THIRTY-THIRD SESSION LEGISLATURE FORMED

session. At the start we are a harmonious body. Factionalism has been dissipated and has disappeared. We are starting as a big happy family, each determined to do those things that will redound to the credit of the state.

"We have many important measures to come before us and the sooner we get to work the better chance we will have to make the kind of a record we want to make. I understand the organization in the house is starting out in the same favorable way, and I believe there is going to be harmony between the two houses.

"It will be my aim and endeavor conscientiously to perform the duties of this position and to treat impartially every member of this senate."

Deaton G. Burdick, speaker of the house, announced his committee appointments immediately following his election. This is the first time in the history of Oregon legislative sessions that the committee appointments have been forthcoming immediately.

In his acceptance speech, marked by its brevity, Burdick declared that the opportunity existed for this session, "to set a record which will stand as a beacon for sessions in the years to come. It is my wish to be fair at all times, to the committees, and particularly to the ways and means. It is my sincere wish that bills are considered and placed before the house for consideration at the earliest possible moment. We should be able to finish this session in the regular 40 day period."

A resolution introduced in the house by William F. Woodward of Portland, calling for adoption of the proposed child labor amendment of the federal constitution was referred to the resolutions committee.

STATE HOUSE, SALEM, Ore., Jan. 12.—Governor Walter M. Pierce, read his message before the senate and house in joint session in the house chamber at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Senator Moser, president of the senate presided and the gallery was packed with interested spectators.

The governor posed for the regulation flashlights just before he began his message. The governor was around the house during the recesses greeting old friends and shaking hands with strangers.

He wore a smile as wide as his eastern Oregon hat. If the chief executive is worrying about what the lawmakers may do to any of his hobbies at this session, he did not show the fact.

Governor Pierce's Address SALEM, Ore., Jan. 12.—Taxation and law enforcement occupied the largest sections of the message of Gov. Walter M. Pierce, which he delivered today to the legislature.

Referring to his campaign promise, he said that he could point to a substantial measure of achievement in tax reduction. He stated that in 1922 the state tax levy, including fixed millages is $7,492,761.47, a reduction of substantially $2,000,000 in state taxes.

He expressed regret that the voters of the state had repealed the state income tax law, and asserted he still believed in such a tax.

Referring to law enforcement he said "there has been most certainly a decided improvement in this state" though "much still remains to be done." He declared "the state prohibition force is the terror of the law breakers. It has been conducted in a clean, straight forward, business-like manner, and I invite your body to investigate the moneys expended in the enforcement of the prohibition and narcotic laws."

Gov. Pierce pleaded for all persons in the state to share in the duty and responsibility of law enforcement.

"When the anarchist appears in the so-called lower stratum of society, we may depend upon it that he has also made his appearance into the so-called upper stratum. This country has more to fear from the law violator in the marble office than from the ragged leader of the mob in the street."

The governor asked the legislature to increase the power of the state prohibition department, and give it 50 per cent of the fines collected from violators of the prohibition laws.

Legislation recommended in the governor's message included: Equalization of assessments in various counties.

Passage of the bill introduced at the last session based upon the report of the tax investigating committee.

Competition among banks for deposits of state funds.

Appropriations to restore to the irreducible school funds moneys lost "due to years of well-nigh criminal neglect and negligence on the part of those entrusted with safe-guarding of this most sacred trust." Total losses the governor said would exceed $500,000.

Enactment of a law to make the present industrial accident commission compulsory in all hazardous occupations, and with no other changes.

A constitutional amendment to be submitted to the next general election, that will reduce the tax on property from one mill to one-half mill for the use of the World War Veterans State Aid Commission.

A one-half mill levy for eight years will create a sufficient fund to enable the commission to carry out all the provisions of the law creating it, said the governor.

Appropriation of $100,000 to add to the $250,000 already available for the construction of a school to be erected at Woodburn.

Establishment of a reformatory at the site of the present boys training school where younger prisoners from the penitentiary and older boys from the training school might be cared for.

Recommended that entire contents of the world game of the state be vested in an appropriate agency of the Oregon Agricultural College under the control of the board of regents.

Passage of a law taxing vegetable oil substitutes for butter, or a law prohibiting mixture of dairy substitute for butter. The governor expressed regret for defeat of the oleomargarine bill at the recent election.

Recommended a constitutional amendment repealing the state guaranty of interest on irrigation and drainage bonds.

Recommended enactment of a law creating a hydro-electrical commission to investigate and report to the governor of the cost of construction of modern hydro-electric plants on undeveloped natural water power, and investing this commission with power to form a district, establish boundaries, and giving the governor power to create a special relation to a bond issue to build such naturally undeveloped plants. The governor endorsed the Clear Lake Project at the head of the McKenzie river.

Establishment of free labor agencies.

Recommended adoption of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

Favored salary increase for district attorneys and justices of the state supreme court.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Ore., Jan. 12.—One of the early fights of the session will be over Governor Pierce's veto of the Daily inheritance tax bill of the last session.

The estate of Dr. Bernard Daly of Lake County, amounting to about $1,000,000 was left as a charity to send young men and women of Lake county to the institutions of higher learning in Oregon.

The inheritance tax on the estate amounted to about $200,000. Senator Upton last session introduced a bill for the remission of the tax on grounds that the estate was a charity fund.

