GRAIN MARKET

(Associated Press Licensed Wire.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Although corn right at the opening today scored another all-around new high price record for the season, selling quickly developed and the market underwent a set-back to well below yesterday's finish. At 80 cents a bushel even for May delivery and 81c for July, sellers of futures were in a majority for at least the time being. On the other hand, country offerings to arrive remained light.

The opening, which remained from 1-8 off to 1-4 in advance, May 80c, corn fell to 79c for May. Wheat was easier with corn. Weakness at Winnipeg had a bearish influence here. After opening unchanged to a shade higher, May $1.09 1/2 to $1.09 3/4 and July $1.07 1/2 to $1.07 3/4 wheat showed slight general losses.

Oats, unlike corn, failed to get into new high ground, starting at 1-8 off to 1-4 up, May 47 7/8. Later all months were a little below yesterday's finish. Provisions were firmer with hogs.

STRANGE MALADY CAUSES LOSSES

State Veterinarian Is Called Upon to Aid in Identifying Disease.

PARASITE IS BLAMED

County Is Agent Convinced Liver Fluke Is Responsible for Heavy Losses Being Experienced.

County Agent B. W. Cooney today called upon State Veterinarian W. H. Lytle to aid in the investigation into the strange malady which has already caused losses amounting to between $12,000 and $15,000 to the goat breeders of Douglas county. Since September 1 goats in the county have been dying of a strange disease which has not yet been positively identified, and between two and three thousand head of goats have been lost. Douglas county produces between 12,000 and 15,000 head of goats, having almost one-third of all the goats in the state, and consequently the malady is of much concern to owners.

The county agent is of the opinion that the disease is the result of an internal parasite, the Liver Fluke, and he is endeavoring to obtain a confirmation of this belief. The Liver Fluke is described as being a long flat parasite, which in one portion of its life cycle is carried about by the common ground snail. It is consequently picked up by goats and sheep in wet marshy places inhabited by snails. In the body of the goat or sheep it becomes active and infects the liver and bile duct, causing a jaundiced condition. In posting the bodies of some of the dead goats, the county agent has found these parasites to be quite prevalent and the bile duct sac considerably enlarged.

Mr. Cooney took the matter up with the Agricultural College, and was informed that the disease is being found in nearly all parts of Oregon, although Douglas county herds appear to be more seriously affected than in other places. The college states that it has been found that wet summers are nearly always followed by heavy goat losses due to liver, stomach and intestinal diseases. The college, however, has, as yet, been unable to identify this malady.

Mr. Cooney has made a very thorough investigation, and has been convinced that the Liver Fluke is the source of the trouble, and has enlisted the aid of the state veterinarian to determine whether or not he is correct. If he is right, still heavier losses may be expected, as the life cycle of the parasite is about 8 months, and the peak of its activity has not yet been reached.

So far the losses have been confined chiefly to the watershed of the South Umpqua and Main Umpqua rivers. Some goat breeders have lost four and five hundred head, which at a value of $4 per head makes the loss a very serious matter. C. H. Maupin, of Elkton and L. E. Goodburn, of Sylmon Valley, have lost many head of goats from their large herds.

Mr. Cooney states that during the past few years there have been some exceptionally heavy losses in goats and sheep from internal parasites, and that sheep and goat owners must observe all precautionary measures if they desire to prevent heavy losses from such sources.

TRY TO DISMISS FRAUD CASES

State Aid Commission Hears of Efforts Being Made in Washington.

FOUR MEN ARE INDICTED

Appeal to U. S. Attorney Coke to Not Delay Trial—Men Used Mails to Defraud Veterans.

(Associated Press Licensed Wire.)

SALEM, Jan. 17.—Upon receiving reports that persons of influence at Washington are exerting powerful efforts to procure dismissal of the bonus fraud indictment against H. J. Overture, Charles Carroll, Charles Haines and James Ryan in Deschutes county, the ex-service men's state aid commission sent a resolution to United States Attorney John S. Coke, in Portland, asking the status of the case. The four men were indicted by a federal grand jury February 19, 1933. The men are charged with making unlawful use of the mails in connection with loan proceedings involving moneys voted by the people of Oregon for veterans of the world war. Nearly a year has elapsed since the indictments. The resolution declares that the prolonged delay in bringing the case to trial must result in rendering unavailable the evidence under which previous action has been taken.

