ROSEBURG, OREGON, TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1924.

BEING HAPPY THOUGH BUSY.

A company of the players who present the famous Passion play of Oberammergau in Germany, have recently been visiting in this country. One of them remarked that Americans have all the prosperity that could bring happiness, but they are too rushed. New York is too noisy and fast, he said. He felt that no one could be really happy in such a place. These passion players have presented their famous drama as an act of religious devotion. They have been noted for their union of artistic cultivation with perfect simplicity. Life in their quiet mountain town must be contemplative, and it would be natural that American hustle would seem unhealthful and abnormal to them. Many Americans have held the same view, and have felt that the rush of American life prevents our people from getting the greatest happiness. Our philosophers have usually felt this way, and have deplored the hurry and worry and scurry of the life of cities. Yet many people seem to be keyed up to such a pitch, that they could not be happy unless they were doing a certain amount of rushing. They would stagnate if forced to live in a quiet and peaceful little community. They say it is better to wear out than to rust out. The Irishman who uttered the famous phrase, "If you can't be aisy, be as aisy as you can," summed up the true philosophy. People must follow their own bent to an extent, and as the majority of Americans are nervous and energetic, they will continue to hustle to the end of their days. But they can cure the tendency to too much hustle by cultivating the deeper enjoyments. People who have learned to enjoy pleasures like good books and music and friendship, find that the best aims of life are not dependent on money, but can be attained without large cost of effort.

There will be nationwide interest in the effort the new mayor of Philadelphia is making to clean the town of vice and enforce the laws. Such a movement may encounter difficulties, yet it is the only consistent position. Municipal officials claim in some places that the public will not back up such a movement, that people whose customary habits have been interfered with will revolt against enforced virtue. But they sometimes overlook a vast undertone of sentiment that wants clean living and believes that merican institutions are founded on laws and that these must be maintained. Most American towns will support this principle if it is put up to them on a clear cut issue.

It will not probably be necessary for any of the political parties to exercise the leap year privilege and ask somebody to officiate as their presidential candidate.

It is claimed that sound thinking is necessary, but there is so much sound of oratory going on most of the time that it is difficult to think.

If all the proposed amendments to the constitution go through George Washington would not know that document if he met it on the street.

Although there is complaint that fuel costs high many people still continue to burn up their money.

The Teapot Dome scandal is certainly furnishing plenty of food for political gossipers.

The average man—the real man—still maintains that his home is his castle.

THE VILLAGER RHYMESTER

by Carlyle Emery
Dear Folks:
It's love that makes the world go 'round you've often heard it said, and tho you think that other things may help you get ahead, it's Love that rules the universe. It has and always will. It's Love that makes a nation move or keeps it standing still.

It's love that stands behind a man and drives him ever on, when all the other things he had vanished and are gone. It builds new courage in his heart and makes his muscles strong. It holds him on the path of right, and from the path of wrong. It's Love that gives a woman strength to bear a burden great. It's Love that keeps her fighting on to help her chosen mate. It brings her children into life, it shines within her eyes. Its warmth is like a lasting flame that burns and never dies.

It's Love that's given us the names of Father and of Son, of Mother, Daughter, Brother too, it's given every one. The great demand of human hearts that goes to Him above, is not much for other things as just for lasting Love.

When Love is taken from our lives, its place is never filled. leaves us dry and withered up, it leaves our bodies chilled. So on't be moved by newer things you think you may have found, or truth will always bring you back. Love makes the world go round.

TO MARJ.—GAWD BLESS 'ER
Marjy is an awful mess,
I love her.
She is the height of ugliness,
I love her.
She isn't much on countenance,
She doesn't savor of romance,
She's dumb and coy and cannot dance,
I love her.

Marj will use no rouge or paint,
I love her.
She's built like Aphrodite ain't,
I love her.

She's knock-kneed and she's angular,
With me, though, she is popular;
Marj, lets me use her motor car,
I love her.

Chicago Metropole Jazz Orchestra to Visit

M. Carment, late of Al. G. Fields minstrels, and his world famous Metropole Jazz orchestra of Bismark Gardens, Chicago, are playing for the dance at the Armory, Tuesday night, Jan. 29. These musicians who are touring the world and leave for the Orient in a short time, left Chicago on their western tour the first day of July, 1923, and have played practically every city west of Chicago with a record of having played every night since their starting date with the exception of eight nights which were taken up by travel. A record unsurpassed by any traveling orchestra. These musicians are all entertainers and furnish a repertoire of dance music seldom ever heard in a town the size of Roseburg. We feel reasonably sure the people of Roseburg will be talking about these musicians for years to come. Remember the date, Tuesday night, Jan. 29.

