DEPENDABLE HEATH & MILLIGAN PAINTS

Delay Means Decay

R. LATTI, the proud owner of the colonial mansion shown below believes in home beauty and protection. Were he to neglect to keep this property well painted he would lose many dollars out, in a few years. He knows that the paint that is thoroughly dependable—Heath & Milligan—will insure him fewer gallons to start with and therefore fewer hours to apply the paint—more years of wear, and an easy surface to repaint.

Vacation Supply Gone—
 A local resident thinks his vacation is entirely ruined. He had made a purchase of some "good booze," that it was found that it did not blind or poison, and decided to save it for the summer vacation, says the Grants Pass Courier. Not desirous of having it around the house he took it out in the woods and carefully concealed it. And now that his vacation is starting he wanted it. He expectantly went out to the place where he had left it. Instead of finding the trees and brush as he had left it, there was only a blackened area where the fire had swept through. And where the "supply" was there is now only a small pile of broken glass.

Railroad to Use STAGES ON LINES
 (Associated Press Leased Wire.)
 SALEM, July 29.—Although no report has been officially made to the public service commission it is intimated here that the S. P. & S. railway is contemplating the use of several large auto stages to serve as feeders for Oregon Electric and S. P. & S. lines. That the railway company has been contemplating this move has been known unofficially at the public service commission for some time. It was said this morning. One of the places where the stages would be used would be from Cottage Grove to Eugene, where the Eugene-Portland Oregon Electric line has its terminal. Public service officials were unable to say whether or not any of the stages had been purchased.

PERSIAN POLICE WERE ON DUTY
 LONDON, July 29.—According to the Morning Post, the Persian legation here is in receipt of an official statement from Teheran declaring that contrary to other accounts the Persian police made a great effort to rescue Major Imbrie, the American vice-consul, who was killed by a mob in the Persian capital July 18. One policeman was killed in this endeavor, and several were injured, it was stated.

The government stated that some days prior to the disturbance much sectarian feeling was manifest among participants in the religious demonstrations going on in Teheran. Police and soldiers therefore had been cautioned to avoid any action tending to aggravate the over-excited state of the crowds, the government not for a moment anticipating that grounds would arise for an attack on foreigners. It was in view of this, the statement says, that the police withheld firing upon the mob when Major Imbrie was attacked.

GOVERNOR GIVES IDEA OF DEFENSE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
 SALEM, July 29.—"My idea of national defense day is that it shall be a day on which the nation shall take stock not only of its forces for defense, but of its institutions of government, and shall consider methods of securing their preservation." Governor Pierce declared in commenting upon the program being outlined for the nation wide mobilization on September 12.

"So far as the actual mobilization of men is concerned that will necessarily be limited to the military forces of the state, the national guard and members of the military reserve. There will be no holiday in Oregon for the cessation of business and the calling of the farmers and business men away from industry in order to shoulder guns and demonstrate their readiness to fight the world. The world already knows of our ability to take care of our interests when the occasion demands it.

"National defense day should be a day on which the people of the nation should gather together in their respective communities preferably at night meetings, to listen to addresses by leaders and members of thought on such topics as the responsibility of citizenship, the necessity for law enforcement and necessary steps for the preservation of American institutions of government. It should be a day for the strengthening of our faith in our institutions of government and the teaching of the great mass of our citizens their responsibility. We should prepare ourselves for the attacks from the enemies that continue to assail the government from within, as well as prepare ourselves to defend our homes from the attack of foreign foes. I am in no sense militaristic, but I do believe in preparation for home defense.

"The training of men for military service should be, in my opinion a minor part of the day's program, which should stress the desirability for peace and prosperity, rather than war and the misery attendant thereto."

SALEM, July 29.—Reterring his determination to make national defense day, September 12, a success in Oregon, Governor Walter M. Pierce takes a firm stand in two telegrams sent to New York newspapers in reply to their request for his view regarding the call issued by President Coolidge and the attitude taken by Governor C. W. Bryan of Nebraska, who has refused to carry out the mobilization plans.

"I will do everything in my power to make the day a success in Oregon," the governor replied to the first telegram. In answer to the other telegram Governor Pierce said:

"I fall to see any material difference between the views taken by President Coolidge and Governor Bryan. Both are for peace if it can be had with honor and safety to the nation. They would also be in favor of spending everything in blood or treasure for the defense of American institutions."

Governor Pierce said that he did not believe in conquest but that he does believe in military training for the defense of the home.

BAND CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

8. Duet for trombone and cornet, Miserere, from H. Trovatore, Verdi. Dale Strange and Claude Crocker.
9. Fox Trot, "Home in Pasadena."
10. Overture, "Raymond," Thomas.
11. March, "Stars and Stripes Forever," Sousa.
12. Star Spangled Banner.

DIPPING FISH OVER WINCHESTER DAM

During the period of extreme low water the Roseburg Rod and Gun club is arranging with the fish commission to save the fish in the North Umpqua by dipping them over the dam at Winchester. The water is so low that the fish cannot get over the dam or the fish-ladder, and consequently it is necessary to dip them over. A man has been stationed there for the past three or four days working with an improvised dip net, but this is not satisfactory as the net is of wire and many fish are killed. A telegram was sent to the fish commission last night asking them to forward good dip nets at once, and when these arrive a man will be kept on duty at all times dipping the fish out from below the fish-ladder and dam and transferring them to the deep water above.

There are many summer steel-heads and salmon trout coming upstream at this time, and it is very important, if the fish are to be propagated, that the fish be kept moving up to the spawning grounds, and the club is endeavoring to see that this aim is accomplished.

MYRTLE POINT MAN MUST SERVE TIME

J. Diehman, Myrtle Point garage man, recently fined for possessing intoxicating liquor, was brought back to the city today and placed in the county jail to serve out a fine of $100. He was released from jail upon his promise to return to Myrtle Point and pay the amount of the fine, but failed to do so, and Justice of the Peace George Jones issued a commitment for him and he was brought to Roseburg and given a place in jail to serve the time against him. J. and R. Stone, who were sentenced at the same time, have gone to California.

Desert Sheik

Desert Sheik, in Egypt, beautiful photographs of the Nile were taken in the vicinity of the little village of Aharawash, on the Nile. This is believed to be the village in which Joseph and Mary lived prior to their flight from Egypt, and it is also supposed to be the birth-place of the prophet Mahomet. It is now a collection of perhaps fifteen or twenty mud huts, and the main industry of the inhabitants is the manufacture of curious glass bracelets.

"The Desert Sheik" will be the feature attraction at the Liberty theatre today and tomorrow.
