I hereby announce myself a republican candidate for sheriff of Douglas county, at the May primaries. Frank M. Hopkins, Canyonville, Oregon. (P. Adv.)

HAVE CORN EXHIBIT

The Chamber of Commerce is making a fine showing of field corn at the Jackson street office. This corn is of excellent quality and would take a prize in any show. It was furnished to the Chamber of Commerce by Robert McKay of Brockway and G. A. Anderson of Melrose. Secretary Holbein is keeping the windows of the office filled with samples of Umpqua valley products and many tourists and strangers are being attracted by the fine showing. Farmers are giving good cooperation by bringing in good specimens of produce for exhibition.

A Good Thing - DON'T MISS IT.

Send your name and address plainly written together with 5 cents (and this slip) to Chamberlain's Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, and receive in return a trial package containing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchial, "flu" and whooping cough, and tickling throat; Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for stomach troubles, indigestion, gassy pains that crowd the heart, biliousness and constipation; Chamberlain's Salve, needed in every family for burns, scalds, wounds, piles, and skin affections; these valued family medicines for only 5 cents. Don't miss it.

Revelations of a Paid Companion

By JANE PHELPS
 Author of "My Husband and I," "A Wife's Story," etc.

I KEEP MY TRYST WITH JIM BOND Chapter XXXVI.

Like a thief I slipped quietly from the house, taking a little used path to the lake, glancing back frequently, and not breathing freely until the house was no longer visible.

I had resented his order—it was nothing less—that I come alone. For a moment I had hesitated, almost ready to defy him, tell him I had changed my mind, would not see him, but prudence told me he would seek me at the house if I did, and Guy might see him—the others also. So I swallowed my resentment as best I could and started for the boat-house.

Some little distance away I spied him walking back and forth near the place. He saw me almost at the same time, and came to meet me.

"Come to your senses at last, have you?" he asked.

"I thought you would. Taint every man would give you another chance."

"A chance for what?" I queried coldly, determined to make him declare himself plainly so that I might also plainly dismiss him—forever.

"A chance to be the wife of an honest man. I suppose you think one of them swells living where you do will marry you, but they won't. Their kind never do. They don't bother with a minister."

He had ticked so fast, his words tumbling over each other, that I could not reply. But as he hesitated a moment after the last sentence I broke in:

"There is no use discussing this matter further, Mr. Bond. I never shall marry you, and only met you this morning so that you might plainly understand my attitude, and not waste your time longer."

I was terribly indignant at his insult, yet managed to keep my voice calm. I realized that I had nothing to gain by angering him, and that it was dangerous to prolong the interview.

"So I ain't good enough for you now," he sneered.

"There was a time when I might have taken you, when you didn't know any swells to make you look down on one of your own kind. Your aunt asked me to marry you, give you to me. And she didn't know how rich I was going to be when she wanted me to share with you. I'm richer than then fellows who look down on me. I can give you everything you want."

His tone was now wheedling.

"I will be good to you, Rita."

"No, Guy. I told you he was a poor fellow whom my aunt befriended. He is half crazy I think."

I whispered the last words.

"Come let's get away from here."

Protesting, I led Guy from the place, followed by ribald oaths from Bond, and the shrill declaration that he wasn't through. But I gave him, his insults, no thought. All my anxiety was for the white-faced, trembling boy at my side.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—and then just to keep them fit. 50c and 30c.