"At the time of the indictment of H. J. Overture under 18 counts, alleging use of the mails to defraud, and one count alleging conspiracy, he was serving as a member of the legislature," says a statement prepared by the commission today. "He was not arrested until after that body adjourned. Of the 19 charges, one covered conspiracy to use the mails to defraud. The offenses charged felonies, punishable by imprisonment in the federal penitentiary. The bonus fraud probe commenced in the fall of 1932, when rumors reached the ears of the bonus commission to the effect that values on property in Deschutes county, which were submitted as security for loans were being faked to the skies. A quiet investigation followed. The bonus commission asked the attorney-general at Salem for a special investigation and Wilbur Henderson and Robert Maguire were appointed deputies attorneys-general. They commenced a thorough probe, revealing evidence strongly indicating that the state had been defrauded in many loans.

"Governor Pierce states that he can hardly believe that the attorney-general at Washington will allow the influence that appears to be being brought to cause these indictments, which involve $30,000,000 voted by the people of Oregon in grateful appreciation of the sacrifices of Oregon's veterans of the world war to be dismissed."

Overture was a member of the board of appraisers under the bonus and loan act for Deschutes county and the other three men were real estate operators.

Members of the commission said today that the resolution is not to be construed as a criticism of United States Attorney Coke, who, they declare has been eminently fair and above board in the case.

RAISE BAR AGAINST WOMEN

Laws in Many of the States Still Deny Them Equal Rights With Men.

A survey of laws has established the fact that every discrimination complained of by women in 1948, except in the franchise, still exists in some parts of the country today, and that many of them are practically universal, writes Carol Ralish in The New Republic.

Except in the eight community property states, the services of the wife in the home are the property of the husband; in all but twelve states, prostitution is the act of the woman only and not of the man; practically everywhere women are paid less than men for the same work in both public and private employment.

In Georgia and Maryland, a father may will the children entirely away from the custody of the mother, and in Alabama he has the right to will away the child from the mother after it has reached the age of fourteen. In a number of states the father has a greater right than the mother to the control and guardianship of children, and to determine their education, their religious environment, etc.

In Vermont and Georgia a married woman's earnings belong legally to her husband, and not to herself and may be seized by her husband's creditors to meet his debts. In Florida a husband is entitled to manage and control the wife's property. In Kentucky and Texas the husband can obtain a divorce more easily than can the wife. Examples of similar discriminations against women might be multiplied.

Idle Acres Yield No Profit

PROFITABLE crops should be growing on that un-cleared land of yours—productive instead of idle acres. And blasting stumps is now much cheaper and easier.

Pacific Stumping Powder is clearing land quickly and cheaply for the ranchers around here, because there are about 142 sticks of 1 1/2" x 8" of Pacific Stumping to the 50-pound case. You will get one-half more sticks for each dollar spent for explosives for land-clearing when you buy Pacific Stumping. It has the same strength as other standard stumping powders. There is no danger of its freezing, nor does Pacific Stumping cause headache from handling.

Let us supply you with explosives this year. We carry large stocks of du Pont dynamites for all blasting purposes on the farm. Tell us your job and we'll tell you the cost.

Comfort and Utility Necessary In Art of Interior Decorating

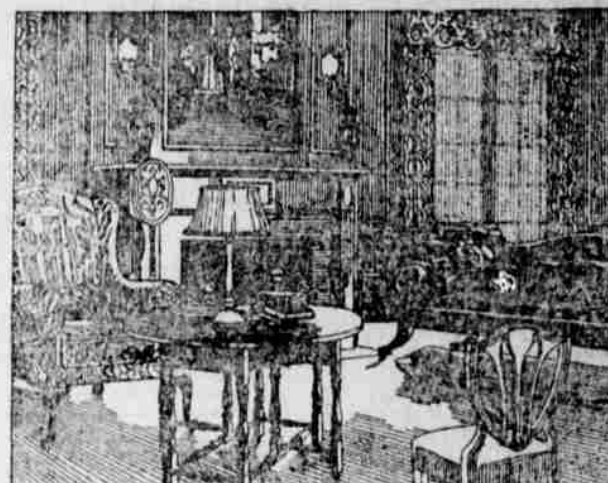

By an Interior Decorator

Art is not usually associated in the popular mind with comfort and utility. The association, though, is one of the first that is made in the art of interior decorating.

Nowhere can the truth be better exemplified than in furnishing a living room according to formal Colonial standards. The style dictated light through filmy whiteness, conduce to peacefulness of heart and domestic content.

A dignity and self respect seem to inhere in the clean cut chairs and table, and ease is waiting in the upholstered divan.

