the Roseburg police by the father of one of the girls and were turned over to federal authorities.

The girls were only 15 years of age, and neither of the boys were of age at the time they were arrested, and the case has become known as the "kindergarten white slave case." John Foster has a wife and child in California, although he is separated from his wife, who is seeking a divorce, but who has not yet been granted a decree.

The girls, it was stated, became infatuated with the two brothers and accepted a proposal to come north in the automobile belonging to one of the boys. They stated that they expected to be married in Oregon, and this fact was used by them in defense at the hearing before the U. S. commissioner here and in the federal court in Portland.

The government in bringing charges against the two young men, made no claim of commercial vice, as there was no evidence to show that such was the intention of the two young men.

The federal authorities who examined into the case, took occasion to censure the parents of the youngsters very severely. The case was purely one of parental neglect, they stated, and grew out of the fact that the girls were not kept under proper control and care and were permitted to pick up friends of whom the parents had no knowledge. The extreme youth of all of the parties concerned, probably prevented a more serious penalty being inflicted by Judge Wolverton, who presided in the case.

COMPOSITE TURKEY AND BIG MINCE PIE

If Rolled Together the Turkey Would Be Quite Large, As Would the Pie.

(International News Service.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Figures compiled by the chronic statistician this year indicate: That if all the turkeys eaten at Thanksgiving dinners today were transformed into one gigantic composite fowl he would tower 59 feet above the torch of the Statue of Liberty and would be 459 feet long. In fact, he would be so big he probably would scorn the axe "as the tempest scorns the chain," and there would be many "turkeyless" Thanksgiving dinners.

STEGERWALD UNABLE TO FORM CABINET

(By United Press.)
BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Adam Stegerwald, unable to form a cabinet, handed back his commission to President Ebert today. The social democrats and other parties blocked Stegerwald's efforts to form a coalition cabinet.

Think This Over!

Speaking of trading with your home merchant, it might be stated at this time, that trading with your home producer is just as important as getting the buy-at-home bug in your cranium. The producer is the real backbone of any community and if the agricultural interests of this county are to prosper as they rightfully should, it is up to the merchants and every other individual in Roseburg to see that their interests are protected. Every possible effort should be put forth to establish local markets for the farmer and not a single purchase should be made from foreign markets when the local producer can supply a like product. For instance, a farmer dropped into this office yesterday and stated he had been unable to find local buyers for this year's crop of walnuts, that the grocery stores were all stocked with the California product. This is entirely wrong. Douglas county produces as fine a quality of walnuts as one could wish for, and they can certainly be purchased just as reasonable as those coming from California. Remember, co-operation does not mean asking those to buy from you, when you in return discredit their product by purchasing your supplies from another state. HELP THE FARMER AND FRUIT GROWER BY GIVING HIM ALL THE BUSINESS WITHIN YOUR POWER. He deserves your fullest support, first, last, and all the time.

BASKETBALL HAS BRIGHT OUTLOOK

Coach Larson Will Again Have Charge of Roseburg High School Quintet.

MANY LETTERMEN OUT

Line-Up to Include Last Year's Players and New String of Men Who Are Expected to Make Progress.

By GLENN RADABAUGH
When the boys on the high school basketball team of last year laid away their suits, it was predicted by many fans that the last hope for the state conference had faded for several years to come. If present "doze" means anything at all those predictions will be upset this year, and the local high school quintet will make rapid strides on the state records.

Coach B. E. Larson, who handled the team last year, will again be at the helm. Mr. Larson has just finished a coaching season in football, and has started already to form his basketball lineup. The coach has had three years of college experience in basketball and wears three stripes from Linfield, one of the strongest high school schools in the northwest. He gives every encouragement to the belief that there is just as much chance for the conference this year as ever before and says that with proper co-operation from his men and support from the school and city there can be no such thing as failure.

Bill Burr, popular football and basketball star for the past two or three years, captains the team this year. Burr's skill on the floor has won him a great group of fans, who believe he will contribute largely to the success of the team this year. His record for last season shows him to be far in the lead of any player in points.

Guy Perrin, the fighting guard of last year's team, who made it almost impossible for his opponents to slip over by him, will probably fill the same position this year.

Rusty Irwin, is also turning out and will doubtless go down as a member of the first team. With the development of a little more speed Irwin will make a splendid hooper. With only one season's experience he was able to play enough time to receive a letter.

Phil Singleton will probably show up for a position. Singleton's whirlwind playing for the last two years is good indication that he will fill a first position.

A new player who is showing speed and ability is Louis Miles, a Junior. Miles has had only inter-class experience, but his exceptional speed will make a guard position hard for someone else to get.

Liston Howden, Ray Jost, Lynn Beckley, Harold Bemis, Adze Davis, Cyril Nichols are among the other players with more or less experience, who are showing up well. All in all, the coach will have as good a group of hoopers to pick from as he had last year, and will doubtless succeed in producing a winning team.

Inter-class games are revealing good material in all the classes. During the past week both boys' and girls' contests have been played, with the series only started. These games between the classes are serving as a splendid method of picking out the very best talent in the school.

Girls' basketball will receive more attention and support this year than it has for a number of seasons. Miss Ring, instructor in the domestic arts department, is to coach the girls. She has had considerable experience in this work in her school work in the east, and is already lining up her team for the season.

Changes in the rules from previous seasons are to be given careful consideration in the inter-class games in order to prevent any bad consequence in the inter-scholastic contests.

