

A Happy and Prosperous New Year

To All Our Friends and Patrons

We thank you sincerely for your support during the past year and hope to deserve even more of your patronage for 1925.

Last New Year's we said "Let's make it a million in two more years," and we are proud to state that we have passed the half million mark with three months to spare.

For which we again thank you.

MAY COMPROMISE ON U. S. ATTORNEY

PORTLAND, Jan. 1.—Allan Byrum may be appointed United States district attorney to break the deadlock now existing between United States Senators McNary and Stanford, according to rumors sweeping across the continent from Washington, D. C.

For weeks the senators have failed to agree on a candidate for recommendation. Senator McNary is supporting George Neuner Jr. of Roseburg, and Senator Stanford is supporting Robert Kuykendall of Klamath Falls.

The Oregon Anti-Saloon league has endorsed Neuner unreservedly, although favoring Elisha A. Baker as first choice.

John S. Coke, United States district attorney, submitted his resignation two months ago, asking that it be accepted as soon as possible, as he wished to engage in private practice. The senators arrived in Portland in November and the appointment to fill the vacancy began to pour in. The senators agreed on one thing only, which was the successful candidate would have to come from southern Oregon.

SPORT SHORTS

Ed "Peck" Garvey of Holyoke, Mass., former football lineman of Notre Dame engages in another six round bout in New York Tuesday facing Ben Smith of New Jersey. Garvey has scored early knockouts in his professional matches, employing a gridiron offensive, which keeps an opponent running for cover. His weight approximately 230 pounds.

Frank K. Sturgis, recently appointed chairman of the Jockey club to succeed the late August Belmont, neither owns a racing stable nor is he financially interested in the tracks. He has a thorough knowledge of horse breeding, however, having at times as many as 70 head on his Massachusetts estate.

Yale wants Jack Owsley, coach of the scrubs, who succeeded the late Dr. William Bull, to stay at his post. Recently it was announced on good authority that "Tad" Jones' assistant would become head coach at the naval academy in place of Bob Fowell, but Owsley denied that anything definite had been done, although he admitted that he had been in talks with the navy.

Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul is considering the offer of a boat with Luis Rippe, in London, and must recall two bad experiences.

He received less than a third of the money guaranteed him when he fought Jack Bloomfield at the Wembley exposition last summer, and previous to that was the victim of circumstances in his 15-round stand at Shelby against the champion, Jack Dempsey. He succeeded, however, in collecting the full amount "Kid" Norfolk in Madison Square Garden recently.

Of the eight inter-sectional football games played at Pasadena since 1916, four have been won by the west, two by the east, and two of the contests were ties.

A summary of the east-west games follows:

- 1916—Washington State 14; Brown 0
- 1917—Oregon 14; Pennsylvania 9
- 1918—Great Lakes Marines 17; Mare Island Marines 0
- 1919—Harvard 7; Oregon 0
- 1921—California 28; Ohio State 0
- 1922—California 6; Washington and Jefferson 0
- 1923—University of Southern California 14; Pen State 3
- 1924—Washington 14; Navy 14

Ticket scalpers last night were asking as high as $25 for $5 seats at the Stanford-Notre Dame game. At the Athletic club where such offers were made, it is said few were sold. Seats also were offered at $12.50 and $15 with few bayers reported.

Although many reports were in the air of enormous wagers on the outcome of the Stanford-Notre contest, a checkup last night at the various clubs in Los Angeles failed to disclose many bets. One Stanford fan wagered $750 against $1,000 that the Cardinals would win but there was no other large bet uncovered. Stanford bettors generally wanted two-to-one odds and there were few takers.

Today's grid classic at Pasadena attracted many football coaches

BARBERS' UNION ELECTS OFFICERS

The local barbers' union met Monday night in regular session, and elected officers for the coming year. J. I. Terrill was chosen president; J. T. Miller, vice president; Roy Sacks, secretary-treasurer, and Ray Shupe, recorder. The usual business of the organization was considered, and A. J. Willard, who is now conducting a one-chair shop on Sheridan street, initiated into the local. The barbers of the city are well organized, and have a strong and active union.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

CYNTHIA and JIM LELAND, bride and groom, settle in their new home to find that Jim's mother expects to rule their lives. Cynthia rebels; Jim's devotion to his mother blinds him.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

II—MARRIAGE, WITH TRIMMINGS

MRS. LELAND arrived while Cynthia was still looking for the slip that would show just how her housekeeping allowance for the week was to be spent, and just what she was to spend that day. She was a very pretty woman, with a beautifully dressed white hair, a pretty figure, and a pretty mind and feet, of which she was very proud. Cynthia with just a hint of disapproval in her eyes.

