The crop in the Williamette valley was a total failure, for several hours shopping and atowing to the extremely cold weather experienced there. The Umpqua valley climate, however, proved ideal for the perfect growth of broccoli this year, and there was a loss from cold in only the most exposed sections. The bulk of the loss came from inexperience on the part of the new growers, poorly drained soil and improper planting. The fact that practically so per cent of the broccoli planted is unsurpassable quality, while other unsurpassable quality, while other crop, if a positive proof of the superiority of the Umpqua valley climate. Roseburg business men, after a most complete investigation, have rejected the proposal of the Roseburg Gas and Oil company that Roseburg take over and finance the drilling of a test well on the company's holding east of Roseburg, and in a written report it is stated that it is believed that sufficient funds could not be raised to finance the project, and that improperly financed, the undertaking could only result in fallurand financial loss.

The Roseburg Oil and Gas company was formed some time ago and is made up largely of Portland men. Leases were secured on approximate being and on North Deer Creek and a test location secured on the Hoffsteadt place. The company also leased land at the Stewart anch.
