INCREASES SHOWN DURING YEAR 1924

There is nothing the matter with Roseburg according to the figures compiled at the Chamber of Commerce office, in regard to the number of electric light users, water users and telephone patrons in the city. The post office receipts have also increased several hundred dollars over 1923. All these things are sure signs of progress that cannot be explained away by the pessimist. The following are the figures:

Electric light users:	1921	1821
1924	1821	1582
1923	1821	1677
Increase	249
Water Users:	1921	1821
1924	1821	1677
1923	1821	1677
Increase	144
Telephone Users:	1921	1774
1924	1821	1675
1923	1821	1675
Increase	99
Postoffice Receipts:	1924	$31,420.29
1923	30,775.07
Increase	$ 655.22

The figures also have a significance in their bearing on the population of the city, as it can be said that our population is now considerably over 5000, possibly nearer 6500.

ZE GRAN DUKE, HE SPIK VERRA BUM

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Many radio fans have decided that the Grand Duke Boris may be worth adjusting the dials in case he appears before the "Mike" again. He made his radio debut at WOR last night in a five minute talk on his impressions of America.
His impressions were more or less generalities, but what the radio fans talked about today were his pronouncements of the name of the station as if it were the word for armed strife between nations and his audible pauses between sentences, prolonged "ahems" like the sound of an electric generator. He expressed the opinion that the radio would make for international peace.

COLONEL J. G. DAY CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

L. N. Day, well known Portland attorney, and former state senator, is in the city for several days visiting with his father and mother, Colonel and Mrs. J. G. Day. Wednesday was the Colonel's 83rd birthday and the son was here to join with them in the celebration. Mrs. Day's birthday will also occur shortly as she is only a few months younger than her husband. Colonel Day is still very active and a daily visitor along the streets of the city. His many friends extend their congratulations and are pleased to find him so hale and hearty at such a ripe old age.

LABOR AGITATORS FOMENT RAIDS; CONSTABULARY SENT.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
MANILA, Feb. 5.—Governor General Leonard Wood ordered a company of constabulary troops to proceed to the province of Nueva Ecija on account of threatened trouble between land owners and tenants.
According to reports from the constabulary officers, the threatened trouble was provoked by labor organizations which encourage tenants to storm rice plantations and to take by force their

ROBERT A. WOODRUFF

The death of this old and unassuming pioneer perhaps deserves a further notice as it relates to the early history of this county. He was born in Zanesville, Ohio, September 12, 1839, and emigrated with his father's family in their ox team across the plains in 1854, coming direct to the Umpqua Valley that year and settling in the French settlement, now Melrose. Many Indians were still encamped here as neighbors of old Aurora Rose, near the site of this city. With few exceptions Robert made his home in this county during these long years. When but 16 years of age, being expert with his rifle, he enlisted in Captain Edward Sheffield's Company A of the Oregon Mounted Volunteers, with many other young men of this county for the Rogue River Indian war, and was mustered into service at the little village of Roseburg on February 8, 1856, and served to the end of the war, and was a pensioner of the government for many years.

The company, under the regiment commanded by Col. John Kelcey, in later years a circuit judge of our courts, met the enemy and a fight occurred at Big Meadows on Rogue River where several of the whites were wounded and the Indians defeated. Woodruff outlived all of his comrades, as it is believed.

He was married to Miss Margaret Cathcart, daughter of Judge William Cathcart, an early territorial county judge of this county, on November 28, 1855, and for 60 years the marriage continued until dissolved by death on the third instant. There were born to them three children. Of these, two sons, Mortimer, and Virgil Shelby, still survive, and have long been active citizens of our county. There have also been two grandchildren, and three great grandchildren.

For five years Robert and his family resided in Coos county on Coos river. At another interval he was a gold miner in Eastern Oregon, and also occasionally employed as packer of government supplies for the military in war times there. For the fifteen years last past he has resided continuously in Roseburg, "in all of his modest and long life among us, he endeavored himself to many friends who now mourn his death. He was a good and law abiding citizen, kind and generous to those in need, and an affectionate father and husband. His example was a good one and an incentive to all desirous of the good opinion of their fellow men. On yesterday his mortal remains were conveyed by sorrowing kindred and friends, to the old cemetery at Melrose, where in the far away years he first made his home in that locality.

To the old timers of Umpqua, a brief reference to Hart Woodruff, the father of Robert, will be of interest, as he was best known. He was born October 12, 1815, the year following the great war of 1812. He took a donation land claim of 340 acres, near where Melrose now is, and was among the first of its settlers, with the Indians still numerous in that vicinity. The next year Hart was induced to cross the plains with his family, and they came to brother Jock's settlement in the Umpqua.

