SENTENCED TO A LIVING DEATH

Rescued By Kortex After Flu Nearly Got Him.

"After having flu for four months," says Henry R. Haines of Corvallis, "I came out in a condition worse than death. I had no vigor, strength or courage. After taking kortex, I gained 10 pounds right away and it seemed to put new life into my nerves and made my blood circulate faster. Now I am full of pep again."

According to enthusiastic users, the benefits of kortex are complete and lasting. Thousands the world over are now using this wonder compound. Weary and worn-out men and women, sufferers from muscular pain, lack of appetite, lessened vigor and low glandular activity, will be interested in learning that the American distributors of kortex compound, have arranged for kortex to be sold in Roseburg, Oregon, at Lloyd Crocker's Pioneer Drug Store, 241 North Jackson street. Ask about kortex compound the next time you are in this drug store.

FRENCH ACCEPT REPORT OF EXPERTS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) PARIS, April 21.—Acceptance of the French government of the Dawes report as a basis for a new reparations settlement has been formally registered with the reparations commission in the form of a letter from Premier Poincare to Louis Barthou, president of the commission.

The premier makes no reservations, but points out that the French government supposes it is understood that all deals insuring realization of the guarantees the experts propose will be effected before allies are called upon to give up the pledges they now hold.

Try This For NEURITIS

"Neuritis may be localized in a single nerve or may be general, involving a large number of nerves. For quick and lasting relief pharmacists have for the past few months dispensed Joint-Ease—a stainless, penetrating remedy that, when rubbed over the affected parts for about one minute, soaks right in so that no trace is left on the skin.

Joint-Ease is for limbering up stiff joints, reducing the swelling and causing the pain to disappear, and for this purpose thousands of tubes are sold daily—60 cents at Nathan Fullerton and druggists everywhere.

Always remember when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—Quick.

THE HALF-TIME WIFE

By VIOLET DARE.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.

SUZANNE ATWOOD, the young bride of GEOFFREY ATWOOD, a prominent business man, is faced by the fact that his secretary, LINDA VALE, is trying to come between them. Angry because Geoffrey has been seen with Mrs. Vale when she thought him out of town, Suzanne determines to flirt with DUNCAN HALE, a young army officer to whom she was once engaged, although she is devoted to Geoffrey and to his two nephews, DICK and LARRY LEIGH.

but that account was all drawn out too. And Mrs. Vale had not sent her the checks to cover the two amounts.

"I can't do it after all, Dickie," she told him. "I've all but over-drawn my account as it is. So I guess you'll have to go to Geoff. Only perhaps—well, he's arranged to have Mrs. Vale handle all that sort of thing for him, so maybe you'd better go straight to her."

"Not I—I hate the female!" he replied vehemently.

"She told me once that she'd like to be a mother to me—gosh! She even kissed me. If Geoff's too busy to write me a check once a month he can get me another guardian. I'll tell him so."

Suzanne sighed, wishing that she could follow the boy's example. She was still sitting in the sun parlor when the telephone rang, and she was informed that Mr. Atwood wished to speak to her. A moment's delay, and Geoff's voice came to her over the wire.

"Suzanne? Honey, some friends of mine from out of town are here—important clients. I'm taking them to luncheon at the Seward Club; will you meet us there at one?"

Suzanne drew a long breath. Evidently it was a society wife that he wanted now, not a business one. "Why don't you ask Mrs. Vale to go?" she asked, trying to keep her voice as suave as his.

"Suzanne! This is no time to joke. I shall expect you to meet me at the club at one."

"Geoff, I can't!" But he had hung up the receiver. She rose angrily. Certainly she wouldn't go. Then suddenly she remembered that this was Thursday—the day of Mrs. Haines' luncheon for the patronesses of the charity ball. She had promised to go.

She picked up the phone again, asked for Geoff and got Mrs. Vale, who assured her that she would take the message.

"Very well," Suzanne's voice was crisp. "Please tell my husband that I have a previous engagement for luncheon this noon." She told Mrs. Vale what it was, rejoicing in its importance—Geoff couldn't question that! But it was hard not to cry, as she went upstairs to dress.

ATTENDING CONVENTION. Fire Chief James Fletcher left yesterday for Corvallis to attend the annual convention of fire chiefs. The city would not pay the cost of sending the fire chief to the convention so the department voted to take care of his expenses from department funds, and volunteer firemen are donating their services in handling the fire truck during his absence.

HYDRANT WRECKED. A hydrant on Winchester and Rowe streets was struck this morning by an automobile and completely wrecked. The water nearly flooded that section before the stream could be shut off. Officers are endeavoring to locate the person responsible for the accident in order to collect the costs.

circumstances, he said, and was assured that "Mr. Scalfie would not give any more publicity," to the matter. It was printed in Springfield, however, the speaker added, "substantially as I have told it here."

"Everybody likes a joke on a prominent man," he said. "For a witness before you to throw out a bold statement that I got liquor on the department of justice when he knew the facts or had opportunity to know the facts—well, that's an outrage. I won't try to conjecture what his motive may be—he may desire notoriety."

Scalfie insisted his "information" not only came from Representative Woodruff, who had been active along with Scalfie in the impeachment fight against Attorney-General Daugherty in 1922, but from "various sources." Among other things, he said "there was a report by Special Agent Cox." He also named Dr. Samuel Wright and "a man named Bunch" who brought suits to recover some of the liquor seized at the union station here.

The committee then called F. M. Bucher, a department of justice investigator who testified that "he was dismissed" by William J. Burns "when he came in," said he had made one "delivery" of seized liquor to a "house on H street."

"Who lived in this house?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Smith." "You mean Jess Smith?" "Yes."

The witness said he had "escorted" the liquor consignment to the H street house, but did not what person it was delivered to. As to other deliveries, he referred the committee to the boys who drove the cars, who made the deliveries.

Boucher said he had seen seized liquor "stored" in the "chief's office" and the best of it "put in the safe" while the rest was taken to the basement.

The delivery to the house on H street, Boucher said, was in 1921, "after the attorney-general took office."

"How much was taken to Daugherty's house?" Chairman Brookhart inquired.

"It was four or six quarts," Boucher said.

The liquor taken from Bunch, he said, was spread out on the floor in the office of the bureau of investigation and the good liquor put in the safe while the bad was taken to the cellar. He saw the performance, he said "and an agent named Alden and Grover Williams, secretary to the chief" did the work.

Bunch, he said, was stalled off, when he tried to get back the liquor with a court order.

Under cross-examination Boucher said he was angry about his discharge but "got over it."
