MRS. ELLWOOD TELLS ME OF GUY'S MISFORTUNE

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters

Rita Hall, at 16 is left orphaned and destitute. She goes to live with her father's half-sister in Los Angeles. Rita takes care of the aunt who denies her all youthful pleasures and companionship. She also promises to leave the home to Rita but at death wills it, and all other possessions, to Jim Bond, the son of an old sweetheart, a very common fellow.

Rita answers an ad for a traveling companion and is employed by a Mrs. Ellwood, whose nephew Barton Ellwood, she dislikes. The remainder of the Ellwood family Rita likes, with the exception of the son, Guy, who bothers her with his attentions. Mollie, the daughter, is attracted by Larry Ward of whom her parents disapprove. Mrs. Ellwood becomes more of an invalid and Rita's duties increase.

Rush Millburn, doctor, takes her to ride. Guy is resentful and locks her in the library where he tells her he loves her. Rita threatens to call for help.

Chapter XXV.

At my threat, Guy released me, and unlocked the door.

"I'll not give you up," he declared as I hurriedly passed from the room, quivering with anger and fear.

"What should I do? I thought of appealing to Mr. Ellwood, but decided it wouldn't be wise. He might think I had led Guy on—I was poor, Guy wealthy. I could think of no solution of the problem save to avoid him, keep out of his way as much as possible. I could not let him drive me away. I would not. And not entirely because of myself. Mrs. Ellwood had told me I was like a daughter; she depended upon me, was learning to love me.

But I was terribly distressed. The next time Doctor Millbank asked me to take a ride with him, I refused. But he spoke to Mrs. Ellwood and she insisted I accompany him.

"Guy will sit with me. I know he is at home. I heard his voice a moment ago," she told me when I demurred.

I had not spoken with Guy since the scene in the library. I felt not only angry, but ashamed that he should have held me in his arms, kissed me. It was with reluctance that I went to call him.

"Your mother wishes to see you," I said, then passed to my room to prepare for my ride.

As I reentered the room I heard Mrs. Ellwood saying:

"Rita is too closely confined. I have persuaded her to go for a drive with Doctor Millbank. You will sit with me until she returns, won't you?" She refuses to leave me alone."

"Of course I will," he said, then gave me such an angry look I shivered. But we went out at once, and I dismissed him from my mind as far as possible.

"You are unlike yourself today," Rush Millbank looked keenly at me.

"Is something worrying you?"

"Yes, no, nothing much," I stammered.

"Can I help?"

"No, it isn't as serious as that," I replied, wondering what he would think of me if he knew.

"If I can at any time, just let me know. I'll be right there 'with bells on,' as my kid nephew says."

"Thank you, I'll remember."

He began to talk of other things, and by the time our ride was over I had almost forgotten the whole distressing circumstance. As he left me at the door he said:

"Remember I have your promise."

I nodded and ran into the house. It was good to have such a friend.

Guy left the room as I entered. Passed me without a word, although his eyes searched me.

"You had a nice, refreshing ride?" Mrs. Ellwood asked, peering at me in her pitiful way.

"Indeed I did, I feel like new."

"That's good Rita, have you noticed that Guy seems upset about something?" she asked after a short silence. It had come. She knew.

"Why no, not particularly. You know I see him very little."

"Of course. I had not thought of that." I breathed more freely.

"We seldom speak of it, never outside of the family, but I want your help, so will tell you. And you are one of the family now."

I straightened her pillows while she talked.

"Guy was gassed in the war. For a time we feared for his reason. We have been very careful not to cross him, or to have him worried. I know he is anxious about me, yet that scarcely accounts for his nervous manner."

"He is terribly changed, he was the happiest, most likeable boy in the world, has been since, at times. But I felt today that he was slipping back. Oh, if I could only see his face more clearly."

So that was why I never had been able to understand Guy, even from the first I had felt there was something queer about him. Poor boy. I pacified Mrs. Ellwood as best I could, and then left her to face a new problem, not a love sick young man who had offended me, but a poor gassed boy who wasn't quite right.

JAPAN SURPRISED AT INTEREST RATE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) TOKIO, Feb. 13.—Surprise and disappointment marked the reception in financial circles and by the press of news of the flotation of Japan's reconstruction loans in New York and London.

The disappointment is due to the cost of the loan to the government, which locally is considered higher than the state of Japanese credit warrants.

The bankers feel that if the government is compelled to pay more than seven per cent for a foreign loan, the outlook for private interests seeking funds abroad is dark.

NATURALIZATION EXAMINER TO BE HERE ON FRIDAY

A naturalization examiner from the U. S. naturalization service, will be in Roseburg on Friday, February 15, prepared to assist any ex-service men whose discharge entitles them to naturalization under the terms of the act. The act of congress under which ex-service men who served during the late war may be naturalized expires March 3, of this year, so that all who desire to take advantage of the opportunity to submit their claim, should appear before the examiner before filing any petition for naturalization. The examiner will be at the office of the county clerk, where he may be seen by any ex-service men interested in filing claims.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH REVIVAL ENJOYABLE

Faith in Action, proved to be a most interesting theme at the Christian church revival last evening. The large audience listened with great interest while the evangelist was bringing scripture and illustration and illuminating this great subject. The song service as usual was a stirring service, and all greatly enjoyed that service. The evangelist is a great believer in prayer and each evening fifteen minutes before the service a large number gather in a prayer meeting, this together with the Bible reading is developing a great interest in the Bible itself. Tonight the evangelist will speak on "Repent or Perish."

A male quartette has been organized consisting of Mr. Altheide, Mr. Stivers, Mr. Olson and Chas. Stanton. This quartette will sing tonight.

No meeting held in this church has begun with greater promise or larger interest. People are attending each evening and filling the auditorium, and enjoy the music and listen intently to the great Bible sermons. Some have already presented themselves, while others indicate that they are thinking very seriously. Those who like good music and good speaking, and plain Bible presentations will greatly enjoy every minute of these evenings spent in the church.

PENDLETON BOOZE POURED IN SEWER

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) PENDLETON, Feb. 13.—A copper still with a capacity of 50 gallons was brought in from Adams last night by W. R. Taylor, chief of police of Pendleton and as a result of the raid which he conducted, Will Leight, Adams man was fined $250 and given a 30 day jail sentence in the justice court at Athens. Five barrels of mash were found and eight gallons of alleged moonshine in a keg, which was duly brought to Pendleton and poured in the gutters before a crowd of W. C. T. U. workers. In addition to the liquor secured in the Adams raid, approximately 50 gallons of alleged moonshine that had accumulated as a result of other raids went into the sewer.

Ouch! My Back! Rub Lumbago Pain Away

Rub Backache away with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints!

stated that all students would be required to bring their parents with them in order to get back to school. This morning a large number came to school with their fathers or mothers accompanying them, while other parents called up over the telephone. Students who failed to follow the instructions for returning, were required to remain out of school until the parents interceded in their behalf.

JUST ACCOMPANIES UNIVERSITY TEAM

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Feb. 13.—(Special.)—Charles Jost of Roseburg, forward and guard on the University of Oregon basketball team, entrained Monday night with the webfoot tossers and will play against the University of Idaho Vandals at Moscow on February 13, the Washington State Cougars, at Pullman, on February 15 and the Whitman Missionaries at Walla Walla, on February 16.

The trip which will take the Oregon tossers into the campus of stubborn enemies and strong aggregations, will give the Roseburg man plenty of opportunities to distinguish himself as a basketballer. Jost will return to the campus next Sunday or early Monday morning.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister. Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.