VIOLET DARE

"I hate to mention it, dear," she remarked, after a moment's pause, "but your face isn't quite clean—that little smudge, there on your chin—have to be careful, you know, with everyone in town so much interested in you as the newest bride."

"Oh, I must have got my hand inked on that fountain pen—humiliating!" Cynthia ran into the bathroom, and made a face at her reflection in the mirror. Mrs. Leland acted as if her face was always dirty!

She returned to find that Mrs. Leland had disappeared. Voices came from the sitting room adjoining Mrs. Leland was discussing the oiling of the floor, in sweet forbearing tones.

"If you'd just rub it off this way—like this, not as you're doing—I've shown you fifty times, Frances."

Over Mrs. Leland's head Frances' sultry eyes met Cynthia's. Cynthia made a deprecating gesture. What would she do if Frances should not look so lovely and leavily? She was such a good maid, and it would be so hard to get another.

"Yes, Mrs. Leland—yes, Mrs. Leland—Oh, Frances was a lamb. Of course she'd oil the floor just as she pleased when they'd gone, Cynthia reflected.

"Now, you have your list, dear?" Cynthia replied that she had, thanking her stars that she had finally found it. "Very well, then, we can go. Now, remember, Frances—"

Established in the car and headed for the store where she liked best to trade, Mrs. Leland went on. How had James seemed for this worst when she had minded it dreadfully. He had teased her about it when they got home.

"I didn't mean to, truly!" she exclaimed.

"I realized that, of course—but we must be more careful, mustn't we, when we're just a bride and very much in the public eye?" replied Mrs. Leland playfully.

Cynthia clasped her hands tight in her lap and stared out of the window. If only she and Jim lived

INHERITANCE TAX RECEIPTS LARGE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 1.—A report issued yesterday by State Treasurer Myers, says that in the inheritance tax department during 1924 a total of $144,947.71 was received and turned over to the general fund of the state. There was an unrecipitated balance at the close of the year of $75,870.74. Nine hundred cases were filed with the department during the year of $75,870.74. Nine hundred cases were filed with the department during the year.

There were ten cases of litigation during the year. These involved the estates of Bernard Daley, Bert Hall, Charles D. Bowles, Ella L. Woodward, Moses Baruh, George W. Lawrence, Geo. F. Buntinghaus, Irvin Butterworth, Frederick Anderson and Catherine Petrus. Four of these have been completed and settled and others are in various processes of controversy. The Bernard Day case involving over $150,000, has been appealed to the supreme court.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 1—Fighting their way through a snow storm borne on the wings of a mountain gale five intrepid climbers ascended the treacherous heights of Pike's Peak yesterday to uphold the tradition of the Adaman Club, an organization which for years has celebrated the coming of each New Year by staging a display of fireworks from the brow of the Arctic peak.

Early in the morning the quiet of climbers began the ascent in one of the worst blizzards of the winter.

Thousands of residents watched through the early hours after dusk for the sky rockets, which would announce the safe arrival of the party at the summit. At nine o'clock the flares shot skyward lighting for miles around the frozen ranges of the Rocky Mountains.

At midnight another burst of fireworks turned the gray mountain sky into a kaleidoscope of color as the advent of a New Year was heralded. Shortly after midnight the one new member, which the Adaman Club accepts each year, was initiated.

TEACHERS DECLARE FOR NORMAL SCHOOL

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 1.—Close of the annual convention of the Oregon State Teachers Association here late yesterday, was marked by the adoption by principals and superintendents of a resolution declaring for a comparative normal school program, and against a plan proposed by State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. A. Churchill, for the establishment of ten or more normal courses in connection with high schools. Holding Mr. Churchill's plan a makeshift, the sense of the resolution was that an effort should be made for appropriations for a new district normal school.

COAST ATHLETES BRING HOME BACON

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SEATTLE, Jan. 1.—Athletes from Washington, Oregon and California brought many inter-collegiate and international championships back to their teams during 1924, according to an annual review of sporting events.

The University of Washington crew won the intercollegiate rowing championship at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for the second consecutive year.

Wallace Scott, husky tennis star, won the national intercollegiate singles title.

Helen Williams of Berkeley, a University of California student struck her way to the women's Olympic tennis championship in addition to retaining her American title and her many other national and international honors.

The Kinsey brothers, also of California, won the national doubles crown.

Swimming, boxing, wrestling, Rugby, track and field, and polo stars from California, Oregon and Washington Universities, helped win Olympic titles in these sports for the United States.
