BEGINNING LIFE

A great multitude of young people have this month completed courses of study on which they have spent a good part of their best years, and are about to begin work in earnest. It is a turning point of tremendous significance. For 10 or 15 years they have been studying out of books. This study has been wonderfully useful, and if faithfully carried on will make an incalculable difference in their success. But a good many things will not prove just as they appeared to be from the view-point of the class-room. Many students who have acquired much of the wisdom of books and professors, will find that their knowledge is somewhat looked down upon in the business world. Their somewhat elaborate theories will look unpractical to many business men who have won success by hard work and old fashioned methods. The first thing to be said to such a young person, is that he should enter the business or industrial world as a modest learner. He should understand that there is a great deal in any occupation that can not be taught by theory or general information. It has to be actually learned from doing it. A book may give valuable suggestions, but to swim they must work their arms and legs until they have learned how the water feels. The student is going up against a lot of people who have less learning than he, and in the long run he has a big advantage. But for the immediate present, they have a considerable advantage over him. They have learned certain practical lessons of observation and experience that the student has not had. The student must enter his new duties without any trace of "know-it-all" spirit, and must be willing and glad to learn from anyone who can teach him anything.

GLAD TO BE AN AMERICAN

In an extemporaneous speech at the recent convention of the National Electric Light Association, Owen D. Young, Chairman of the Board of the General Electric Company and one of the three American members of the Dawes Committee which recently rendered such valuable service to the Allied Reparations Commission, said:

"My attitude is very much like the story of the negro who was walking very rapidly and was stopped by someone who said to him, 'Mose, where are you going?" He replied, 'I ain't goin' nowhere. I's been whar I's goin' and now I'm goin' home.' The greatest pleasure which I have is in returning home.

"Nobody can enjoy a sojourn of three or four months in Europe with its difficulties and its problems, its suspicions and its distrusts, its promises for the future and its threats, without coming back to the wholesome atmosphere of America pleased as never before that he was born an American and will be permitted to live and die an American."

In a talk which consumed less than five minutes, Mr. Young painted a word picture which impressed on his listeners the wonderful possibilities before this nation. His simple statements which any school boy can understand should be an inspiration for every citizen to strive to maintain the conditions which have made this nation what it is today through a policy which encourages every individual in various lines of industry and endeavor.

Chairman Burton, speaking to the Republican national convention, made one remark that would be echoed by men of all political faiths. He said he wished he could say as much for the courage of all public men as for their honesty. Courage to stand up against hasty conclusions and superficial public opinion is often absent, he truly said. A public official does not want to be a "lame duck." To see his public career ended as a defeated candidate seems like a bitter termination to his ambitions. Hence he is often tempted to give up ideas that he believes to be right, for those he thinks are temporarily popular. The people have many whims and passing phases of thought, but they feel admiration for a man who sticks to his convictions. If he can show good reason for so doing, the public temper sometimes changes over night.

The young people have not fully completed their education until they learn how many things there are that they do not know.

---

Many people's idea of choosing a career is to pick out the job that is the shortest walking distance from their homes.

---

No one has expressed any fear that the country will break up if congress stands adjourned until December.

---

From now until election time the politicians will be strong advocates of economy.

WILL ROSEBURG HAVE HIGHWAY SIGNS?

"Today a stranger walked into the Chamber of Commerce office and throwing a dollar on the desk said that this was his contribution toward road signs telling the tourists that they are nearing Roseburg," Secretary Will E. Holbein says. "He stated that he had been coming through Roseburg for a number of years and that it was the only town along the Pacific highway of any size that did not capitalize this form of advertising, that one had to drive down to the Southern Pacific railway station to find a sign that told what city this was, and that he felt that he should make the start in this matter of letting the people know more about Roseburg. He had always made it a point to stop over in Roseburg, but that the average tourist passing through would not know what town it was. It would seem that it was about time that some organization in the city would take up this important matter and put up signs that would be the last word in art and at the same time tell something about the city."

ODE TO A NON-ADVERTISER

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said:
"My trade of late is getting bad,
I'll try a new display, by gad?"
If such there be go mark him well,
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angel watch the golden stair
To welcome home a millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade
By local ad or goods displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.
Tread lightly, friends, let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound;
Here let him live in calm repose,
Unsought except by those he owes.

EXPLAINS CHOICE OF GENERAL DAWES

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, June 20.—Dr. Horace Ellis, head of the speaker's bureau of the republican national committee here was credited today with having answered one of the riddles at the Cleveland convention.

He told how General Charles Gates Dawes happened to receive th support of Nebraska in the vicepresidential melee.

The question still was a topic of conversation in political gatherings when former Governor Samuel McKelvin of Nebraska came to town yesterday and enlightened the world through Dr. Ellis and others.

"There is many a farmer in Nebraska this summer who has a crop in the ground because Banker Dawes loaned him money when he could get nowhere else during the early spring," is the explanation given by McKelvin.

Nebraska was one of the few states which stood pat for Dawes at the convention following the Lowden landslide in the second roll call when many states changed their votes for Lowden after his nomination seemed assured.

MRS. YOUNG ENTHUSIASTIC

Cannot Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Enough. Sick Women Read This Letter

Charleston, S. C.—"I was completely run-down and not able to do my housework. I just dragged myself around and did not have energy enough to get up when I sat down. I read advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in your books and learned about it. I got benefit from the very first bottle. I continued to take it for some time, and now I am doing all my own work, even washing and ironing, and never felt better in my life. I tell all my friends that the change in my health is due to but one thing and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. ANNIE YOUNG, 16 Amherst St., Charleston, S.C.

The reason for such a letter from Mrs. Young is apparent. She got well and is grateful. Recently a nation-wide canvass of women purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made, and 98 out of 100 reported that they received benefit from taking it.

Just because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women is a good reason why it should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.
