ROSEBURG, OREGON, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1924.

A GREAT COMMANDER.

It is unusual that an army commander goes through a great war as Gen. John J. Pershing did, with so little controversy resulting as to his management.

Wars breed infinite controversy and register many failures. An army will go along through many years of peace, and a group of men may come to the front, many of whom lack the qualities needed for high success in command of an army.

The history of the Civil war on the federal side illustrated this truth. Man after man was tried, but proved inadequate for the bigger tasks of the war.

There was great danger when our country entered the world war, that great mistakes would be made in handling the army in the field, and that many commanders would have to be tried out one after another, until one was found who was capable of his great task.

The fact that there has been so little controversy over the management of the army in its military operations would indicate that Gen. Pershing, as commander of the expeditionary forces, made a superb record of skill and efficiency and military insight and force.

THE vogue for light woodwork is more than a temporary fancy in interior decoration. Back of it is the tradition handed down from Colonial days, when the best homes boasted all white woodwork.

FOREST FIRE EN-DANGERS TOWN

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

EATONVILLE, Wash., Sept. 22.—Residents of Eatonville, who in the night utilized every kind of conveyance to move their persons and belongings from the path of a forest fire that threatened to consume the place, returned early today but continued in alarm.

Driven by a high wind, the flames early this morning had advanced to the outskirts of the town on the south burning five farm houses in the vicinity just outside of the town, destroying one house and two small shacks within the city limits and threatening others. Only the efforts of the 500 or more fire fighters, composed of practically the entire population of the town and employees of the mill and camps of the Eatonville Lumber company has prevented the town from being wiped out.

Many of the fire fighters stayed up all night and this morning they seem to be holding the flames in check, although the town is still far from being out of danger.

The fire is believed to have started from slashings at Camp No. of the Cascade Timber company.

Sunday the flames got beyond control and swept down the Mashell divide and up to the south limit of the town. Later, fanned by the wind, the blaze swept northward and at one time last night had entirely surrounded the town.

Later, however, a change of the wind improved the situation to such an extent that the fire fighters have been able to concentrate their efforts on the fire from the south.

Farm houses on the south outskirts belonging to Oscar Wright, Henry Smith, C. C. Elegg, Frank Menick and John Menick were destroyed last night, and this morning the flames had wiped out the house of George M. Daze, on Lynch Street and two shacks nearby, these being the only buildings in the limits of the town yet to be destroyed.

Early this morning the house of E. Paul Todd, superintendent of schools a short distance away, was threatened and only the arrival of the fire engine and crew from Tacoma saved it.

TACOMA, Sept. 22.—After fighting flames for a part of Sunday and all through last night residents of Eatonville and vicinity were this morning keeping up the fight with the aid of engine company No. 4 of the Tacoma fire department, in a desperate effort to save the town and the farm houses and lumber plants in the vicinity from destruction.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—Funeral services for Jimmy Murphy, automobile racing driver who met death several days ago in a speedway accident at Syracuse, N. Y., were to be held here today at St. Vincent's Catholic church, with the singing of a solemn mass of requiem.

Los Angeles paid its final tribute to Murphy last night when last rites were held by the Elks and nights of Columbus and thousands of friends and admirers filed past the gray casket in which the remains of the dead racer rested at the foot of a high bank of floral tributes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Rain today caused postponement of the opening game of the series between the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates, which promises to be a deciding factor in the National League race.

The game will be played at the Polo grounds Thursday when both clubs have an open date.

Single games will be played tomorrow and Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Captain Frank Frisch, second baseman and Heinie Groh, third baseman, are out of the Grant's lineup against the Pirates today because of injuries and it has been announced they will not be able to play any more this season.

Groh's knee was injured last Friday when he slid into second base. Frisch hurt his right hand diving at the plate in an attempt to score on a wild throw.

At a meeting of the club owners of the Yankees, Senators, Pirates, Giants and Robins, with Commissioner Landis yesterday, it was decided to hold the first, second and sixth contests in the American League city, beginning Saturday October 4, unless a tie in either league necessitates a play off.
