

Women Nowadays Glorify Old-fashioned Wrappers

AGNES AYERS IS WELL-CLOTHED, AND BEAUTIFULLY, IN THIS PIZANA COSTUME

of the wrapper is rapidly increasing. The house gown, the kimono, the pajama, are taken in the home. All of these, particularly the pajama gown, are more practical, less formal and more attractive than the wrapper. The wrapper is a thing of the past. It was a thing a woman dared be seen in. Her look so terrifically feminine. Its home-made look, its faded-up were a trial to the eyes of the fairest womanly wrapper was many of the factors in the wrapper's downfall.

The wrapper has grown in popularity without losing its femininity. Designers every year are turning out models well and fashionably made, often following the lines of the current fashionable street gown.

For instance, when, during the last two years, the bateau neckline for frocks was in vogue, that same neckline was adopted for house gowns. True, the house gowns were carried out in corduroy, but a certain amount of style was there!

Gowns of long-waists have been copied in the negligees. Bell shaped sleeves, and sometimes really short sleeves, have found favor with madame for her "wrappers."

But this fall there is still another innovation. The house gowns of the latest design follow the lines of the coats. Long-waisted, well and becomingly collared, they have also generous sleeves. They are quite "dressed up" affairs. Should madame spend her morning in one of these she would indeed feel well dressed and able to receive a neighbor or sudden caller with the poise that comes to one possessed of the knowledge that she is properly clothed and becomingly.

Two of these "coat" models are shown in the sketches above.

Surely this outfit would grace any home.

LEGION SIGNING UP MANY MEMBERS

The membership in Umpqua Post of the American Legion is showing a rapid increase this week as a result of the efforts of the two teams, under the captaincy of Clinton Gorthy and Rudy Ritzman. Gorthy's squad is in the lead today and Clint says he is determined to "bring home the bacon" and force Rudy's followers to provide the "feed" for the troops of his command. Rudy, who has been nicknamed "the fighting Dutchman," is letting no moss grow on his back and when the final count of members is made it will be a "toss up" for the winner.

STAGE UPSETS ON COOS BAY HIGHWAY

An auto accident which proved fortunate in more ways than one occurred last night on the Coos Bay highway when one of the big stages of the Coast Auto Lines ran off a four-foot bank about four miles this side of Camas Valley and overturned. Not one of the eight passengers received a bruise or scratch and the car was only slightly damaged.

According to employees at the stage line the accident was probably due to the fact that the vision of the driver, A. S. Newman, became obscured by the sprilling rain from the outside and the "sweat" which had formed on the inside of the windshield. When the driver realized that two of his wheels were off the bank he was able to bring his car to almost a dead standstill before it turned on its side after slipping gently about six feet off the road. The passengers were able to get out of the machine through a hole cut in the top and were brought to town by other cars summoned from this city.

The passengers place no blame on Mr. Newman for his driving and consider the accident unavoidable. He is not a regular employee of the company but was under charter to bring the car over as a relief driver last night. The condition of the roads on the highway is reported to be fairly good, and had nothing to do with the accident. The car was brought to Roseburg today.

BASKETBALL MEN PRACTICE STEADILY

The first string of basketball men on the high school line-up for the season are practicing hard and steadily and are getting in good form for the opening of the season. Coach Larson is giving his men daily instruction in the four points of the game and lining up the fellows for a real winning quintet before the year is closed. No schedule has yet been made due to the fact that the season will not open for a few weeks yet, but communications have been sent all the larger schools which the team expects to meet and a schedule is promised at a very early date. A game with Myrtle Creek will open the season and will be followed by a straight, almost weekly, schedule. The game with Myrtle Creek will probably be held this coming week if the necessary arrangements can be made.

BAPTIST MEETINGS CLOSE TOMORROW

The evangelistic meetings that have been in progress at the Baptist church for two weeks will close tomorrow night. The services tomorrow are expected to be the best of the whole series. It is hoped that those who have not thus far enrolled in some Sunday school will be on hand at 9:45 to study the Bible. At 11:00 o'clock Rev. Mr. Gunn will preach, "Special music by Mr. Ott on the violin, Mrs. Melvin on the cello, and Mrs. Osborn on the piano."

The country people are invited to bring their lunches to the morning service and spread them together in the basement at noon. Hot coffee will be available there. The afternoon service is planned especially so that the country people can attend before having to go home to attend their stock. This service is at three o'clock, and by special request Mr. Gunn will speak on the "Second Coming of Christ." The biggest service of the day and the closing of the series will be at 7:30 in the evening. A hearty invitation to every one to attend this service, if none other in the day. Mr. Gunn will preach. This will be the last chance to hear him. Miss Handline, director of music in the city schools, will sing.

The following item concerning the divorce suit filed by Nellie Farnese, a former resident of this city, was contained in The Oregonian today: "W. G. Farnese is a crank on loads, according to a complaint filed yesterday by Nellie J. Farnese. Many friends which she liked she could not have because of hubby's prejudices against them, the mate's complaint stated. The pair have been separated year."

Sun Is Tamed to Man's Purposes By Using Window Glass and Lace

Persons who easily enough associate the art of interior decoration with their living rooms and with rooms considered more formal in character may learn from a consideration of the sun-room that "decoration" should extend to every detail of the home. Beauty and harmony are out of place nowhere. In the sun-room the principle which leads a skillful furnisher to no further than the Renaissance, tone down the glare and diffuse the light. In making the curtains to serve exactly the uses of such a room man's ingenuity has been again triumphant. Beauty and practicality are served by roller curtains of lace, traced with simple designs, weighted by fringes and equipped with tassels "pulls." They may be rolled out of the way on dim or rainy days, or lowered bring out in every way the particular use and atmosphere of a room is so-named. Its very name explains its chief object. In achieving this object the windows are of great importance. In the sun-room sunlight is tamed to the service of man. Glass, a translucent substance to admit and primitive people, is put into frame windows to admit its radiance. Not curtains and those of lace, the invention of which also dates back a shield against the sun on days when that orb is too hot and glaring. In furnishing the rest of the room there come into use, perhaps, colored marionette overdraperies, square the floor, sea grass rags, wicker furniture with ornate cushions, and portable lamps. The effect of outdoors which is best sought after may be aided by painted prints and by the use of light, out-of-door colors such as the yellows and greens.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

A new oil lamp that gives amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no rumbling up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, V. M. Johnson, 151 North Union Ave., Portland, Ore., is offering to send a lamp on 10 day's FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money, make $250 to $500 per month.
