ROSEBURG, OREGON, MONDAY, JANUARY 19, 1925.

CONSUMERS OF EXPLOSIVES.

The peace time activities of this country are the greatest consumers of explosives the world has ever known. Last year there were more than 500,000,000 pounds of explosives of all kinds produced in the United States and used for coal and metal mining, quarry, drainage, agriculture and contracting purposes.

MRS. HART WINS (Associated Press Leased Wire.) LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—Winifred Westover Hart today won a victory over William S. "Bill" Hart, motion picture actor and obtained legal right to return to screen work under her full name.

The court held that a trust fund of $105,000 created for her and a trust fund of $100,000 for the Hart baby would be held intact.

Mr. Brown, who is very slight in stature, and not in the best of health at any time, is suffering greatly from head injuries.

The defense of both teams was tight. Ferrin and Jos, the Roseburg guards, kept the Coos county boys from getting an open shot, and until the last quarter Coquille did not register a single field goal.

The Roseburg players greatly appreciated the courteous treatment shown them at Coquille, and Coach Douber spoke very highly of the sportsmanship of the Coos Bay team, which has defeated all of the leading teams in that section of the state.

The line-up for the game was as follows: Roseburg (12): P.O.S. Coquille (7): Hillwell (8), fwd.; Wilson (2): Collins (2), fwd.; Pedford (2): Beckley (2), C.; Stimmons (2): Nichols (2), C.; C.

Editors Speak Against Policy of Suppressing Crime Stories.

DOCTOR SPEAKS Code of Ethics Proposed as Guide for Editors—Cooperation in Crime Prevention Discussed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16. The American Society of Newspaper Editors, opening its annual convention today, held its first editorial ethics and in two editions—a morning and evening session—attempted to cover everything that has happened since its meeting of a year ago.

Criticism of some phases of the profession were coupled with a vigorous defense of the good faith of the newspapers of the country and the scope of journalism as defined by one editor, Herbert Bayard Swope of the New York World, as "life reflected in ink, and must partake of the ugliness as well as the beauty."

Deletion and suppression of crime news was touched upon and declared to be absurd, it being said that "expression can never be so bad, for the individual or group, as suppression."

The viewpoint of the medical profession on the press was brought up by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Association journal, who linked together the "honest doctor and the honest newspaper man," in berating the "publicity hound," but added that the average reporter falls an "easy prey to the medical exploiter of the press."

C. H. Dennis of the Chicago Daily News, told the convention that "when you begin to inquire as to who are the gentlemen who attack newspapers, you are surprised to find how little they know about newspapers."

"They sit in a corner perhaps," he added, "and dream about what newspapers are but they have very little real information and I think it is a very wholesome thing to call these gentlemen to account."

A report by a committee on the integrity of the press, headed by Paul Belamy of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was adopted. The report proposed a rigid code of ethics, not to be laid down in fact, but to be borne to the mind of editors for their guidance in the publication of semi-public matters affecting the private lives of persons in the public eye.

Capner S. Yost of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, president of the association, referring to a suggestion that the press might cooperate with the legal profession in the prevention of crime, said there was no more need for such co-operation between the press and the bar than "there is for regulation of the practice of the bar, as there are abuses in both professions."

They should co-operate, however, Mr. Yost added, to the extent of calling attention to the wide prevalence of crime and "the even more deplorable failure of agencies of justice to cope with it."

Physicians warn against neglecting coughs and colds and tell of the serious long complications that may result. Leading physicians now prescribe BALSAMEA for all bronchial affections. Will know Dr. Benj. F. C. Adams, Anderson, Mo., writes: "I use exclusively for my practice and my family. It is quick, sure and safe in its action like nothing else."

Toward the end of the influenza epidemic a government physician noticed that a tribe of Indians in Nevada, by the use of oils from a native plant were immune from the ravages of influenza. He used the oils on his patients and they were cured. He then wrote: "I use exclusively for my practice and my family. It is quick, sure and safe in its action like nothing else."

What you think if you saw a plane doing these same things with two men fighting a life and death struggle on one of the wings?

Well—that's just what you're going to see in "The Air Hawk," the picture starring Al Wilson, the world's most daring aviator, coming to the Liberty Theatre today and tomorrow and that's only one of a hundred never-before-attempted thrills that this picture contains.

ANTLERS THEATRE The encroachment on the unfenced ranges of the Southwest recently caused American cattlemen to unite their herds and drive them across the Rio Grande into Mexico and it was these scenes which were filmed by First National to be incorporated in "Sundown." Never again will such huge herds be seen in the United States. More than a quarter of a million head of the cattle will be seen winding their way in a huge line half a mile wide in this forthcoming production. Bessie Love, Roy Stewart and Hobart Bosworth head the cast of "Sundown," which is now shown at the Antlers Theatre.

MAJESTIC THEATRE The most dramatic telephone conversation ever "heard" on the screen is one of the many features in "Daughters of the Night," the sensational new William Fox photoplay visualizing the telephone service and the heroism of a telephone girl, showing at the Majestic Theatre today and Tuesday.

Jim Roberts, ne'er-do-well son of a rich father, thrown on his own, falls in with a band of high-class bank robbers. Escaping from the police after a "job," Jim finds himself trapped in a locked, barred storeroom of a small-town telephone building, which is on fire.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning signs, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blisters.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c. in jars and tubes.
