ROSEBURG, OREGON, TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 1924.

ACTION IS DEEPLY DEPLORED.

The action of the local school board in dismissing responsible and efficient school teachers without any apparent cause does not meet with approval of the public generally. If there is any one public institution where the broadest and most comprehensive methods of real business leadership should be applied that institution is our school system. It should not be made a plaything and set to ridicule by any action other than of the purest motives. Trifling with an institution built for training young minds and rounding out better citizenship will prove disastrous to the very vitals of true Americanism. Unless there is a sufficient reason—so far not made public in the case at hand—it would be far better to avoid any action likely to discredit and upset an institution so dear to the heart of every good citizen. The best recommendation for instructors in public schools is the love of those pupils under their charge. The innocent mind of a child is the best criterion to the expression of a teacher's worth. And the outbursts of regret in almost every household in Roseburg today in reference to the recent action of the majority of the members of the school board is the best evidence of the true worth of those who have been dismissed from service in our public schools. Constructive criticism should not be stifled, but welcomed, when applied to our public school system. It should be made in the sincerest spirit and proclaimed in no uncertain tones. But to do a thing, or commit an act, unsupported by facts, is certainly not conducive to the best interests of the public at large. Fair and impartial treatment in all things pertaining to our educational system should be paramount.

Several college professors have been experimenting on the idea of transmitting thought waves through the air by radio instruments. Thereby they touch the problem of telepathy, a supposed mysterious connection between minds. Two people who often have noticed that they have been talking about something, then were silent, and all at once it was discovered that both had been thinking about the same thing, but something different from the previous subject discussed. Some say this proves thought transference, while others maintain it proves only that two congenial minds were working along parallel lines. Many people claim to have realized through some mysterious power the experiences that distant friends were undergoing. Perhaps it is only coincidence, since many times such imaginings prove unfounded. The mysterious powers of the human mind are not thoroughly explored, and there is a big field for research and experiment here.

A recent European traveler remarked that the working people of Europe were supposed to be suffering severely from unemployment and other war conditions. But he said that those people over there knew how to deal with such conditions better than Americans do. If their factories shut down, they always had little industries that could be carried on at home. They cultivated gardens, utilized every foot of soil, raised poultry and rabbits, carried on lace making and woodcarving and other arts. In this country, if the shops shut down, thousands of people are often completely idle. Ingenious and industrious people ought to have incidental lines of activity that would help out in times of special need.

Well, as has been said before, too many cooks spoil the broth. Over-zealous interest in putting their particular brand of fire apparatus over the city duds by a new method of wire-pulling have postponed an otherwise good asset to the community. It pays to be honest—even when you deal with the public—and those Portland concerns that made an attempt to distribute their product through private channels have met with defeat.

The airplane birds are on their way north today. Around the world by air is a new wrinkle in transportation, but the newest thing may be brought to a reality in the present demonstration.

The rights of the people must be respected. You cannot override public opinion—when that opinion is almost unanimous.

Wonderful how this spring weather holds out. Brother Bell is certainly a good booster for the Umpqua valley.

SENIOR PLAY AT ANTLERS TOMORROW. Everything is in readiness for the presentation tomorrow night of "Adam and Eve," the annual dramatic production of the Senior Class of the High School. For the past week the able cast headed by Miss Evelyn Quina, and Percy Webb have been working to bring out the fine points of the play, and it is believed that "Adam and Eve" will probably be one of the most enjoyable from a public standpoint, of the amateur plays of the past few years. The majority of the scenery is being built by the Seniors under the direction of Chester Brothers of the

LOCAL MUSICIANS WITH O. A. C. BAND

Four Roseburg boys will play with the Oregon Agricultural College military band tonight in the concert and dance at the armory. Clifford Fields, Chester Morgan, Maurice Newland and Roy Patrick formerly of Roseburg, were selected with the 36 men picked for this southern Oregon and northern California tour. Morgan will take part in a trombone musical kit as one feature of the program. A special feature of the concert here will be the singing of Mrs. Elsie Carlton Strang with band accompaniment. Mrs. Strang is the wife of F. L. Strang who played with the band on its first tour of southern Oregon.

Other Roseburg men who have played with the college band are Harry Crocker, Claude Crocker, Ralph Terrill and his son Irving of Medford, Walter Gannon, John Hatfield and James Campbell.

Popular, classic, patriotic and religious music is played by the band under the direction of its leader, Captain H. L. Beard, who has had much experience as a musician and director. He was a student of Herbert L. Clark, famous American musician, and has successfully led the college band for 19 years. The program to be given here includes selections of light and heavy music that appeals to every audience.

With olive drab military uniforms complete leather leggings and orange-lined capes, the band is said to present an appearance that is in harmony with the quality of music it plays. Drilled to march with precision and led by the drum major that led the band which won in the marching contest last year at San Francisco more than a year ago, the O. A. C. military band received much favorable comment from the town visited on its 1500 mile trip to Boise last fall. A large number of persons from Southern Oregon who attended the U. of O.-O. A. C. football game at Eugene last fall were particularly impressed with the music played and the training showed by the O. A. C. band.

CAMAS VALLEY NEWS ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Brown and the health nurse, Mrs. Grandy, visited our school Friday, March 7. Mrs. Grandy stated that our primary room has the best health work of all the schools she has visited thus far. The school board of Union High met with Mr. and Mrs. Brown in the afternoon and discussed plans for a new school building. County Superintendent Brown reported that State Superintendent Churchill, or his assistant, will visit our school in the near future, for the purpose of inspecting the equipment and the library of the high school. Miss McCormack, who has been absent for several days on account of the illness of her mother, resumed her teaching Wednesday morning. Due to the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richter, the high school listened in on the radio debate between the Universities of Oregon and California Friday, February 29. After the debate refreshments were served by Mrs. Richter. The students of the high school are busy working on the constitutional orations. Vera Parrott and Harold Seigel have been absent for several days on account of sickness. Miss Bastford spent the week-end in Eugene. Two sets of interesting Washington and Lincoln were Friday morning of last week. Among the visitors last week were Mrs. W. R. Dick, Mrs. Ralph Richter, Mrs. Story Martin, and Mrs. and Mrs. Wilfred Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Brown visited Sunday in Drain, visiting with Brown's father, Mr. Farnum Brown's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Brown was destroyed by fire on Monday. As the family of Brown was at home when the fire started, little was saved. There seems to be quite a small epidemic spreading over the present. Miss Laura Stubble became bride of Mr. Beach Chapman and Mrs. Alice Church and Mrs. Duncan, on March 14. Wednesday, March 14, Mr. Gerald Lankford of the Valley gave an interesting talk on Wednesday from Trail with formerly Miss Marjory Smith, young couple expect to be married home in Camas. WHY BE SICK? Pure blood and good means perfect health. Get Magnetic Baths, 200 Post.
