DEPARTING BAND DIRECTOR IS GIVEN FAREWELL BANQUET

Last evening the Douglas County Concert Band joined in the first banquet they have held in five years. The unique feature was the fact that a band of thirty entertainers were royally entertained and banqueted after a season of five years entertaining the public. The banquet was served by the Palace of Sweets and at the conclusion of the meal Miss Evelyn Nolan of the Heintze Conservatory appeared with a troupe of students and for an hour entertained the members of the band. The program consisted of dances by Virginia Yount and Mary Julia Clark, readings by little Miss Miller of Oakland, and readings by Miss Nolan. Miss Elomay Wilson entertained with her marvelous whistling. At the conclusion of the program A. T. Lawrence acted as toastmaster, and the following responded with speeches: Horace Berg, Arthur Mahoney, Alva Hunter, Harry Crocker, Dale Strang, W. A. Bowden, Harry McCabe, Fred Strang and others. A beautiful, engraved gold buckle with a watch guard attached was presented to the departing leader of the band, John C. Shields, who addressed the band members expressing his appreciation for the cooperation of the band members during his years of directing, and for the gift presented to him. At the adjournment of the banquet all members joined in hearty hand shakes and best wishes for the future of both Mr. Shields and Harry Crocker, who leave for Portland to take up their new duties. Mr. Nickerson, who takes the place of John Shields, is a man of twenty years' experience as a teacher, and comes highly recommended to Roseburg, and he anticipates a wonderful future for the Douglas County Concert Band.

CIVIL WAR GENERALS' DAYS OF PIONEERING IN OREGON RECALLED

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 3.—Little known incidents in the early army careers of Generals Ulysses S. Grant, Phil Sheridan and George B. McClellan are related in an account of a year they spent at old Fort Vancouver, Oregon territory, written by Mrs. Della B. Sheffield, who as the wife of a sergeant in the Fourth United States Infantry, the command to which they were attached, shared their pioneering experiences there in pre-Civil war days. A movement has been launched to restore old Fort Vancouver near what is now Vancouver, Wash., across the Columbia river from Portland, Ore. The Fourth United States Infantry, one of the pioneer organizations of the army, now is stationed at Fort George Wright, Spokane.

Mrs. Sheffield's memoirs of these days have been made public by William S. Lewis, historian of the Eastern Washington Historical Society, who received them from Mrs. Caroline Hathaway Cook, Mrs. Sheffield's daughter. General, then Captain Grant, was regimental quartermaster and was in charge of the transportation of the Fourth Infantry on its long journey from Governor's Island, New York, to Fort Vancouver in 1852. The trip was commenced on July 5, by steamer for Aspinwall, Panama, and thence across the Isthmus of Panama by train, boat, on muleback and afoot. The officers were accompanied by their families and some of the women carried small babies.

To add to the difficulties of the journey, the California gold rush was in full swing, and after the regiment had boarded a steamer on the Pacific side of the Isthmus, Asiatic cholera broke out. San Francisco was reached September 1, but no shores were granted for fear of desertions to seek gold. At Benicia, Calif., an army post, the regiment went into camp to recuperate until September 18, and then again boarded ship for Fort Vancouver, which was reached some days later. Besides the army barracks there, the town consisted of the Hudson's Bay Company's trading post and a dozen log huts of Indian and halfbreed employes of the company, which carried on extensive trapping operations with Fort Vancouver as the base.

In order to raise the money to bring his family from the east, Captain Grant with a fellow officer leased a tract of land not far from the fort, which he planted to potatoes and oats. However, the river flooded out the crops.

In the spring of 1853 Captain Grant asked Mrs. Sheffield to take into her home as boarders himself, Lieutenant Phil Sheridan, Captain George B. McClellan and two others. When she objected that she would be unable to care for so large a household, Captain Grant replied:

"Oh, that can be easily managed. I shall detail one of the soldiers who is a good cook to do the cooking, and besides, I have an excellent cook book and am a pretty good cook myself. I am sure that you shall manage very well."

