Adversey of a plank calling for

Advocacy of a plank calling for American membership in the league of nations was led by Judge Joan W. Westebtt of New Jersey, and John H. Clarke, former associate justice of the United States supreme court.

Varying views on farm relief were set forth by Carl Vrooman, former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Reprosentative Aswell of Louisiana, Walton Petest, secretary of the Na-tional council of cooperative mat-keting associations, and Benjamia C. Marsh of the Farmer's National Council Council.

Although no opponents of prohibition appeared before the committee, it's friends advanced conflicting views. Wayne is Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, Bishop James J. Cannon, Jr., and others said they would be content with a simple "law enforcement plank", but Oliver W. Stewart of the Flying Squadron, incorporated, advocated a declaration for rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

amendment and the Volstead act.

The requests of organized labor as represented by the American Federation of Labor, were placed before the drafting committee today by President Gompera, Secretay Morrison and other members of the organization. These were the same as those urged upon the recent Republican national convention at Cleveland.

To expedite the drafting of the To expedite the drafting of the platform a collating committee under the direction of Senator William C. King of Utah, set to work today to sift out the various planks offered and whip them into shape for presentation to the sub-committee. Senator King turned over the world court and Ku Khux Kian planks that had been offered to sub-committees for their consideration.

The bellet of the sub-committee

The belief of the sub-committee was that the final draft of the platform that would go to the full resolutions committee, would not be completed before Thursday morning.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American federation of labor, left a sick bed today to present labors cause to the platform committee of the democratic national convention. the democratic national convention. His face was drawn and pale. He was assisted to and from the committee room by other officials of the federation. He was attended by a trained nurse and made frequent use of smelling salts during the 20 minutes he was in the committee room. Despite the apparent effort it cost him Mr. Gonners twice addressed the
