The body of the animal was brought to Roseburg by Traffic officer Thurber and turned over to deputy game warden Walker, who shipped it to the commission. The person hunting the animal was not located.

HAWAIIAN VOLCANO CONTINUES DISPLAY AS TOURISTS FLEE

VOLCANO HOUSE, island of Hawaii, June 23.—Halemaumau, the Hawaiian House of Everlasting Fire, and pit of the active volcano of Kilauea, continues spasmodically to present a display of terrible natural powers which has not been excelled within the memory of living man. Renewed activity may rock the entire island, it is predicted by scientists.

Violent outbursts, wracking the throat of the firepit and sending incandescent boulders hurtling high into the void, have occurred on an average of twice daily during recent days, accompanied by heavy dust clouds which are split and rent by bolts of lightning and peals of thunder. Earthquakes of varying intensity have been an almost constant concomitant of the eruptions. Steam roars from the crevices of the crater, and huge avalanches of rock, which once formed the rim of the crater, go crashing down to the hurled up again by the next explosion.

Tremendous subterranean forces are at work under the surface, in the pit and under the earth of the surrounding region. Serious quake shocks have occurred in the Puna and Kau districts, opening wide cracks in the surface, some as wide as 200 feet.

With the descent of the rock avalanches, mushrooming clouds of dust, one rising after the next, caught in the whirl of heat from below, balloon upward and outward, giving the pit the appearance of a vast factory chimney. Caught by the trade winds, the murky banner trails off toward Kau, the fire particles held within its folds falling like rain and painting the landscape near at hand with a lavender smear, in the distance with a covering that appears almost like banks of snow. Beneath this canopy of cloud the sun is darkened as by an approaching thunderstorm.

The desert lands of Kau are taking on a new appearance, as is the floor of Kilauea proper. The plantation town of Pahala, some 25 miles from the volcano, likewise suffers. Ash one-sixteenth of an inch thick has spread over the buildings, fields and streets of the community.

Before the present disturbances began the pit was a rough ellipse, measuring 2,000 by 1,500 feet. Today the void is estimated by Roy Finch, in charge of the volcano observatory, to be approximately 2,500 by 4,000 feet. The Hawaiian National Park, in which Kilauea is situated, is considered a danger area. Visitors are welcomed at the Volcano House, but have been very carefully guided, especially since the death of T. A. Taylor and the disappearance of two soldiers who had been visiting at the Kilauea military camp.

Motorists are warned that if they "insist on taking a chance," in approaching within three miles of the volcano, they should keep the road open and be ready for instant flight.

SHEEP IN AMERICA

Sheep were unknown in the domesticated state in America until after the Spanish conquest. The beginning of the sheep industry in the New World dates back to the time of Cortez and his conquest of Mexico in the early part of the sixteenth century. Nearly all Mexican sheep can be traced to early Castile breeds. This is also the source of the early sheep in the western part of the United States. It is believed that the English colonists first brought sheep to Virginia in 1609. Originally all sheep probably came from Asia, but American breeds all sprang from stock imported from Europe.

When Forks Were New

The present-day fork, with its four prongs, was not developed until after 1725, and as late as the period of George III the wife of a gentleman in waiting to the king, about 1755, wrote that silver forks were used only by the nobility and foreign ambassadors, and that, since they had but three prongs, the knives were made broad-ended, so that one might use them to eat peas and catch fruit juices. It seems that the use of the dessert spoon was unknown at that time.

POST SAVES LIVES OF WRECK VICTIMS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

RALEM, Ore., June 23.—A stout post protruding about four feet out of the ground beside the newly graded roadbed of the Roosevelt highway just south of Cloverdale, in Tillamook county, yesterday saved H. J. Black, democratic candidate for county clerk of Polk county, his wife and son and two other Dallas boys, Willard Brown and "Boots" Grant, from serious injury or death when the car in which they were riding, skidded in the loose gravel, turned the car completely over.

The car slipped over the grade it hit on top of a post which struck just in the middle of the tonneau in the middle of the frame and held the weight of the machine off the occupants who were pinned beneath it.

The top of the car was demolished but the occupants all escaped with only minor scratches and bruises.

AMERICAN FLIERS EXPERIENCE TROUBLE

LONDON, June 23.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Rangoon, British India, says the American round-the-world-fliers experienced difficulties in their journey between Bangkok and Burma, particularly when crossing the Siamese mountains, where they encountered air pockets and had to fly through dense clouds.

