CONVENTION AT EUGENE TO DRAW MANY MERCHANTS

A large number of local merchants are leaving on Sunday for Eugene to attend the twenty-first annual convention of the Oregon Retail Merchants' association. The convention will last over Wednesday, and a very interesting program has been prepared.

Sunday afternoon will be given over to a meeting of the board of directors, a get-together banquet at the palm room in the Osborn hotel at 6 p. m. and a lecture by Irving Vining, president of the State Chamber of Commerce at 7:45 p. m.

The convention will be called on Monday morning at 9:45 a. m. and welcome addresses and responses will be made, followed by the reports of the president, secretary and treasurer, and remarks by the chairman of the executive board, and the appointments of committees.

The afternoon will be taken up by addresses on topics of interest to the business men. Tuesday and Wednesday mornings will be given over to conferences, each branch of business having its own division, where problems and subjects pertinent to that particular line of trade will be taken up.

The afternoons will be given over to addresses by prominent speakers.

Plenty of entertainment is being provided for each day and a good time is assured all who attend.

A large number of the Roseburg merchants are planning on making the trip, so that the city will be well represented.

One Wife on Approval by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

CYNTHIA LELAND'S husband, Jim, has gone to Honolulu shortly after their marriage, following a misunderstanding with his wife, and has taken his mother with him, leaving Cynthia to face the disapproval of her sister-in-law.

LOUELLA, and all her world, Cynthia turns to.

CICILE MALCOLM, leader of the town's largest set, and accepts the friendship of Cynthia.

NOEL GARDNER, the town's black sheep, going with them to a mid-winter house party at Cecile's mountain cabin.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XXXVIII—CONFIDENCES

WHAT would Jim Leland do when he got home? What would he say when he heard that his wife had been snatched away from him?

When he got home, he would find a note pinned to the door, and a key to a summer cottage for three days.

It was a note from Noel Gardner, who had been waiting for him.

"Then I'm going to kidnap you," he answered, quietly. "I know that you'd never run away from him, but I'm not going to let you ruin your life by sticking with him, and having him and his family look down on you forever. You'd stick it out, I know, but I won't have that."

He was quite capable of carrying out his threat, she knew. The opinion of other people meant nothing to him. They could live abroad, of course, if Jim divorced her, and yet not a picture she liked—had yet how could she remain with Jim, under the constant disapproval of his family? That would be even worse. Oh, how had she contrived to make such a mess of her life!

She thought of the various women of her acquaintance; any one of them would have handled the situation so easily. Louella would never have got into it in the first place; she would always have been happy in the life that Jim and his mother desired.

And Cecile would never have hesitated for an instant if she knew that Noel loved her. She would have thrown her bonnet over the windmill and followed him to the ends of the earth.

But then, if she wouldn't have fallen in love with a woman who was capable of taking things that way?

"Have you any idea of when Jim will be home?" Noel went on, after a few moments' silence.

"He ought to be home within two weeks," Cynthia answered slowly. "I haven't heard exactly." Even to Noel she hated to admit that Jim's letters were rare, and that they said very little.

"Then we can settle this thing soon. I'm glad of that," Noel replied. "I'd suggest that you make arrangements to bring suit at once, as soon as you've reached an agreement with Jim, and then you might go away for a while, and I could join you later, and we'd be married."

"The only thing I'm sure of is that I haven't heard exactly," Noel said. "I haven't heard exactly." Even to Noel she hated to admit that Jim's letters were rare, and that they said very little.

CO-EDS WARNED TO ABANDON FLAPPER SKIRTS AND ROUGE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 12.—Co-eds of Union College, at College View Lincoln suburb, were given four days in which to abandon short skirts, low necked dresses, rouge and lipstick and adopt attire specified by President W. W. Prescott of the institution in an ultimatum issued at a meeting "for girls only at the college yesterday."

The girls were ordered by President Prescott to garb themselves in clothing in no way conspicuous for the girl students.

Skirts not more than nine inches from the ground; elbow length sleeves; closely fitting collars and rougeless faces.

Commenting after the meeting Mr. Prescott said:

"The model girl should be so inconspicuous in her mode of dress that people might not remember her for her clothes, but her personality."

Girls who fail to comply with the ruling, the president said will not be permitted to attend classes.

DOCTOR WAS HELD UNDER OCCULT SPELL

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A weird tale that Dr. W. C. Parker, explorer and former professor at Columbia, who proved that Dr. Frederick A. Cook was a faker in his claims of having climbed Mount McKinley, has been hypnotized by Swamlee and used to further anti-doctor propaganda in India, has been told in court here.

The story was told at the hearing of the divorce action brought by Mrs. Evelyn Naeffle Parker. She said that her husband had been missing since 1919. Her counsel said an unidentified woman had informed him over the telephone that Dr. Parker had been hypnotized by Swamlee Radchandan and taken to India. Mrs. Parker filed suit for separation in 1919.
