reach the high water mark of 200,000 set by the entertainment committee.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Senator Samuel M. Ralston will be placed in nomination at the Democratic national convention under an agreement reached today at a caucus of the Indiana delegation.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Progressive democracy will recover the American government from privilege and debauchery and set it again in the high regard of moral standards, William G. McAdoo, declared today in an address of greeting to the delegates from nine western states, Hawaii and the Philippines, who came in two special trains. Facing the cheering delegations from a balcony in front of his uptown hotel, the candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination told them his opponents were spreading the word that after a few ballots they would turn away from him. There were cries of "No, No" from the crowd which choked Fourth avenue a block. "I know you didn't come here to betray a trust," McAdoo, continued.

"We're last ditchers," cried one delegate from Oregon, amid cheers. "We're not only last ditchers," Mr. McAdoo replied, "but we are for Democracy triumphant." When the former Treasury secretary referring to recovering the government from privilege a voice shouted:

"Don't forget the Teapot Dome." We'll soak the Republicans for their dirty scandal from now until election day," McAdoo replied.

Besides those from Hawaii and the Philippines delegations, on the special trains were from California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Utah, Colorado and North and South Dakota. Arriving at the Grand Central terminal half an hour behind schedule, the delegates were greeted by committees representing Mayor Hylan and McAdoo, after the welcoming ceremonies in the station in course the delegates formed in line behind the band for the march over Fifth avenue for seven blocks to the McAdoo headquarters, with the arrival of the head of the column the former Secretary-Treasurer with Mrs. McAdoo and his campaign manager, David Ladd Rockwell, stepped out on the balcony.

There was a cheer from the California delegation, which was first to wheel into Fourth avenue and McAdoo waved his black sombrero.

As each delegation crowded into the space in front of the hotel, the cheering continued as the bands swung into "California, Here I Come", the demonstration lasted several minutes before McAdoo could begin his address of welcome, the visitors sang "McAdoo, we are all for you!" to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland".

After the formal welcome, Mr. McAdoo, retired to the hotel lobby, where he and Mrs. McAdoo greeted

FOOD SALE RAISES $157 FOR HIGH SCHOOL

The proceeds of the sale of the articles entered in the News-Review cooking school contest, amounted to $157.60, according to the report made by Mrs. B. W. Maddox, who had charge of the sale. The News-Review turned over all entries in the baking contest to the ladies of the high school Parent-Teacher association, who conducted a sale at the armory following the school, and on Saturday at McKean, Darby & Baldwin's. All of the money realized from the sale has been placed in the bank to the credit of the high school and will be used to aid in the purchasing of the athletic field. There was a strong demand for the many articles entered in the contest, and practically everything entered was disposed of at the sales.

the delegates personally. Then the individual delegations separated for the trip to their respective hotels.

NEW YORK, June 23.—South Dakota delegates to the Democratic national convention decided unanimously today to vote for Wm. G. McAdoo, until released by McAdoo himself. If released, the unit would apply with seven votes necessary to determine the candidate to be supported.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Another dark horse was trotted out today by the New Hampshire delegation, whose spokesman indicated on their arrival, that they would vote "for the first four or five ballots at least" for Governor Fred Brown.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Edmund H. Moore of Youngstown, pre-convention manager for James M. Cox in 1920 was elected national committee man by the Ohio delegation to the Democratic national convention today, after a hot fight.

NEW YORK, June 23.—A fight on the convention floor over the right of the Kentucky state convention to bind under the unit rule delegates to the Democratic national convention previously selected and instructed by a district convention was promised today by Underwood leaders in Kentucky.

The contested delegates are from the ninth district, the home district of Governor Fields, who is head of the delegation which is bound by a unit rule to McAdoo.

The ninth district convention, the day before the Kentucky state convention instructed its two delegates for Underwood.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Guy H. Harvey was selected today as chairman of the South Dakota delegation to the Democratic national convention. National Committee man Howes was elected to the rules committee and John T. Cogan to the platform committee.

WANT ROSEBURG ENTRIES IN PARADE

Rev. J. K. Howard of Oakland was in Roseburg today working in the interest of the celebration to be held at that place on July 4 and 5. Mr. Howard is urging Roseburg people and merchants to enter in the decorated auto and float parades on the morning of July 4. This parade will take place at 10 a. m., and prizes of $20 and $10 are offered for the best decorated auto or float. It is desired that a number of Roseburg residents and merchants enter in this contest.

On account of the Deer Creek barn fire we have been compelled to move our blacksmith shop, and are now located at the rear of the Granite Marble Works, corner Court and Rose streets. All kinds of blacksmithing done promptly, horse-shoeing a specialty. All work guaranteed.

EMPIRE, PIONEER TOWN, IS BURNED

Fire Starting From Explosion of Gasoline Lamp, Causes a Heavy Loss.

