ROSEBURG, OREGON, MONDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1924.

PUSHING FOR TRADE.

Few people realize what a power advertising has become in the process of distribution. In 1923 the newspapers carried $700,000,000 worth of advertising.

All over the country, from the sounding aisles of the great cathedrals to the little cross roads chapel, Christmas carols and anthems are being rehearsed.

Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of the Oregon Agricultural College, may be a member of the agricultural commission should President Coolidge decide to enlarge that commission.

When mentioning the "best sellers" don't overlook your Uncle Samuel. His trade report for the month of November this year shows that he sold $189,000,000 worth more of goods than he bought.

Only a few more days to do your Xmas hustling. The Roseburg merchants had their establishments jammed to the doors on Saturday.

The merchant who advertises his Christmas stock always wears a grin.