STATE PRESS COMMENT

SUCH ENGLISH IGNORANCE
American sense of value become distorted.
The Independent, of New York, a few weeks ago printed a list of outstanding personalities of the year 1923 who, it is estimated, would be talked about a quarter century hence. In the list appeared the name of Babe Ruth. Well, there is nothing remarkable in that, is there? Doesn't every American know George Herman Ruth? Isn't he the most famous home-run

A Good Thing - DON'T MISS IT.

Send your name and address plainly written together with 5 cents (and the slip) to Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, and receive in return a trial package containing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping coughs, and tickling throat; Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for stomach troubles, indigestion, gassy pains that crowd the heart, biliousness and constipation; Chamberlain's Salve, needed in every family for burns, scalds, wounds, piles, and skin affections; these valued family medicines for only 5 cents. Don't miss it.

batter of the day? Doesn't he slam the pill harder and make it travel further than anybody else either of this generation or in history? Hasn't his name been printed twice or thrice as many times in the past five or six years as that of any other great American?

Now cross the Atlantic and pick up the London Observer, whose "Observer" has read the independent list with attention and curiosity. And he says, "Alas, that we in this country should be so blind to the great ones of our times as not to have heard of Babe Ruth. Is she a cinema star?"

Is she a cinema star? Which leads us back to our original question. Are we being kidded? Or is the "Hands Across the Sea" movement such an utter failure that our English cousins, or whatever relation they may be, are as ignorant of our great men as they seem?—Eugene Guard.

FASHION AND EXTERMINATION

It was bad enough for the fur-bearing animals when women wore furs only in the winter, but it spelled their doom, says the National Geographical Society, when women took to wearing furs all the year around. The society declares that the relentless demand is threatening with extinction the beaver, marten, skunk, muskrat, and many others which, with a normal demand, might long continue to meet genuine human needs.

It is a matter for keen regret in many ways. A great economic resource is being exhausted. Beautiful specimens of wild life are being wiped out, to the infinite regret of nature lovers. Women themselves, in a generation or two may be deprived of furs for warmth because, in this generation, they have worn them so wastefully for ornament.—Albany Democrat.

A BAD COMBINATION

A man named Miller is under arrest in Portland for running over a woman with an automobile and killing her. Everything is against the man. We say everything, and hereby submit the proof. He had an empty whiskey flask in the car and was riding with another man's wife. No more evidence is needed to convict him.—Salem Statesman.

FOR CREAKY JOINTS

Just rub on the new application called Joint-Ease if you want to know what real joint comfort is. It's for stiff, swollen, or pain-tortured joints whether caused by rheumatism or not. A few seconds' rubbing and it soaks right in through skin and flesh right down to ligament and bone. It oils up and limbers up the joints, subdues the inflammation and reduces the swelling. Joint-Ease is the one great remedy for all joint troubles and Nathan Fullerton and other live druggists are dispensing it daily—a tube for 60 cents.

INDIAN IN JAIL

J. A. Farris, the Oklahoma Indian attorney, who was arrested here on a government warrant charging him with impersonating a federal officer, is still in jail, having failed in his efforts to raise the bonds fixed by U. S. Commissioner Hopkins. Farris will be given a preliminary hearing on Saturday. His wife, who is being held in the Multnomah county jail as a material witness will be brought back to Roseburg on Saturday to give testimony on the stand.

THIS BRIGHT BABY GIRL

Brought Joy to Home. Mrs. Price's Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scotac, Pa.—"I never felt like working, and when I would try to do any work standing on my feet, I would just drag around all day long. At times I would have terrible pains and would be in bed three or four days. I was in this condition about a year when I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers. I had heard different women say it was good for women's troubles, and my aunt thought it would help me as it had helped her. So I took the Vegetable Compound and it brought things right, and I was in good shape before I became a mother again. I believe it helps at birth, too, as with both my other babies I suffered a great deal more than with this one. I thank you a thousand times for the good your medicine has done me. It has surely made our home a happy one."—Mrs. ROBERT PRICE, Scotac, Pa. In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use.
