ARTICHOKE GROWING TO BE TRIED IN THE UMPQUA VALLEY

Mr. R. H. C. Wood, manager of the Um-Qua Valley Broccoli Growers, Inc., has, for the past two years, been investigating the lowly artichoke with a view to growing it commercially in this district. There are more than one kind of artichokes, and the one Mr. Wood refers to, is not the kind grown for "hog feed", but for "human consumption" and is a very highly prized vegetable. In fact it is quite an aristocrat, being much sought after and is fine for salads, as well as being used baked, boiled or fried.

Artichokes are grown chiefly in this country in the Half Moon Bay district, on the coast a few miles south of San Francisco, where some five thousand acres are planted and from where a large number of car loads are shipped annually.

Among the chief requisites for successful growing of the artichoke commercially is irrigation and frost free winters. With plenty of water and proper cultivation the main crop can be brought on and disposed of before it is likely to be injured by frost. The roots are not easily injured by frost, and when properly planted and cared for will produce continuously for a number of years.

Prof. A. G. B. Bouquet, Oregon Agricultural college has prepared a circular on this subject, a copy of which may be had from Mr. Wood or from the College on application. Mr. Wood has also been able to secure a limited number of the plants.

Prof. Bouquet's circular reads in part as follows:

In November of 1922 the best grade of artichoke was selling for $20 per box of four dozen. Later on the price declined to $8.00 per box. As one plant may bear over a dozen boxes each season, the acre yield may run about four hundred boxes per year, which ought to make the crop pay pretty well.

The artichoke does not come true from seed, as is propagated by offshoots or suckers each of which the plant forms several each year. The variety which is commonly grown in the Half Moon district, is called the Green Globe or the Italian. In the fields are a few plants which bear smaller buds and have a purple color on the under side of the scales. These are called the French Artichoke and are considered the poorer type.

The new fields are set out in early winter, the plants growing fast and producing a small crop in the spring. During May the plants are cut back by running a special tool over the beds with a blade bent to cut off the plants just below the surface of the soil. The plants are then forced to remain dormant for a couple of months by the simple expedient of withholding water to the end of July. Then the fields are irrigated and cultivated, the plants renewing their growth vigorously and the buds beginning to appear in October. The pickings are rather light until after Christmas, when the crop comes on faster. Harvest continues until May, when the plants are cut down and forced to go dormant again. This procedure is repeated for five or ten years, by which time the plants have spread out and become crowded so that the fields are plowed up and replanted. The plants are set 4 1/2 feet apart in a double row, on a high, wide bed which is 10 or 12 feet and 10 in the center. Between the beds is a ditch which serves for irrigation in the fall and for drainage in the rainy winter season.

The only serious enemy of the artichoke is the bud worm which borers into the buds and renders many of them unfavorable.

Hitherto the San Francisco district has enjoyed a monopoly of the artichoke business, but several new plantings are now being made at points further down the coast, especially in the Salinas Valley and at Santa Cruz. A hundred and sixty acres of artichoke are being planted also on a ranch at Santa Maria. The crop fares well all along the coast as far south as Los Angeles, and is grown as a home garden crop in many parts of the state.

Few people seem to understand the summer treatment which brings the plants to bearing in the fall and winter, when prices are high, and of course in many places the winters are too cool for the crop. Then also the present market demand is rather limited due to the high price, and as yet there are few American people outside of California who are acquainted with the vegetable. The demand for artichokes is increasing, however, and larger plantings are being made.

KENTUCKY OUT TO STOP TONGUES GIVEN TO GOSSIP.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 6.—With the announced purpose of curbing the malicious wagging of tongues, the Kentucky anti-gossip law is being invoked and is securing convictions.

Frowning upon the repeating or scattering of false rumors or reports of a slanderous or harmful nature, it places a $10 to $100 fine or 10 to 50 days imprisonment, or both, as punishment.

The gossip is deemed guilty unless he is able to show to the satisfaction of a judge or jury that he carefully investigated the source and foundation of the bandied remarks, and proved that they had reasonable grounds.

To make available proper defense, the gossip must furnish for the public court record "the name or names of the person or persons furnishing information upon which the rumor or report was based."

