SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 15TH

matron concerning this department, and the teaching staff for the coming school year, has been prepared by City Superintendent M. S. Hamm, for the advice of the school patrons:

Agriculture. First year—Farm animals: This course will consist of a study of the animals commonly raised on the farms of Douglas county, such as sheep, poultry, dairy, beef, and swine, and hogs. The feeding, care and management, selection, breeding and marketing of animal products will be the topics and problems upon which the course is based.

Second Year—Farm Crops and Horticulture: The study of the soils, crops and fruits of this county will provide the basis for this course. The topics and problems will center about seed selection, harvesting, storage, marketing, varieties, fall and winter planting, diseases and insect control, soil physics and chemistry, commercial fertilizers and cover crops, pruning and grafting, plant propagation, seed testing, plant breeding and the control of weeds and rodents. Advanced wood working, leather and belt work, concrete, glazing and painting will be correlated with this course.

Third year—Farm Mechanics and Rural Engineering: Mechanical and agricultural drafting, farm carpentry, forging, farm cold metal work, farm machinery, repair and study of comparative values of various makes.

Care and light repair of tractors and autos. Agricultural engineering, including surveying and measuring of areas, drainage and irrigation. A set of mechanical drafting instruments and supplies will be required in this course.

It will be impossible to give certain parts of the farm mechanics and engineering course at once on account of the lack of proper housing, which will be provided for in a separate building to be erected during the year. (Open to Juniors and Seniors.)

The different agricultural courses require two class periods a day, in addition to a home project which may be carried to completion during the winter or summer, depending on the type of project selected. The project has no time limit, but must extend through the complete cycle of one acre of broccoli, one acre of some farm enterprise, such as potatoes, one acre of strawberries, or one brood sow and litter, the litter to be grown out and marketed, a small flock of sheep or goats, the care and management of several cows and calves, or the planning and erection of a suitable farm building.

Each student is provided with a project book, in which is kept a complete record of the enterprise. It is understood that the project taken shall be the property of the boy, or that he is properly rewarded for the care and management incidental to it, because he is entirely responsible for its completion, with whatever aid and encouragement the parent and teacher may award.

The board of school directors announce the following corps of teachers for the coming year: M. S. Hamm, A. B. Park College, 1911; City Superintendent, Beaver Dam, Wisconsin, 1912-14; Hybron, Illinois, 1914-17; Lewistown, Illinois, 1917-20; Roseburg, 1920.

McCoy's Wife is Being Sought

indictment for murder, assault with intent to murder and robbery.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—Jewels to the value of many thousands of dollars, some of which already have been seized, but the majority of which are missing today became the focal point in the inquiry into the violent death of Mrs. Theresa W. Mora, here Aug. 12, in connection with which Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist, is held here on a murder charge.

Four different lots of jewels form the basis of the investigation which officers working on the case declare may establish the real motive for the death of Mrs. Mora, who was found dead in her apartment with a bullet in her brain.

The largest lot is missing. Customs officers, acting on advice from New York are seeking a dozen valuable pieces, one of them described as containing three exceptionally large emeralds and studded with diamonds.

The officers declare that their instructions are that these jewels were in the Mora family and they wish to establish the route by which they reached that resting place.

Mrs. Mora is dead and Albert A. Mora, her divorced husband, heir to her estate, flatly denies any knowledge of the supposedly lost valuables.

The search for the jewels began last June, almost two months before Mrs. Mora was slain and in July customs officers seized several thousand dollars worth from the Mora's strong box.

Lot number three was seized after the death of Mrs. Mora when the officers visited another strong box rented by the Mora family. The value of this lot, with that previously taken into custody, totaled $30,000, according to the investigators.

Lot number four, valued at $5,000, disappeared the night Mrs. Mora was shot down in her apartment. Mora charged that they had been stolen from her body—a black pearl, a ruby and diamond brooch shaped like a snail and a fob encrusted with diamonds.

Yesterday lot number four was recovered. Attorneys for Mrs. Jennie Thomas, McCoy's sister, turned them over to the district attorney's office.

Detectives said this lot was given to Mrs. Thomas by McCoy the night before Mrs. Mora died. Both the district attorney's office and the federal officers assert the belief that the clearing up of the jewel mystery will throw much light on the case and may establish the motive behind the sudden death of the antique dealer's wife.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The greater part of the jewelry owned by Mrs. Theresa W. Mora of Los Angeles, for whose death "Kid" McCoy, former pugilist, is held in that city, was smuggled into the United States according to information in the hands of special treasury agents here.

The federal officials who made this assertion late today said that no further details as to the smuggling could be made public until they had completed an investigation.

GREEN PRUNE SALE PRACTICALLY OVER

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) SALEM, Aug. 21.—The green prune deal in the Willamette valley is practically over and will probably be consummated with the shipment of all purchased and picked up to the end of the week. This is the consensus of opinion among both shippers and growers here today.

Operations have been curtailed almost to a standstill, and with the exception of one of the smaller operators all of the shippers have called a halt on picking operations. Today the packing plants are busy preparing the fruit that has already been picked and delivered for shipment and six cars are expected to roll from here before night. The total movement from Central Valley points today will not exceed 15 cars.

The reasons for the sudden suspension of the deal remain a mystery, but the large percentage of cracked prunes resulting from the rain and the consequent increase in the price of sorting that cuts down the margin of the operators, is believed to be chiefly responsible. At one local packing plant the force of sorters handling a given amount of fruit had to be tripled this morning to insure first in quality shipments.

HISTORIC PRESS IS PLACED ON EXHIBIT

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 21.—A weather-beaten, but sturdy hand press, constructed in New York City 125 years ago, and still in shape to print newspapers similar to the first copies of the Seattle Weekly Intelligencer in 1852, is a feature of a pioneer Seattle printing firm at the Pacific north west merchant's exposition which is being held here.

The press was shipped to Mexico City in 1815 and transported inland on the back of burros. In 1824, it was taken overland to Monterey, California, where it was used by Mexican officials for printing orders. After California became a territory of the United States, the press was unearthed and the first California newspaper was printed on it in 1846.

In 1850 it was taken to Portland, Ore., by covered wagon and used in printing the state's first newspaper, the Weekly Oregonian. Two years later it printed Washington's first newspaper, the Columbian, at Olympia. From there it was taken to Seattle and has since been kept by local printers.
