months prior to election. The senate bill providing that the salary of the peace of the Salem district be placed on a flat salary of $2,400 a year, instead of receiving his compensation by the fee system, was killed by indefinite postponement in the senate today. The attorney general ruled the bill unconstitutional.

Sanpractice O. K.'D
Persons engaged in the "sanpractice" profession in Oregon would be permitted to issue death certificates, other official documents and would be allowed to sign birth certificates if their college training in obstetrics and minor surgery justified it under the provisions of house bill 197 introduced by Hurlbut, Multnomah county.

Colleges Ask Money
Among a large number of petitions heard by the ways and means committee last night were representatives of the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural College. Dr. R. B. Dillhunt, head of the medical school of the state university, appeared in behalf of the desired $41,000 appropriation for maintenance of the Dornbecker memorial hospital for children. The sum of $200,000 has been left for establishment of the hospital.

Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, C. C. Colt and Major W. S. Gilbert, all members of the board of regents of the university, also spoke for the appropriation.

Representatives of Oregon Agricultural College appeared in behalf of various activities of that institution for which appropriations are asked. J. S. Landers and Mrs. Louise Palmer Webber spoke for the Monmouth Normal School appropriations.

Game License Law Extended
Women and girls would be required to purchase hunting and fishing licenses under house bill 228 passed this morning by the house. It provides that any person over 14 years of age would be forced to buy a license. The measure would also change the non-resident's license fee to a flat $3 for a hunting or fishing license, with the same combination fee as granted residents. The bill makes a number of other minor changes in the present game code. Pioneers who came to Oregon prior to 1870 would be given free licenses under the bill. The present law names the year 1860.

To Revise Motor Laws
House bill 21 providing for a two thirds rate truck license for farmers using their automobiles only seven months of the year was passed.

House bill 22 regulating the load which smaller trucks may carry with reference to tire width was passed.

All pneumatic tired passenger cars would be permitted to run 30 miles an hour under house bill 24 passed. At present the law prohibits passenger buses with tires beyond a certain size from operating faster than 25 miles an hour. The law also applies to all small cars equipped with ball-tires, although it has not been enforced.

House bill 26 which provides that motor vans of less than one ton capacity be placed in the class of trucks for the purpose of taxation, was killed by indefinite postponement today. The measure was sponsored by a special committee appointed by Governor Pierce several months ago.

Revise Irrigation Taxation
Senate bill 127 by the joint committee on irrigation, providing that taxes for operation and maintenance of irrigation districts shall be levied and collected separately from assessments for bond retirement and interest, was passed by the senate today.

The senate today passed a current resolution introduced by Eddy providing for a committee to investigate the feasibility of a teachers retirement fund.

Governor Pierce today signed six bills including:

- House bill 96, Hercher—prohibiting rams, other than pure bred to run at large in Douglas county.
- Senate bill 31, Davis—Relating to non-evidence of ownership of livestock by Brands.
- Senate bill 38—Brown—Providing treble damages for trespass.

PROF. SCUDDER OUTLINES THE WORK OF FARM

Explains Plan of the State Land Settlement Commission.

IS AID TO SETTLERS

Report Meets Approval of Business Men and Farmers Who Attended the Meeting.

That the work being carried on at the model farm, located east of the city, and operated under supervision of the Oregon Agricultural college, was all that could be asked, and that the criticisms against the methods employed there were unfounded, and that the state has really made an excellent showing since the farm was established here, was the unanimous verdict of the business men and farmers who gathered at the city hall yesterday afternoon to hear Prof. Scudder relative to the management and work at the experimental farm.

The meeting was called to order by Lloyd Crocker, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who briefly outlined the reasons for calling the meeting and introduced Prof. Scudder. A letter from Representative Walter Fisher was read relative to the appropriation being asked for carrying on the three model farms in the state, and since it is necessary that the legislature wants some backing in this matter of appropriating money, and because there has been adverse criticism, the attitude of Roseburg toward the enterprise was desired.