The law laid title in the bound acts of the last general assembly until recently at Owensboro a woman was fined $10 for remarks linking policemen, alleged bribes, and bootleg cases. The latest case at Paducah began when a warrant, charging a councilman with gossiping that he had seen the name of a county judge on the Ku Klux Klan roster, was sworn out.

Gossip "detrimental to the character or standing" of a private citizen or officer or candidate for office was made a misdemeanor.

ANTLERS THEATRE

The largest cast ever assembled for a motion picture comedy appeared in Buster Keaton's latest Metro-Goldwyn film, "The Navigator," which is coming to the Antlers Theatre on Friday for a run of two days. Most of the picture was made aboard the "Buford," a 400 foot liner, which was chartered for that purpose by the star.

In addition to the crew of 110 men, the "Buford" carried 500 actors and actresses in the first class section of the ship, 300 in the second class, and 150 in the steerage. When Buster sailed out to sea there were more than 1,100 persons on the vessel.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

Hal Roach sends his fun-makers headed by Glenn Tryon and Blanche McHaffey, to us in his latest novelty play, "The White Sheep," which will be the attraction at the Majestic Theatre. This picture, which is being released by Pathé, is said to strike a new note in comedy features and to be a blend of exciting melodrama with broad farce.

The story is laid in a little town that straddles the state line between Kansas and Missouri where the Fighting Tyler family reign supreme.

LIBERTY THEATRE

Bob Custer, the Western hero, will be seen at the Liberty Theatre today and tomorrow in a new story of adventure and love "Fighting Spurs". The story is full of pep throughout, with all the zip and crash of a giant rocket, all the get-up and go of a whirling airplane, and all the flash of a lightning bolt.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
HELSINKI, Finland, Feb. 6.—The recent exploits of Panvo Nurmi in the United States and the remarkable success of the Finnish athletes at the Olympic games in Paris have led sportsmen of many countries to seek the secret of the Finlander's prowess.

According to government health authorities it lies entirely in the healthy, spartan diet of the people and the essential vitality of a race to which hard bodily exercises is as much of a necessity as food and sleep.

The staple food of the country outside the towns, is a kind of porridge of which bran forms an important part.

AIDS UNCLE SAM'S BOYS

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Men of Uncle Sam's fighting forces who get into scrapes in the national capital find a staunch friend in Mrs. Andrew J. Campbell. For the last three years she has visited the police courts almost daily to assist soldiers, sailors and marines on trial for minor offenses. Her work has been commended by army, navy and marine authorities and by police magistrates.

Mrs. Campbell, who has a son and daughter in the service, helps service men in trouble by supplying small funds or by communicating with relatives. It is her proud boast that no man she has aided ever returned to court. She takes pride in another patriotic service, the bringing of wreaths on every new grave in the Arlington national cemetery.

BOOTBLACKS HAVE NO FEARS

(By Associated Press.)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—Women are not so extravagant as popular belief would paint them, but on the contrary are economical, or at any rate they don't pay out money for shoe shines, say Los Angeles bootblacks. The shiners say that 15 men have their shoes polished to one woman.

A woman, they explained, will take home a 25-cent bottle of polish, hunt up a rag and at the end of a month figure out how much she has saved. Then, if she is married, she is liable to try to break up the age old mal custom of hiring someone else to clean his shoes.

6 HOURS DEBATE, 6 NO VOTES ON CONFIRMATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Although the nomination of Attorney-General Stone to be a supreme justice was confirmed last night by the senate, 71 to 6, Mr. Stone will be unable to take his place on the bench until March 2, when the court convenes after its present recess.

Mr. Warren's nomination is now before the judiciary committee. The nomination probably would be given consideration next Monday.

The vote on Mr. Stone's nomination in the senate came after six hours of debate in open executive session, a somewhat unusual manner of considering executive appointments. Two democrats, two republicans and two farmer-labor senators voted against confirmation.

A WORD FOR BEGINNERS.

The best way to solve a cross-word puzzle is to run quickly over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms and compare them to the spaces in the puzzle extending cross-wise or downward from the number of the synonym. Some words will just fit in the number of space available will quickly occur to you in some instances, giving you a foundation from which to solve the more difficult words. The words must interlock perfectly.