The California gold claim he exchanged to brother Jock, one half of the fine donation land next to brother Hart and later still the other half came into Uncle Hart, as he was always affectionately known. Jock was by nature a rover, and fond of trapping, hunting and mining, but in all their years these two brothers, Uncle Jock and Uncle Hart, were inseparable companions, and to the writer of this eulogy, with those who still survive among the old pioneers, a smile will come as they well remember the two brothers, in great glee, one with drum and the other with life, playing Yankee Doodle and other patriotic airs at all our early 4th of July celebrations, and jubiliations over the news of Union victory in the Civil war.

They fulfilled their place as they saw it and made it happier for themselves and their comrades in the struggle of life. They helped to make our state what it is and to their blessed memory may we fondly say: "All Hail and Farewell!"

WOMAN IS HELD FOR FORGING NAME

Lola M. Hileman, who arrived in this city yesterday from Eugene, is being held by county authorities here today for an examination as to her sanity. The woman cashed a check at the Douglas National Bank late yesterday for $5.00. She first appeared at the bank asking for the sum on a personal check made out to a Eugene bank. The cashier informed her that she must have some identification and she was told to go to the Terminal Hotel, where she was registered, and secure an endorsement on the check. She went to the Terminal barber shop and approaching Fred Jones, inquired his name. When told, she took his pencil and wrote it on the back of the check and returned to the bank. She secured the $5 after telling the cashier that Mr. Jones had signed the check. The cashier later in the evening inquired of Mr. Jones regarding his signature and was informed that it had been forged. The woman was still at the hotel when Chief Ketch accosted her and she told the officer that Mr. Jones had instructed her to sign his name. The officers believe the woman is mentally deranged and will have her examined for sanity today. She had purchased a ticket to Medford with the $5 and as soon as she was apprehended she cashed in the ticket and returned the money to the bank.

STATE PRESS COMMENT

Wanted—A Law-less Legislature.
New state laws are being turned out at Salem as rapidly as a certain make of automobiles from a certain factory near Detroit, Michigan. (The name of the car is not mentioned for that, of course, would be advertising.)

How many of these laws are good laws, how many are needed, how many will merely lead to confusion and litigation? No one can tell, but every one knows that if state legislatures continue to manufacture laws on the quantity basis, the time will come when no one will be able to cut a slice of bread without first consulting an attorney.

We don't agree with the downstate periodical that advocates the abolishment of the legislature. The legislature is necessary and useful. The members of the legislature are, as a whole, men of ability, integrity and imbued with an spirit of genuine public service.

But we do believe there is too much law-making by legislatures, too deep-seated a conviction among legislators, particularly the new ones—that unless they can tack their name upon a new statute or two they will be regarded as failures.

The great need at Salem is not for law makers, but for law doctors—physicians and surgeons—men intent upon improving the laws we have, and weeding out the laws—new and old—we do not need.

In fact we would favor a moratorium in law making for three or four years—and at least one session of the legislature in which the manufacture of new laws would be entirely prohibited. This might lead to some inconsequence, but the benefits would far outweigh any possible injuries. Perhaps the half breed name of Douglas county might be given undesirable freedom, but the people would be given a new freedom.

UNION OIL COMPANY

Spare Your Motor As well as your Starter!

Remember, there's more due your motor than gasoline which starts quickly. That's a common quality with good gasolines.

YOUR motor-pistons should receive a powerful thrust, not a sudden crashing blow upon the head. That thrust should come from a sort of series of explosions which deliver power impulses throughout the entire length of each piston's stroke.

A swift, vibrationless acceleration,—gliding, rushing speed—and minimized "knocking" on hills and through heavy pulls are the results.

To use this fuel is to insure your motor's best performance.

Non-detonating gasoline produces such explosions and Union is non-detonating gasoline.

Sold through Union Service Stations and independent dealers everywhere.

CREDIT HEAD FIRED; BANK CLOSES DOORS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 5.—The Pierre National Bank of Commerce failed to open for business today. President A. W. Ewart of the bank was dismissed yesterday by Governor Carl Gunderson as treasurer of the rural credits board. He testified yesterday that his institution had paid up capital and surplus of $105,000, and that rural credits funds deposited in it approximated $200,000.

KLAN DEFEATED IN ANAHEIM ELECTION

ANAHEIM, Cal., Feb. 5.—Mayor E. H. Metcalf and three other city trustees, who are avowed members of the Ku Klux Klan, were recalled from office in the "Klan versus anti-Klan" election held here Tuesday, according to complete unofficial returns from the city's twelve precincts. Returns show Mayor Metcalf was ousted by a margin of 475 votes. The only anti-Klan member of the board, against whom the Klan supporters had launched a recall petition as a retaliatory move, remained in office by virtue of a vote of 2200 to retain him as against 1791 to recall him.
