ATTITUDE TOWARD DAVIS IS ASKED

(Associated Press Leased Wire). ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 8.—Local labor leaders influential in democratic circles last night sent a telegram to Samuel Gompers president of the American Federation of Labor to ascertain directly whether the report regarding the opposition to John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, were true. While the labor leaders would not say what stand they would take in this matter, they indicated surprise that the decision to oppose Mr. Davis had been taken in what they termed an unprecedented manner, in that Mr. Davis was not given an opportunity to express his views, and his attitude toward labor before the executive council reached a final decision.

The appearance under the auspices of the Oregon state La Follette for president committee under the direction of Congressman Elton Watkins of Portland will signalize the opening of the independent progressive campaign in the Pacific northwest," said John M. Nelson, national manager of the campaign. Philip La Follette, son of Senator La Follette, will begin a week's tour of Illinois and Missouri on August 9. Walter Thomas Mills will open a speaking tour in Illinois, starting in Chicago. Senator Magnus Johnson, Minnesota Colleague of Senator Shipstead, also will take part in the campaign in the Pacific seaboard states, according to La Follette managers here. Appointment of a state manager in Oregon probably will be announced early next week.

COOLIDGE URGED TO TAKE A REST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Proposals for a short vacation for President Coolidge immediately after the formal notification exercises here August 14 were among topics discussed today by the president with some of his advisers. No decision was reached. While Mr. Coolidge has been withstanding well the intense heat here for the past week, his friends for some time have urged him to take a respite from the duties which have kept him close to his desk since he entered office a year ago. It is considered likely the president will go to New England for about two weeks if he decides in favor of a vacation. In the past he has gone each summer to his father's home at Plymouth, Vermont, and he was there last August when President Harding died. Chairman Butler of the republican national committee today came to Washington to check up on the plans for the formal notification exercises next Thursday. He was to confer with Mr. Coolidge late in the day.

THEATRES

Antlers Theatre. A Farnum picture is never a disappointment. His product for the past five years has convinced us of that. Another conviction long with us is that no two Farnum pictures are alike. All of which is borne out by his latest production, "The Gunfighter," opening at the Antlers theatre for a two day engagement. Taking the title role, William Farnum has essayed something for which he will always be remembered, a character which, for brilliant lines and memorable characteristics will overshadow all those for which he is now acclaimed. A tower of strength and goodness in a sufficient attribute to place any man among the immortals. Such was Billy Buell, the character interpreted by William Farnum. We are told the story is based on obscure Californian saga, and contrary to custom, we believe it. Liberty Theatre. Madge Kennedy, the popular screen star, is coming to the local screen in her newest Kenma Production, "Three Miles Out" which was adapted for Miss Kennedy's talent by John Emerson and Anita Loos from an original story by the famous illustrator, Neysa McMein. As its title implies it is a story that mixes upon the activities of bootleggers, with Miss Kennedy in the role of a wealthy society girl, who unconsciously finds herself a captive in the hands of ruffians, drunken runners. The very man to whom she becomes engaged is none other than the master-mind of the bootleggers and at each turn of Fate's wheel, the girl becomes embroiled in trouble. Finally, a handsome, many young sea captain, played by Harrison Ford, becomes her champion and he falls so desperately in love with her that he risks his life time and again in efforts to save her. There are many thrills, scene after scene carrying the onlookers through romance and adventure that is wonderfully staged amid "three miles out" atmosphere. At Liberty Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Grain sacks at Wharton Bros.