Each article of furniture is placed according to its common use—aq tates quiet simplicity. Common sense and decorative art alike demand comfort and ease.

Restfulness is surely given by the quiet background of walls and floor, with their neutral color tones and lack of confusing over-decoration. The white woodwork, comfortable worn rug, quietly appropriate overdraperies at the windows, and the lace window curtains, diffusing easy chair near the table with its books, and comfortable seats near the family hearth. Light from the neatly decorated windows is made useful to the fullest extent by the arrangement of furniture.

Everything from the light brackets to the gate-leg table speaks of an earlier, simpler time, yet everything tells of comfort and the use for which the room was intended.

LAST TYPE SET BY PRESIDENT HARDING DURING ALASKAN VISIT WILL BE PRESENTED TO THE A. P.

(Associated Press Licensed Wire.)

SEATTLE, Jan. 17.—President Warren G. Harding's last bit of handset type, set while visiting in the office of the Fairbanks, (Alaska) News-Miner, during his trip to the territory last summer—will be presented to the Associated Press at its annual meeting in New York according to a message received here today.

"While President Harding was in Fairbanks he visited with me and insisted on setting type," read the message from W. F. Thompson, editor of the publication. "I tried to stop him, but he insisted. He set his last type in the office of the 'Farthest north publication.' He was the first printer-publisher-president to visit here and will probably be the last.

"It occurs to me that the proper custodian of the last type he set, is the Associated Press. I am bringing them out with me by way of Seattle to give William Allen White, editor of the Emporia (Kansas) Gazette, whom I will visit to present to the Associated Press at its annual meeting in New York City when I am to be somewhere else."

Thompson has been informed by Doctors in Fairbanks that he has but six months to live. He intends to stop, if possible, the disease the physicians claim he has and consult eminent doctors in New York state. He has been an editor since 1879, the last 26 years being spent in Alaska and Yukon territories.

Liberty Theatre

The terrific suspense which is held to the highest pitch all through "The Last Hour" now playing at the Liberty makes this picture one of the most effective. Almost almost, we say, we did not know until the very last foot of film what the final resolution of the story would be—so vastly different is "The Last Hour" from the common run of photoplays.

The story is simple and true to every day life. Milton Sills and Carmel Myers head the cast of well known and experienced players. These are Pat O'Malley, Jack Mower, Alec Francis, Charles Clary, Walter Long, Eric Mayne and Wilson Hummel.

A particularly fine scene comes toward the end of the picture.

Adaptation of Alfred Savoir's celebrated French farce, "Bluebeard's 8th Wife." It is said to afford Miss Swanson one of the strongest roles of her screen career, and what her women admirers will relish most perhaps, provides herewith ample opportunities for the display of amazing gowns.

The story is that of a beautiful daughter of French nobility whose father is impoverished and wishes to marry her off to a man of wealth. Her wish becomes reality when a rich American meets and falls in love with her. She also loves him.

Miss Swanson's leading man in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," which will be shown at the Antlers theatre tonight is Huntley Gordon, a popular player. Paul Weigel, Frank R. Butler, Robert Agnew and Irene Dalton are in the cast.

Majestic Theatre

Something altogether new in screen entertainment is the treat in store for local theatregoers, when Hunt Stromberger's "Breaking Into Society" is presented at the Majestic Theatre next Friday-June day only.

"Breaking Into Society" is described as "a comedy of manners." It is full a length fun feature that keeps the laughs tumbling over each other at break-neck speed.

In the present surplus of long features it is a pleasure to find a genuinely snappy and originally humorous five reel feature such as this picture.

TORNEY GENERAL VAN WINKLE SAYS HE IS OPPOSED TO SENDING SPECIAL PROSECUTORS AROUND STATE

(Associated Press Licensed Wire.)

SALEM, Jan. 17.—Attorney-General Van Winkle declared today that he is going to put it up to the next legislature to repeal the act whereby the governor is allowed to send special prosecutors into the counties or he is going to ask that the assistant attorney-general be provided to give him time to criminal

This business of sending out a man at every call heard from the active part of my job as indicated under the law," said Van Winkle. "If a county prosecutor assistance he should go to his county court and get authority to employ help."

Asked if he did not believe that the former system whereby a district attorney's jurisdiction embraced a number of counties instead of one county was better than the present system, Van Winkle said he believed it was.

"Under the former system," he said, "a prosecutor gave his attention to that work. Under the present system his regular legal practice takes most of his attention and the office of district attorney is in many cases only a side issue."
