WELL ADVANCED

Birds Are Maturing Early and Already Have Gained Good Weight—Car Lot Shipments.

WORTH, Texas, July 17.—Another big turkey crop is probably in it will not be as large as last year but there are enough turkeys to take the demand. Young turkeys that advanced at this time of year in years. The cool weather has helped the early maturing of the birds which came on well on a diet of corn and an abundance of alfalfa and promise to be further advanced when the Thanksgiving season rolls around. Some of the Texas operators have been shipping turkeys for shipment since the year. There was a heavy crop from last season and farmers have been selling off turkeys now that the young are able to care for them. There is one operator in Texas who has shipped five turkeys since May 1. An at Fort Worth has packed cars and there are others in who have been likewise engaged. Just now the Texas dealers are concerned about improving the sell for grade and they want to come up to an establishment. They have found that good, medium and indifferent turkeys in the same car will sell more than the average. Now being worked out for pack and when turkeys are "fancy" they are going to also talk of certain dealers their own brand so that they get full responsibility should stock turn out just as brand-new Texas Carlot Butter, Poultry Association is said to be working along these lines an organization was incorpo-

Star's Admirer Given Shock by Her Manager

A touring company was going the round of some of the provincial towns, and everywhere the audience waxed enthusiastic over the juvenile lady. One evening a youthful admirer sought the manager, a tall, fine-looking man, and endeavored to obtain an introduction to the fascinating little lady. He had, he said, admired her acting very much.

"It must be very pleasant to know her," he suggested. "No doubt you who see her so often are very fond of her?"

"Yes," admitted the manager. "I suppose I am rather fond of her."

"Perhaps you've known her for some time?" ventured the other.

"Yes, quite a long time," answered the manager.

"But it can't be so very long," protested the admirer; "why, she's little more than a girl."

"Then suddenly a horrible suspicion came to him, and he stammered: 'You—you're not her husband, are you?'"

"No, oh, no," said the manager, with an amused smile; "only her son."

Love and Life at Vigo

Love at a distance until you are engaged is the rule in Spain. As a result of that somewhat inconvenient custom lovers are driven to strange expedients to communicate with each other. Consider the gentleman of Vigo whom Mr. Ralph Stock tells about in the "Cruise of the Dream Ship."

Picture, if you can, says Mr. Stock, a well-dressed Spanish gentleman standing in the middle of one of the main thoroughfares and gazing toward one of the house-tops; he is apparently engaged in practicing the deaf-and-dumb alphabet. No one of the stream of pedestrians passing along the sidewalk takes the slightest notice of him; neither does the wheeled traffic, except to swerve obligingly out of his path. It is his affair, and a love affair at that. He is conversing with his innamorata at the third-floor balcony window yonder. It needed three vulgar sightseers such as the crew of the Dream Ship to find anything unusual in the proceeding. I am ashamed to say that the lady caught sight of us and pouted in alarm; whereupon the gentleman turned with an excusable frown of annoyance, and we hurried on our way.—Youth's Companion.

Insects Lead All

It is computed that there are five times as many different kinds of insects as there are species of all other living things put together. Seventy years ago the number of species of insects preserved in collections was about 170,000. Today it is estimated that there are 750,000 sorts, and that without counting the parasitic creatures. In Europe alone there are 350,000 species. Most insects live on trees or plants. There are known to be 450 sorts which make their home in oak trees, and about 200 in the pine. Of beetles alone the varieties exceed 190,000.
