test the enemies of public welfare," the committee demands primarily a revival of the spirit of honesty, integrity and high mindedness in public office.

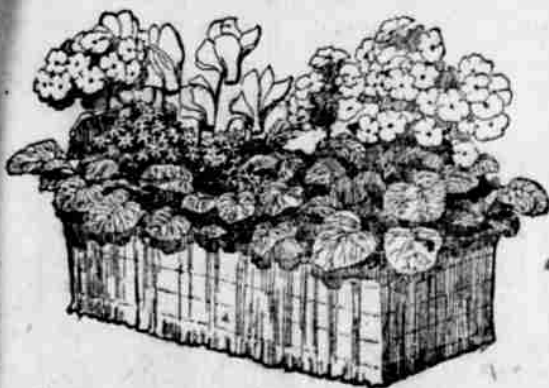

Legislative demands include modification of the Volstead Act to legalize 2.5 per cent beer, establishment of a permanent immigration policy of "strict exclusion," sharply graduated income and inheritance taxes, repeal of the Sherman anti-trust act, and the abolition of the railroad labor board with the setting up of new money for the settlement of the dispute between the carriers and their employees.

DELAWARE ENTERS A CANDIDATE FOR PRES.

(Associated Press Special Wire.)

DOVER, Delaware, May 7.—The democratic state convention endorsed former United States Senator Saulsbury as the state's choice for the presidential nomination. The convention decided to send a delegation of ten to the national convention made up of two delegates with one vote each and eight with a half vote each. Among the delegates chosen were former United States Senator Bayard and Congressman W. H. Boyce.

SAVED FROM RAPID DECLINE

WHEELS OF PROVIDENCE BROUGHT ME KOREX, SAYS MINISTER.

"I doubt whether korex has its equals in the medical world," says the Rev. George B. Pinckney of 507 Lawrence St., Burlington, New Jersey. "for in the eight years of rapid decline, I tried everything known which a poor man could or couldn't afford, and none brought relief. Each day I declined more swiftly, until the wheels of Providence brought korex compound. I'm in almost perfect shape now, and I think it a blessing to suffering humanity."

According to enthusiastic users, the benefits of korex are complete and lasting. Thousands the world over are now using this wonder compound. Weary and worn-out men and women, sufferers from muscular pains, lack of appetite, lessened vigor and low glandular activity, will be interested in learning that the American distributors of korex compound, have arranged for korex compound to be sold in Roseburg, Oregon at Lloyd Crocker's Pioneer Drug Store, 241 North Jackson street. Ask about korex compound the next time you are in this drug store.

OLD BOSTON STREET KNOWN TO HISTORY YIELDS TO PROGRESS

BOSTON, May 7.—Sunlight has returned to Governor's Alley, which for 91 years has been known to Boston as Province street. The little, narrow thoroughfare, with its 15-inch sidewalks on either side, runs through a part of the city rich in tradition. Crossing from Bromfield street to School street, parallel to Washington and Tremont streets, the old roadway may best be remembered by visitors by the picturesque flight of stone steps leading down to it from one end of Bowdoin street.

The street is now being widened, letting in the sunshine where for so many years the shadows have lain heavily under the close, high walls. Landmarks have gone by the board in the work of improvement. A pathetic old sign, "Province Inn," which once stood for mirth and joviality, liquid and other refreshment, which hung to a partly dismantled wall to the last, was one of the landmarks to go.

Unless efforts being made to save them prove successful, the old stone steps, surmounted by their ornamental iron arch and lamp, are doomed to go also.

The old street for 130 years bore the name Governor's Alley, up to the time of the change to Province Street in 1833. It was then made a "modern street" with its 15-inch sidewalks and cobblestone paving.

Originally it was a country lane. After the royal governors who came from England to rule the colony of Massachusetts, had descended from their carriages at the Province House on what is now Washington street, the horses were driven around to the stables on "Governor's Alley." Now, the slice of land being added to the street, is cut from what once was the governor's apple orchard.

On this site the first Catholic church to be erected in Boston was built in 1788. Nearby was the Second Universalist church in 1817, and it was there that the renowned Rev. Hosea Ballou was ordained and preached. The entrance from Bowdoin street was once Montgomery Court, named in honor of General Montgomery who lost his life when he tried to take Quebec.

It was on Bowdoin street that Oliver Wendell Holmes lived when he wrote "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." Bowdoin street, itself, up to 1909 years ago, had been occupied by the gardens of fashionable mansions in Tremont and Bromfield streets.

Increasing congestion in traffic conditions in the narrow thoroughfares of older Boston has resulted in the widening operations now in progress.

SOUTH METHODIST CHURCH TO OBSERVE FATHERS' NIGHT

The members of the South Methodist church will observe fathers' night next Friday evening, and an especial effort is being made to have every member of the church present, as well as friends of the church. A basket dinner will be served in the dining room at 7:30, and a suitable program has been arranged. The occasion will be an enjoyable one and worth while as well. This is not a part of any financial movement, but is in accordance with the growing popularity of "Father Observance." It is rapidly becoming the custom to thus observe the Friday evening preceding "Mother's Day" and affords a splendid opportunity for a social gathering of the church people.
