PAPER ASKED AND SAFETY PLANS

paper men throughout the will be asked to cooperate in its effort to educate the public to the need for safer driving, whenever possible, the cause of each accident or fatal announcement comes from the headquarters of the A. A. A. following a discussion of the members of the National Club. The plan is thought to be the first practical move of an automobile association to the heart of this growing accident.

Two Facts Demanded.

Facts are demanded by the in every accident, they point the first is how it happened and the extent of the damage. The reporter, they say, makes a story of the latter, but in Ore.—For about three I was in very poor health, suffering with feminine weakness. I became very thin, nervous, could not sleep, my appetite was poor. I suffered all the time with aches and especially backaches and headaches. I was a physical wreck. I had Dr. Purse's Favorite Prescription and it relieved all my weakness and so completely brought back my health that I never had to take any medicine, and have kept well and strong ever since.

At once with this "Prescription" I see how quickly you pick up and get stronger and better. Write Mrs. L. M. Barnes, Hotel in B. Y., for free advice or send trial pkg. tablets.

slides over the one feature of the story which could help others to avoid similar fates.

"By merely presenting the facts," contends President Thomas P. Henry, "the reporter can frequently give the reader a cue for the formation of his own conclusions and without in any way exposing the paper to libel. It is highly important that the reader form a correct conclusion from what he reads, but if he is only encouraged to think about the accident and seek an explanation some progress has been made toward removing the causes of accidents."

In presenting the matter to the press the A. A. A. official quoted several automobile manufacturers in saying that "he news of automobile accidents treated as generalities has a very depressing effect upon nervous drivers, causing them to 'think' accidents when their driving is otherwise satisfactory."

It is also pointed out that where the facts are not fully revealed those who drive in a highly undesirable way do not appreciate the fate that awaits them if they fail to reform. They assume that safety in driving is a matter of luck or predestination and so continue on their foolhardy mission of handicapping automobile transportation, declares Henry.

Rules of Wisdom.
"The A. A. A. contends," he says, "that when a motorist learns the cause of an accident he invariably acts accordingly, continuing to apply his usual rules of wisdom if the cause is not in his line and revising his methods if he sees they have not been successful for others."

"Thousands of people have manufactured causes to their own disadvantage, and it is the job of the automobile clubs to co-operate with the newspapers in an effort to make all automobile news of this character serve some good purpose."

"When an intoxicated driver runs wild with his car and sends himself to the hospital, and conscientious motorists get to interpreting the news as a result of some natural cause such as unavoidable skidding, confusion or the failure of a working part of the car's controls, it is high time to tell the facts."

"The newspaper is the logical place for the facts, and the A. A. A. will therefore urge the cooperation of each of its several hundred affiliated auto clubs in seeing that stories of accidents are followed up so that the local paper will be able to present to its reader-motors the truth about each accident as it is developed through police investigation and analysis, rather than as it first appears as a piece of sensationalism."

PACIFIC HIGHWAY ENJOYS BIG TRAVEL

In point of travel, the Pacific Highway, leading northward to Oregon, is California's most important interstate connection. This increasing travel probably is the reason for the recent widespread discussion of this highway, which has uncompleted sections north of Redding.

Without going into the reasons for this, it is sufficient to say that the present California Highway Commission is in no way responsible for the conditions which it inherited. We are, however, proud of the program we are making in the effort to complete these interstate trunk lines at the earliest possible date, and in accordance with the highest standards of engineering.

Our answer to the criticism, coming from the north and elsewhere

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens
So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mossy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Relieves Headache

A little Musterole, rubbed on forehead and temples, will usually drive away headache. A clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard, Musterole is a natural remedy with none of the evil after-effects so often caused by "internal medicine."

regarding the Pacific highway, is the fact that today we have 1,479,296.94 obligated in going contracts and day labor work between Redding and the Oregon line. With one exception, every contract was authorized by the present commission, and the exception was modified to provide for a wider grade after we took office.

We found sections of this route graded in accordance with standards which are not up to those of the present day. We have launched forth on a bold program to re-build large portions of the road north of Redding and to widen the grade in many places before paving is undertaken.

The mileage not only will be shortened some five miles between Redding and Dunsmuir alone, but this increasingly important highway will be made safer and the amount of traffic which it can handle will be greatly increased. Paving under any other circumstances would be folly.

We found pavement eighteen feet in width, but we will build nothing under twenty feet in the future. Grades are being widened to thirty feet, exclusive of drainage structures, and sharp curves are being widened out to a minimum radius of 300 feet.

The Pacific Highway, which connects with San Francisco, via Benicia and Vallejo, is one of the great highways of the West. It is open the year round between Mexico and British Columbia, and the volume of traffic which will move up and down the Coast over this route, after it has been completely paved is almost beyond conception. This is evident from the startling increase in travel during the last two years.

Completion of the Redwood Highway and the Oregon coast highway, known in that state as the Roosevelt Highway, will relieve the Pacific route of much tourist and vacation travel, but it always will remain a great commercial highway.

Desert Hero Learned Marriage Was Subduing

Mrs. Rosita Forbes, English traveler, who recently paid a visit in his native haunts to Raisuli, Morocco's bandit chief, who died recently, relates in the New York Times a story concerning the way a desert Romeo was tamed, and how he was made wise in the taming.

The Romeo, a big, strong and handsome tribesman, rode better, shot better and was just about a better man all around than his fellows, when one day the sheriff, Raisuli, thought he would confer a favor upon him in recognition of his prowess. The sheriff asked him what he desired.

"Marry me," implored the Romeo, "marry me."

Raisuli looked about for a suitable wife, and found one, a desert maiden of fine form and face. The wedding took place with a great to-do. But, thereafter, the man changed his ways. He stuck to his tent. He quit displaying his abilities altogether. Idly around his home he sat, and his fellows wondered. Then one day a spirited horse, one of the finest belonging to the tribe, got loose. Men started after it, and the animal passed by Romeo's tent.

The pursuers were expending a lot of effort with no result. Puffing and panting, they came upon the newlywed at his tent.

"What shall we do, what shall we do?" they shouted, as the stallion hooped it swiftly away.

"Marry him," answered the forlorn Romeo, "marry him."

Ship Has Rooms for Pets From the Tropics

The high mortality in living souvenirs collected annually by American tourists cruising the West Indies has led to many unique methods for their preservation.

Special quarters have been constructed on a steamship for the care of monkeys, parrots and other tropical pets. Rows of small houses, electrically heated to the temperature of the country from which each animal pet comes, are in charge of a marine janitor whose duty is to see that the fixed temperature is maintained and his charges receive their proper tropical fodder.

The owners of the ships decided that a dollar a day for each monkey or parrot house shall be the maximum charge, including heat, janitor service and food.

The question of caring for the souvenirs collected on cruises by Americans is growing in importance. On a world cruise it is not unusual for the 400 passengers to accumulate five or six tons of mementos, including many articles of value from the standpoint of dollars and cents.

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.