The dispatch adds that Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, Commander of the squadron, is suffering from an intestinal disorder contracted at Tavoy, and that this fact is delaying the departure from Rangoon.

FIRE DESTROYS PASTURE LANDS

A fire evidently started from a lighted match or cigarette butt yesterday afternoon burned over about 200 acres of pasture land on the Booth place near Myrtle Creek and destroyed about a mile and a half of fence.

The flames and smoke were first noticed from Myrtle Creek and several men went out and succeeded in halting the flames in a dry creek bed on the south end. A California tourist was asked to carry word to the Booth ranch, and Mr. Booth and several of the men from the ranch procured wet sacks and backfired in the face of the blaze saving the buildings on the ranch. The fire covered about a mile along the highway. From all evidences it started in grass near the road, and it is believed that some person threw out a cigarette butt, or a match still burning.

MURDER OF JAPS AROUSES NATION

breaking up of a dance at the Imperial hotel, attended by both Japanese and foreigners. The action resulted from the society's desire to reproach Japanese for associating with Americans at a time of "National humiliation" as a result of America's prohibition of Japanese immigration. It was explained later.

The foreign office and other government authorities are issuing statements in an effort to allay popular indignation and to interpret the San Pedro killings in a non-inflammatory light.

The police have postponed the holding of a meeting which had been called for June 29, in Yokohama with the object of protesting against the recently enacted United States immigration law, which bars Japanese from that country.

Official reports to the foreign office from the Japanese consulates in California indicate the recent murders of two Japanese at San Pedro, Calif., were the result of underworld quarrels and that the local authorities had taken the Belvedere, California, tar and feather incident in hand energetically.

EUGENE STORE ROBBED.

EUGENE, Ore., June 23.—The Ax-Billy store here was robbed sometime last night of several hundred dollars worth of merchandise, by persons who entered the store through the skylight. Local officers expressed the belief that the robbery was the work of a gang of men operating out of Portland pointing out other cases where valley towns have been plundered in a similar manner.

tic organization has called a mass meeting to be held in Tokio on that day and the Kyoto reservists who also have been energetic in protesting the American action, also are holding a meeting at that time. Special detachments of police are guarding the United States Embassy and Consulate general here, and the Consulate at Yokohama.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 23.—A sweeping investigation is being conducted by the sheriff's office here in connection with the alleged assault upon M. Kawamoto, his wife and Y. Naito, on June 19, at Belvedere, a suburb east of here, which is referred to today in Tokio dispatches as a "tar and feather" incident.

The sheriff's office declared that although the three Japanese were assaulted, there were no tar and feathers used.

According to the sheriff's investigation a crowd of 10 women and 6 men called at the home of Kawamoto after dark and demanded that they move from the neighborhood. Kawamoto was pulled from the door of his home by one of the crowd according to the sheriff's report and the remainder began beating him, as well as his wife and Naito.

Kawamoto escaped by slipping from his coat and running into the house, where he called the sheriff's office. Officers responded the call immediately, but the crowd had dispersed.

Regarding the deaths of the Japanese Kacheme Igarashi and Toma Yoshioko near San Pedro several days ago, the city detective bureau here still holds to its original theory, that these men were killed in a gambler's or bootlegger's war. So far neither the sheriff's office nor the police have received any request for investigations from the Japanese authorities.

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Demonstrators at Belvedere, near here, who recently attacked two Japanese men and a Japanese woman, and ordered them to leave, have expressed regret for their acts and, with the consent of the three Japanese no warrants will be sworn out in the case, according to an announcement today by Sheriff William Traeger, in charge of the investigation.

The sheriff said, he had identified and had interviewed ten American women and six American men who, protesting against the presence of Japanese in the neighborhood, attacked the home of Kawamoto, where he was living on leased property with his wife and Y. Naito.

When the leave Japan, about one year hence, the Japanese have agreed to move elsewhere, if a suitable property can be obtained, Traeger said.

CAR STOLEN AND TIRES REMOVED

A Ford sedan, belonging to the C. A. Lockwood Motor Company was stolen last night, driven to a point just south of the city limits, and turned over, and two tires and one wheel removed. The car was left out in front of the garage at a late hour at night for the accommodation of Mr. Lockwood, who was returning from Marshfield, and who was expected to use the car to drive home in after reaching this city. Before his arrival, the car was apparently stolen from in front of the garage and was driven out on South Stephens street to a point near the Parrot place, where it was evidently pushed over the bank. The left front wheel was taken off and two tires stolen. From all evidences the car was pushed over the bank, as it was going slowly when it left the road. The machine was not badly damaged.