Prof. Scudder took the floor and wasted no time in getting down to the facts in the situation. He stated that three model farms were financed by legislative act a few years ago. One farm was placed at Independence, the second one at Roseburg, and the third at Prineville. The work at Independence was begun first. The farm there is in excellent condition and meeting every expectation. The work at Roseburg has been carried on successfully, and the property is practically to the point where it will be thrown open to the public. Only about $500 of the appropriation being asked for at the hands of the present legislature is needed for Roseburg, and that money will be put into the poultry plant, which has proved a paying proposition from the start. The balance of the appropriation asked for will go to equip the Prineville project.

It was pointed out by Prof. Scudder that even with state money back of an institution of the kind under discussion that time was required to build up a piece of raw land to the place where it would become a producer. Land had to be cleared, ground broken up and planted to the various fruits desired, buildings erected, irrigating systems installed, and a big lot of work done to make the farm what it ought to be, and the four years past have been filled with that sort of work. While the O. A. C. had planned on another year of development before the farm should be thrown open to inspection, he believed that the commission might see fit to order the opening this year, and particularly since there was so insistent demand for this. The farm was established for the purpose of demonstrating how settlers might come into the state and make their homes on land, bring their farms up to a point where they would support the families and become profitable investments to

Members of Internal Revenue Department to Assist Preparing Statements.
MANY CHANGES MADE
Will Pay too Much Tax Unless Attention is Given to Modification of Law.

Many people are apt to pay too much income tax unless they take advantage of the reductions made. Experts from the largest manufacturers of farm implements in the world will be on hand at Wharton Bros. tractor school to give you advice on tractors. If you are having trouble with your tractor they can advise you. No sales talks, just instructions. Be there at 10 a. m. by the new changes in the federal measure, according to Fred L. Colvig and D. W. Herring, internal revenue collectors, who arrived in Roseburg today to spend the coming week in aiding taxpayers of the city in making up their reports. The two men will have offices at the federal building, where all persons desiring assistance in making out their returns can secure the needed help.

Thousands of dollars of excess payments or income taxes have been paid since January 1 the internal revenue bureau says, because the taxpayers aren't taking advantage of one of the most important tax reductions made by congress last year, and effective this year for the first time.

Most taxpayers notice that the normal rates for small incomes are much lower than last year, and pay accordingly.

But they don't notice this: "Earned income" only has to pay 75 per cent of the tax as computed under the regular rate.

Earned income, according to the new law, includes "wages, salaries, professional fees and other amounts received as compensation for services actually rendered."

All net income for 1924 up to the sum of $5,000, is regarded as "earned income" for the purpose of making this 25 per cent reduction. "The total of 'earned net income,' however, can be as high as $10,000 but no higher.

For example, a taxpayer who received $2,000 in salary and $3,000 in profit from a real estate deal is entitled to count it as "earned income" and pay three-fourths of the tax on it. A taxpayer who gets a salary of $10,000 is entitled likewise to deduct 25 per cent. A taxpayer with a salary of $5,000, and a real estate deal profit of $5,000, however, is entitled to the deduction only on the $5,000 of salary. A taxpayer whose net salary income for 1925 was $15,000 can deduct the credit of the tax on only $5,000.

The personal exemptions and deductions for dependents are taken out of the income before arriving at the "net income" on which the tax, and in many cases, the 25 per cent reduction, is decided.

Another relief for business men provided in the new tax law is being regarded by many returns, the bureau says. This is as follows: "A taxpayer who is operating a business in which both personal service and capital are material in the producing factors, is entitled to a reasonable allowance as compensation for personal services actually rendered, which amount shall be considered as earned net income. This amount shall not exceed 20 per cent of his share of the net profits of such trade or business, and in no case can he consider any amount over $10,000 as net income."

On this "earned net income," the business man is entitled to deduct 25 per cent of the taxes due. If the share of 20 per cent of his profits amounts to $10,000 or less, the taxpayer may consider the entire amount "earned income."

Taxpayers failing to understand the new regulations are advised to call at the offices of the internal revenue collectors.