FIRE SPREADS QUICKLY

High Northwest Wind Makes Fire-Fighting Difficult and North Bend Department Is Called.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

MARSHFIELD, Ore., June 23.—A fire started by a gasoline lamp explosion in the Klahn building yesterday destroyed a large part of the business section of the town of Empire, near here. Fanned by a high northwest wind that made fire fighting difficult, the fire quickly spread to adjoining structures. The North Bend fire department arrived at the scene an hour after the fire broke out and with the aid of the U. S. S. dredge Col. P. S. Michie, prevented the blaze from wiping out the entire town.

The Argo hotel, Tom Wasson's place, the Gordon place, a barn and dance hall, a business building belonging to Jane Morgan, two buildings belonging to J. L. Bowman's children, a building owned by Mrs. P. L. Phelan of Powers and two small warehouses were licked up by the flames.

The Argo hotel and the Gordon and Wasson places were the only ones occupied, the remainder having been deserted for some years past.

Because of the rapid speed in which the fire spread, little was saved from any of the buildings, mostly clothing and bedding.

This morning there was not a stick standing in the area of a block devastated by the flames.

Everything was burned to the ground and the area about was covered with the scant belongings that had been rescued.

The home of Mrs. Saunders, one of the city's oldest inhabitants, was saved by the government dredge Colonel P. S. Michie, which threw a stream of salt water from the docks in front of the fire. The docks of the Southern Oregon Logging company and the government docks were not fired and were saved solely because they were to the north of the fire area and to the windward.

Empire is the oldest city in Coos county and was historic as the seat of all negotiations with the Indians in the early fifties. The treaty of Empire was signed there in 1855, between the government and the various tribes of Indians in this section of the coast. The county seat was there for many years, until settlement in the Coquille valley made it possible to remove the county records to Coquille.

During the fire people in the residence district of the city were busy in protecting their homes from burning, fire brands were thrown in many sections by the high wind and help volunteered to keep the city from burning. The business section was constructed in the lower part of the city, and the residences were on a table land 50 feet above.

There will be transportation for all club members at Presbyterian Church Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock for a meeting to be held at Mrs. George Bradburn's.

CARL STEBBINGER MARRIED

PORTLAND, June 23.—A royal romance culminated in a royal wedding Wednesday night when Miss Vieta Headman, princess to the Queen of Rosaria, Edith I, during the Rose Festival last week, was married to Carl M. Stebbinger, well known Portland contractor and builder.

The bride, before her ascent to royalty, was stenographer for the Multnomah Hotel and it was at the hotel that the wedding was held. Dr. Harold Bowman performed the service before about 12 intimate friends, including a number of the Rose Festival attendants, Miss Marie Summers of the Multnomah hotel staff, and Mr. Marion Stokes were attendants for the couple. Wedding breakfast followed the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Stebbinger have gone to California for about a month.

Before becoming associated with the Multnomah hotel, the bride was with the Ellison-White Chautauqua circuit.

Mr. Stebbinger is well known here having been engaged on several construction jobs in this city. His firm built the post office building, and Soldiers Home hospital and other structures here. He has many friends in Roseburg who extend their best wishes.

Those having cars please be at the Presbyterian church at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to take club women to Mrs. George Bradburn's.

BACK FROM AUTO TRIP

J. H. Booth and family returned Saturday evening from an extended auto trip through Northern California and Eastern Oregon. They went from here to Bendon, then down the coast to Eureka, and along the Pitts River valley and the Warner Valley through California and into Eastern Oregon. They were absent about a week and enjoyed a very pleasant vacation.

GUARD TROOPS REVIEWED

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
TACOMA, Wash., June 23.—Governor Walter M. Pierce of Oregon this afternoon formally reviewed 2100 Oregon National Guard troops in Camp Lewis. After the review the Oregon troops were mustered and given their federal pay. The infantry brigade comprising the bulk of the troops, numbering nearly 2,000 will break camp tomorrow and return to their home stations. The artillery men of the Oregon field artillery battery will be kept in camp for the remainder of the week with other national guard field artillery batteries, having come to camp several days later than the infantry.

DEMORATS ARE READY FOR MEET

various elements of the agriculture inquiry attended each meeting.

In the Meredith-Vrooman meeting, except a majority of those present, appeared to be sympathetic with the aims of McAdoo forces, were governors Bryan, of Nebraska; Ross, of Wyoming; Davis, of Kansas; Sweet, of Colorado, Senator Owen of Oklahoma, and Representatives of the American farm bureau federation and other farmers' organizations. The plank submitted by this group demanded "An intelligent and enlightened interpretation of all laws dealing with cooperative organizations and activities" and expressed approval of the earth-Aswell bill creating a revolving fund of $10,000, for the assistance of Cooperative Marketing organizations.

J. W. Gross who resides in Canyonville arrived in the city yesterday to spend a few days here looking after business interests.