After the session, the governor vetoed the bill. It is said there is a possibility that a new bill will be introduced providing that about 25 percent of the $200,000 be placed in the state irreducible school fund and that the remainder be remitted. Enactment of this bill would in effect sustain the veto of the governor.

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 12.—A joint resolution calling for the ratification of the proposed child labor law amendment to the constitution of the United States was filed with Fred Drager, chief clerk of the house, by William F. Woodward, Multnomah county, this morning.

EUROPEAN NEWSPAPERS MAKE EXPLANATIONS REGARDING THE RESIGNATION OF SEC'Y HUGHES

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Paris newspapers offer explanations for the resignation of Secretary Hughes and the appointment of Ambassador Kellogg to succeed him which are more ingenious than convincing.

"Pertinax, of the Echo of Paris, believes Mr. Hughes is resigning because he does not see eye to eye with President Coolidge. The writer says that the president 'dominated the senate', desires a policy of isolation, who has spent his life among the half-European society of New York, is inclined to intervene in the old world controversies."

"Pertinax" says "it is certain that the reign of the republican senate will be confirmed."

He adds that "a lawyer trained in the country, the secretary of state probably is not big enough man to resist the assembly or carry it with him."

to make it more effective. Legislation to check incendiarism. The governor said it was estimated that one half of the property destruction by fire in the state was due to incendiarism.

Putting of the entire traffic service under the control of the state highway commission.

The governor urged that the matter of consolidation of state departments, which occupied much attention at the last legislative session be again considered.

Enactment of a law to make the present industrial accident commission compulsory in all hazardous occupations, and with no other changes.

A constitutional amendment to be submitted to the next general election, that will reduce the tax on property from one mill to one-half mill for the use of the World War Veterans State Aid Commission.

Secretary Hughes in the view of M. St. Brice of Le Journal, is retiring because he intends to run for president.

HAMBURG, Germany, Jan. 12.—Commenting on his resignation, the Hamburger Nachrichten expresses belief that Charles E. Hughes intends to run for president. The paper terms him a sensible and moderate politician.

Referring to Mr. Hughes' "New Haven reparation speech" which formed the basis of Chancellor Cuno's economic program, the paper observes: "In it for the first time, a statesman among Germany's former enemies showed a desire for conciliation, and pointed out possibilities for a solution, which while not acceptable in all details to Germany, were certainly hopeful."

BROCCOLI DAMAGE IS OVER ESTIMATED

The Douglas County broccoli crop is not as badly injured as first believed, according to F. J. McKeown, traveling inspector for the Pacific Fruit Express company. Mr. McKeown made a thorough examination of the crop in all parts of the county, and reported to the Southern Pacific Company, that he expected 200 cars would be necessary to handle the shipments. The north and east sections of the county were the hardest hit by the December cold weather. In the southern part the loss is expected to be nominal, and Myrtle Creek and Riddle will probably be only slightly affected. As there is a big acreage in that vicinity Mr. McKeown believes that the total shipment will be about 50 per cent of the expected crop.

HOLD WOMAN ON PERJURY CHARGE

BEND, Ore., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Beale Norton arrested Saturday on a charge of perjury. Is still held in the county jail. Her bail was fixed at $2,000 but had not been provided this morning. Time for her hearing has not been set but it probably will be set some time this afternoon for another day.

The perjury charge was the result of contradictory testimony given at the inquest following the suicide of W. P. Downing, local resort man. Mrs. Norton is not connected so far as is known with the shooting but she testified that Mr. Downing had not visited her rooms before the time when he came there and shot himself. Two messenger boys testified that he had been there. The inquest following the death of Mr. Downing was postponed Saturday and will be resumed at 1:30 today.

LIBERTY THEATRE. We've seen some mighty fine pictures dealing with the eventful days of '49, but "The Flaming Forties," Harry Carey's latest starring vehicle, will have its premiere at the Liberty Theatre tomorrow evening. Nor have we ever seen Carey do better work than in this vivid dramatization of "Tennessee's Pardner." Bret Hart's widely read story of life on the wide western plains. Lovers of Bret Hart will be delighted with this screen version, as the well-known star brings the leading character, Bill Jones, to life with so much realism and color that henceforth when we think of "Tennessee's Pardner," we shall visualize Harry Carey in the role, and undoubtedly all who see his splendid performance will do likewise.

ANTLERS THEATRE. "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," the First National Picture, will be shown at the Antlers Theatre, Saturday and Monday. It is a comedy by a cast headed by Alexander Carr, George Sidney, Vera Gordon, Betty Blythe, and David Butler. Alfred Green directed from Frances Marion's scenario. Making a humorous motion picture is done in the studio. Proving it to be humorous is done in theatres where it is tested out with every variety of audience.

After completing "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," Samuel Goldwyn insisted that his picture, which shows the adventures of Montague Glass's famous characters in their initial attempt in the field of motion picture production, should be tried in at least a dozen different theatres. The verdict was unanimous.

J. H. Sjogren, of Elgarose, was arrested late Saturday evening when Deputy Sheriffs Shambrook and Hodson raided his home and discovered a 5-gallon still. Sjogren was arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace George Jones and entered a plea of guilty. Lenency was recommended as the evidence tended to show that Sjogren was producing liquor only for his own use and no sales were accredited to him. Judge Jones assessed a fine of $150.