COOS COUNTY TEAM ARRIVES FOR GAME

The Coos County All-Stars football team arrived last night from Coos Bay prepared for the big game this afternoon with the Roseburg Elks. The visitors feel very confident of victory, believing that they can repeat the achievement of defeating the locals, as was done recently at North Bend. Because of the rain and wet weather, the delegation accompanying the team from the coast was smaller than had been expected.

With a wet field the game to be played this afternoon will probably resolve itself into a straight, old-style, bone-crushing game, with little resort to aerial tactics or open playing. The Roseburg team has been materially strengthened and considerable weight has been added, which will doubtless be greatly in favor of the local team.

ELKS GATHER FOR ANNUAL BANQUET

Elks from all over the county will gather tonight for the annual turkey banquet of the order. The regular lodge meeting and initiation will precede the banquet which will be served at 10:30, and the pep committee will have stunts of all kinds to enliven the evening. A large number of Marshfield Elks, in town for the football game, are expected to attend the session.

HORNER'S STORE ROBBED LAST NIGHT

Burglars last night broke into J. W. Horner's newsstand and store at the camp grounds, and secured a quantity of candy, tobacco, etc., together with a small amount of money. Entrance was gained through a rear window, which was broken out. Officers believed that the work was done by local talent, and an effort is being made to trace the persons responsible for the crime.

STUDENTS HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

The Thanksgiving holidays are bringing many college students home to spend the vacation with their parents and friends. Roseburg is well represented in the three larger schools of Oregon, the Oregon Agricultural College having the greater number attending at the present time. The Roseburg students are well known on the campus and are taking active parts in the college affairs.

Those students returning home from the Oregon Agricultural College are: Marion Needham, Fernie Reymers, Dorothy Orcutt, Dorothy Eddy, Vera McMillin, Constance Hendrickson, Jeannette Rice, Adalbert Young, Clifford Fields, Roland Schwartz, Dale Smith, Donald Hellwell, LaVernie Hawn, Leo Beckley, Maurice Newland, Roy Patrick, George Spaur, Conrad Boyle, Chester Moran, Burton Hutton, Fred U. ## DOWNPOUR OF RAIN MAKES FIELD SLOW

PORTLAND, Nov. 29.—A steady downpour of rain made the field slow for the football game this afternoon between the Oregon Aggies and the Multnomah Athletic Club.

YE TRIP WAS ROUGH, SAITH YE GOVERNOR

William Bradford's Account of First Thanksgiving Stressed the Storm.

GLAD TO REACH LAND

Fell on Knees in Thanks as They "Set Their Feet on Ye Firm, Stable Earth."

(International News Service.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—William Bradford, Governor of Plymouth colony was thankful for everything except the trip on the Mayflower, if one may judge from his own account of the first American Thanksgiving Day:

"Being thus arrived in a good harbor and brought safe to land," he wrote, "they fell upon their knees and blessed ye God of Heaven, Who had brought them over ye vast & furious ocean and delivered them from all ye perils & miseries thereof, again set their feete on ye firm and stable earth, their proper element. And no marvel if they were thus joyfull, seeing wise Seneca was so affected with sailing a five miles on ye coaste of his owne Italy; as he affirmed that he had rather remain twentie years on his way by land than pass by sea to any place in a short time; so tedious and drearful was ye same unto him.

"But hear I cannot; but stay and make a pause, and stand half amazed at this poore people's present condition; and so I think will the reader too, when he well considers ye same. Being thus passed ye vast and sea of troubles before in their preparation (as may be remembered by which wente before), they had now no friends to welcome them, nor inns to entertaine or refresh their weatherbeaten bodys, no houses or much less townes to repair too, too see for succoure. It is recorded in scripture as a merite to ye apostle & his shipwrecked company, yt the barbarians shewed them no small kindness in refreshing them, but these savage barbarians, when they mette with them were readier to fill their sides full of arrows than otherwise. And for ye season it was winter, and they that know we winters yt countrie know them to be sharp & violent, & subiecte to cruell & fierce stormes, dangerous to travell to known places, much more to serch an unknown coast. Beside, what could they see but a hideous & desolate wilderness, full of wild beasts & wild men? and what multitude they might be of them they knew not. Neither could they, as it were, goe up to ye top of Pisgah, to view from this wilderness a more goodly countree to feed the hope; for which way soever they moved their eyes (save upward to ye heavens) they could have little solace or contentment in respecte of any outward objects. For summer being done, all things stand upon them with a weather-beaten face, and ye whole countree full of woods & thickets, represented a wild & savage howl. If they looked behind them, there was ye mighty ocean which they had passed, and was now as a maine barr & grolle to separate them from all ye civill parts of ye world—

"What could now sustaine them but ye spirite of God & his grace? May not & ought not the children of these fathers rightly say: 'Our fathers were Englishmen which came over this great ocean, and were ready to perish in the wilderness; but they cried unto ye Lord, and he heard their voyce, and looked on their adversitie. Let them therefore praise ye Lord, because he is good, and his mercies endure for ever. Yea, let them which have been redeemed of ye Lord, show how he hat delivered them from ye hand of ye oppressour, when they wandered in ye deserte wilderness out of ye way, and found no cite to dwell in, both hungerie & thirstie, their soules was overwhelmed in them. Let them confesse before ye Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before ye sons of men."
