What God Says about FAITH FILLED HUMILITY

"Lord I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed."

Notice that it wasn't the servant that was unworthy. If that centurion had had some of the notions that possess the heads and hearts of some employers today, he would have said, "Oh, don't trouble to come, Lord, he isn't worth your journey to my house, but still he is profitable to me, and you can heal him with a word."

Not so, Mr. Centurion, it was he who wasn't worthy. Who is worthy of Christ's coming to them for ministry? And yet, a lot of us act much as if we were condescending to let him come. It is an irreverent attitude and the people are irreverent.

This soldier realized that he was under orders, and hence he knew how to give orders. He recognized and was obedient to authority, and he knew it was his business to humbly salute the Captain of his Salvation. Yes, he knew Jesus was Captain, and he knew, by faith, that He had Salvation for the servant, and he asked for it at a respectful distance.

It's a wonderful combination—faith-filled humility. Coming with boldness to the throne of grace is not incompatible with coming humbly and reverently. Indeed, I believe that implicit faith is born of reverence. But read this soldier story for yourself. There's lots of meat in it.
