ROSEBURG, OREGON. FRIDAY, JUNE 13, 1924.

COST OF DISEASE

It is desirable to recognize that from the president of the United States to the laborer in the factory or on the farm, all citizens not physically incapacitated, are, or should be, workers. The fundamental needs are responsibilities of all citizens, and as to the maintenance of health are similar, and we cannot solve the problems of the laborer unless we consider him one of the great army of gainfully employed. There are over 400,000 individuals gainfully employed in the State of Oregon. Sickness is a hazard to which all are subjected and to which many fall victims. Those who are disabled by sickness suffer losses of time, cost of care, which varies from slight hardships easily borne, to those which absolutely ruin. There are today over 9,000 wage earners in Oregon confined to their homes on account of sickness. The workers lose on an average of seven days annually on account of sickness. 400,000 wage earners lose 2,800,000 days annually on account of sickness every year. At a daily minimum wage of $3 this means a loss of $8,400,000. $3,300,000 is spent annually for doctors. An equal amount is spent for nursing and hospital care. $4,000,000 is spent for drugs, mostly self-prescribed. Forty per cent of the deaths are preventable or at least postponable. The estimated value of the average life is $2500. In a state of this size with an annual death rate of 9,000—3,600 of these deaths are from preventable causes. At an average value of $2500 this would mean a loss of $22,500,000. Disease costs the State of Oregon over forty millions annually. As these expenditures do not consider many of the other expenses incident to illness, the expenses in reality are much greater. Sickness undoubtedly causes a tremendous loss, and to a certain extent is preventable. It certainly costs less to prevent disease. Public Health is purchasable and within natural limits, a community may determine its own death rate. Take health work from uncertainty and place it on sure ground. Make it a potent factor and it will pay. Surely if we are rich enough to spend $18 per capita for tobacco, $8 for candy and confections, $5 for patent medicine, tonics and drugs of questionable value, $1 for cosmetics and 75 cents for gum we should be willing to spend more than 10 cents per capita for the most essential part of life—health. Every community must estimate its own requirements and appropriate accordingly.

"Hell An' Maria" Dawes will make a pretty running mate for President Coolidge. While vice-presidents are usually forgotten immediately after the honor is thrust upon them it is quite likely that Mr. Dawes will be more of a power than any former vice-president. Plenty of vim, vigor and push, of which he has a good supply, will make him a prominent figure in national, affairs, even as a vice-president.

Don't overlook the News-Review baking contest and the fine prizes offered to the best bread and pastry cooks in the county. This city and county has always been famous for its fine women cooks and the quality of their product and the coming event will witness some excellent demonstrations along this line.

The Umpqua Chiefs are going to "storm" Looking Glass tonight—with bow and arrow. This live bunch of fellows are radiating the booster spirit with a degree of force, not only in our individual community, but throughout the state that will rebound with much good to Roseburg and the entire country.

———o———

And the American Legion drum corps, of Roseburg, walked away with the first prize at the Portland Rose show. You can just bet your bottom dollar that when a bunch from this city goes after anything they always bring home the bacon. Roseburg is mighty proud of its drum corps.

The Coos Bay Pirates, who are making a showing during the Portland Rose show in a body, are putting the Bay country on the map as usual. A lot of publicity is being handed out to this livewire bunch of business men.

CARAVAN FROM GLIDE BRINGS WORSHIPPERS

People from rural communities often motor to the city to attend picture shows, circuses or strawberry festivals, said Captain G. L. Hall, evangelist, this morning, but when has it been known that country folks have driven many miles to attend a prayer meeting in town? Last evening Rev. H. L. Caldwell was surprised at the crowd which came all the way from Glide to attend his prayer meeting at the Baptist church. In order to be on time the caravan started early in the evening. The country folks had cows to milk, turkeys to put to bed before the usual hour, and the cream separators to be cranked at the various farm homes before supper in order for these splendid people to arrive in town early enough to participate in the service.

But the way the Glide people carried off prizes during the recent strawberry carnival was sufficient evidence to prove that the people there are amply able to do things, so it is not surprising that they turned out fifty strong to the Roseburg prayer meeting, and they came singing to the tune of "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," the words being:

"We've not waited for another day of festival
That shall call us to your city fair.
But we come to join our hearts with yours and Jesus' name,
Telling His love in praise and prayer.

"Hurrah for Glide folks—here we are
Hurrah for Glide folks—here we are;
In the name of Jesus to your city from afar:
Hurrah for Glide folks—here we are."

The caravan was led by Captain G. L. Hall with his life-Long Dodge missionary car, and was a fitting termination to a successful series of meetings which he has recently held in Glide. Two converts were baptised at the close of the prayer meeting last night, Rev. Caldwell officiating.

Captain Hall will hold services at Bungalow school house next Sunday 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

PRESERVE NATION'S BEAUTIES.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

LOS ANGELES, June 12. — To carry out the policies laid down in the resolutions adopted by the current biennial session of the general federation of womens clubs, to continue the work begun by her predecessors and to preserve the natural resources and beauties of the country, these are the high lights of the first official statement issued by Mrs. John D. Sherman of Estes Park, Colorado, yesterday, elected president of the organization.

Mrs. Sherman laid special emphasis on the last mentioned plank in her platform, saying:

"The natural beauties and resources of our country must be preserved and I shall work for the conservation of our national forests and parks."

Resolutions before the convention today covered a wide range. One supported the establishment of a national art gallery at Washington to cost not more than $7,000,000 with congress appropriating the initial $2,500,000.

Another favored determination of clubs in the various states was to promote sex education.

COSHOW ELECTED GRAND MASTER

PORTLAND, June 13.—Oliver P. Coshow, justice of the supreme court of Oregon, whose home is in Roseburg, was today elected grand master of the Masonic lodge of Oregon. He was formerly deputy grand master.

Charters were granted at the grand lodge session today to three new chapters, one at Vernonia, and two in Portland, Westgate and Irvington.

The grand chapter pledged renewed support to the clubhouses maintained for students at Eugene and Corvallis.

The finance committee of the Grand Lodge of Oregon, A. F. & A. M., was working today on a proposal submitted to the convention by Grand Master George T. Cochran that the organization establish a charitable institution for helpless children somewhat similar to the Shrine hospital for crippled children.

The committee was expected to formulate a definite proposition to submit to the conclave on Friday. The lodge is meeting in annual convention at Washington Masonic Temple, East Eighth and Burnside streets.

The morning session was given over largely to routine matters and to the reports of comittees. The first of these was a dissertation on the immortality of the soul, delivered by the Rev. J. R. N. Bell of Corvallis, Chaplain of the grand lodge and chairman of the committee on necrology.

Interest in the afternoon was centered on the election of officers for the ensuing year.

The convention will continue throughout Friday, with installation of officers and a visit to the Shrine hospital on Sandy road.

BANKER IS OPPOSED TO THE INCOME TAX

(By United Press.)

SEASIDE, Ore., June 13. — Opposition to the state income tax and the direct primary system for nomination of candidates was expressed here today by Edgar H. Sensenich, president of the Oregon bankers association.

Sensenich's address was the keynote speech of the association's convention which met here today.

Sensenich declared the bill, heralded as a substantial relief for the farmer, had failed to help him and retarded the development of natural resources and industry through a retarding effect on investment.

Pointing to the record of congress just adjourned, he declared it quit "in disgrace before the people" and asked the question whether the direct primary system permitting "self appointed" candidates did not have something to do with the condition.