Grant missed his wife very much at this time and frequently expressed a desire to resign from the army and live with his family, which some time later he did. After the potato failure, Grant and his business associate bought all the chickens for 20 miles around and chartered a vessel to ship them to market in San Francisco. The ship returned with the news that the chickens had died on the way, however, thus dealing a second blow to Grant's fortunes.

When Grant was ordered to report for duty at Humboldt, Calif., he gave Mrs. Sheffield his cook book, his feather pillows and some trinkets.

"During Grant's stay of one year at Fort Vancouver he had not made an enemy and gained the friendship and good will of everybody," Mrs. Sheffield wrote. "He was indeed one of nature's noblemen."

A considerable quantity of pottery has been uncovered, and it is said to be unlike anything hitherto found on the American continent. As soon as weather conditions permit, further excavations will be undertaken by W. M. Harrington, representing the Heye Foundation of American Indian Research and the Smithsonian Institution. Mr. Harrington at present is superintending excavation at the Pueblo Grande Nevada, where almost every day he is finding evidence that convinces him this city existed some 2,000 years ago and was occupied for a thousand years before it was abandoned for some unknown cause. He has uncovered 18 tombs, containing vessels decorated in turquoise and pearl shell cut into small beads. The length of this city of antiquity has been established at six miles.

F. W. Hodge, curator of the Heye Foundation, has recommended an appropriation ample to excavate the entire city. It is estimated the work will cost around $100,000.

quality never sacrificed for price

In the milling of FISHER'S BLEND FLOUR we never sacrifice quality for price. Sometimes FISHER'S BLEND is slightly higher in price than other flours—the price varies according to the price we are compelled to pay for highest grade wheats. It's economy to buy FISHER'S BLEND even when you have to pay a few cents more per sack, because FISHER'S BLEND will make more and larger loaves of better bread.

SEARCHERS FIND SECOND ANCIENT CITY

TONOPAH, Nev., Feb. 3.—(A. P.)—Another prehistoric city was found recently 30 miles east of Beatty, at the head of Forty Mile Canyon. The discoverers, Judge W. B. Gray and W. E. Bond, of Beatty, have been investigating their find for two months and they say it promises to rival in archaeological importance Pueblo Grande Nevada, the ancient city found recently in the Valley of Fire.

BIG BIRTHDAY BARGAINS

Celebrating the 22nd Year of Rexall

10,000 Rexall Stores

The twenty-second year of Rexall finds the 10,000 Rexall Stores, which reach from coast to coast and across the Atlantic, better prepared than ever before to serve the steadily-growing army of buyers who insist on quality goods and who appreciate money-saving values.

Our own controlled factories and laboratories, employing 10,000 people, are organized to deliver to you, through us, the finest quality of merchandise that skilled workmanship, modern machinery, creative ability, manufacturing skill, scientific research, study of markets, and tremendous purchasing power can produce.

The standards of quality demanded by these factories in their raw materials are more rigorous than ever before. So likewise are the safeguards set up to insure highest quality in the finished product.

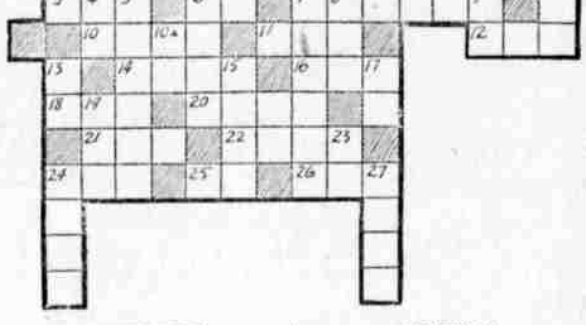

To give you the opportunity to know, at rock bottom prices, some of the merchandise which these factories produce and distribute exclusively through Rexall Stores—and to celebrate the twenty-second year of this nation-wide organization—we are going to run, from February 5th to 14th inclusive, a big Twenty-Second Rexall Birthday Sale.

There will be fully ninety genuine bargains on standard, guaranteed goods which we sell in our store every day at regular prices. It is a real opportunity to you to secure unusual values on items used regularly in every home, and to learn, if you have not already, the practical application of our Rexall creed: "The Best in Drug Store Goods; The Best in Drug Store Service."

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "saw" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.
