ROSEBURG, OREGON, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1925.

"ONCE A SCOUT ALWAYS A SCOUT!"

"Good things generally come in two's," is an old adage. In this case, the good things are the Boy Scouts of America, and the 2,000,000 boys who have been enrolled in its ranks.

This week the Boy Scouts are celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of their Movement in this country. The slogan of the week is, "Once a Scout, Always a Scout," the predominant motive, to renew the comradeship between these 2,000,000 young men and the Movement.

Not the least impressive of the nation-wide ceremonies of the week occurred on February 8th, when the entire huge membership, standing at attention, renewed allegiance to the principles of the Scout Oath and Law.

From the business and professional worlds, from the fields of church, school and state the 2,000,000 formerly active comrades have been coming to join the ranks. Scout manhood is greeting Scout boyhood—a union hard to excel.

As a result these Scout men are going to carry back anew into 2,000,000 organizations and institutions, stores and offices, the fresh, joyous spirit of Scouting and its love for fellowmen.

But a vaster result can be expected. These young men with renewed consciousness of the advantages they have received from Scouting are going to feel a deepened sense of obligation in passing on to other boys the good things that older men have given them. An increase in volunteer leaders will come about.

This will mean help and more help in solving Scouting's greatest problem—the question of sufficient leadership.

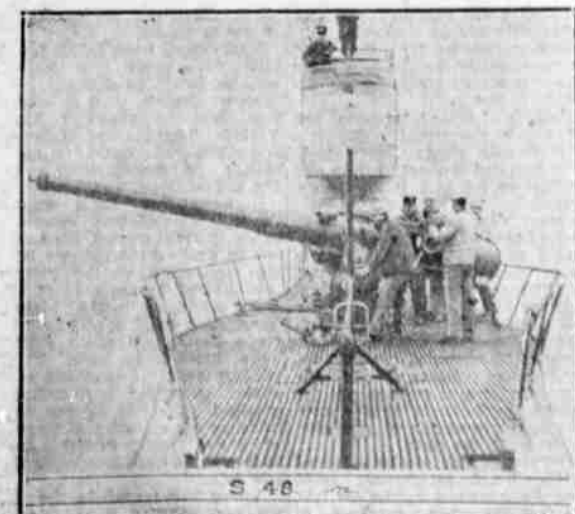

Today in the United States there are 8,000,000 boys of scout age not yet in the ranks of Scouting. Nine-tenths of these boys ardently desire to be scouts but are denied this opportunity because of the lack of leadership. More scoutmasters mean more boys influenced at the most critical period of their lives, toward the ideals of manhood that America needs.

If 2,000,000 formerly active Boy Scouts take upon themselves the duties and responsibilities of Scout leadership, inestimable will be the results to our nation in good citizenship, democracy and true Americanism.

MR. CLEAVER THE "GOAT."

After reading the prohibition probe committee on the conduct of George Cleaver and the enforcement of the dry law in this state, one is led to the conclusion that it was not so much the fault of Mr. Cleaver that the machinery of this office was badly "gummed up." While it must be admitted that Cleaver is not big enough for the job undertaken, the fine Italian hand of Governor Pierce is displayed in all important undertakings launched by Cleaver. In fact, the enforcement officer could not carry out any program on his own initiative and was therefore at the mercy of his superiors. And his superiors did not seem to have any better conception of getting action than did Cleaver. The result has been chaotic, and the investigation committee that delved into the affairs of the office from every angle and listened to much testimony, was not of one mind in their final report. The fact that Governor Pierce appeared before the investigating committee and assumed all responsibility for the conduct of the office under the supervision of Mr. Cleaver, and the utter failure of the prohibition commissioner to get any concrete results under the personal direction of Governor Pierce, is evidence that even the governor of this state is not sufficiently informed, neither has he the ability to properly carry out the mandates of the office of prohibition commissioner. Mr. Cleaver has been made the "goat" for a lot of publicity and responsibility that actually belonged to Governor Pierce.

Save Crew of Submarine S-48

Huddled together in one of the compartments of their vessel, to escape the deadly fumes of escaping chlorine gas, the forty-six lifeguard officers and men of the U. S. Submarine S-48, which struck on the rocks off Portsmouth, N. H., have been rescued by Coast Guard men. The S-48 had another disaster in 1921, sinking to the bottom of Long Island Sound. The heroism of a sailor, who was shot to the surface through a torpedo tube, resulted in saving the vessel and her crew.

PRUNE PICKINS BY BERT G. BATES

GOOD EVENING FOLKS— This is Friday The Thirteenth Only a wooden bucket, than it dux out ov a golden goblet. In penning a eulogy for one of our good townsmen, a pioneer, whose life has certainly been a high mark towards which we should all look, we would refrain from using adjectives that savor of hours of research work through Webster's Unabridged. Rather we would say in plain, simple, everyday understandable English that he is a real citizen. In Judge J. C. Fullerton, ye ed finds all the traits of human nature so necessary to construct an ideal character. The Judge is one man we all love. How much better it would be in this day and age if the younger generation would pause now and then to pay tribute to the men and women who have beaten down the path that we might pass this way in ease. In placing Judge Fullerton's name in our Hall of Fame we would append a lengthy scroll on which we carve the accomplishments of his days among us of his war record, as a citizen, as a professional man, as a father, as a husband and a neighbor we can only say the highest of him. Judge, we're mighty proud to have you with us today. We look for many more years of your presence on this sphere and our only ambition in life is that perhaps we also can live to a ripe old age and still be admired so greatly by those who associate with us.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING CLUB

As Josh Billings once said in his quaint way, "Truth don't require the aid of elegant and high stepin' words, te express its force, or buty, it iz like water, tastes better out of a wooden bucket, than it dux out ov a golden goblet."

As a result these Scout men are going to carry back anew into 2,000,000 organizations and institutions, stores and offices, the fresh, joyous spirit of Scouting and its love for fellowmen.

CHECK RAISER IS GIVEN SENTENCE

Donald J. Ritter, 21-year old wanderer, faced Federal Judge Wolverton yesterday, charged with a crime which might have resulted in his being sentenced to 60 years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $20,000. He was sentenced to serve three years in McNeil Island penitentiary and to pay a fine of $50.

Ritter was indicted by the grand jury on four counts, covering the changing of $1 bills to $10 and the passing of them. The maximum penalty on each count was 15 years and a fine of not more than $5000. He pleaded guilty.

Allan Bynon, Deputy United States district attorney, briefly outlined the government's case against the youth. He was first heard of in Oregon at Marshfield, where he is said still to owe a board bill and to have passed a check without funds to cover.

He then went to Roseburg and there it was charged he passed the altered bills late in December. His arrest quickly followed. In his room artists' paints, inks and pens were found.

Attorney for the defense told of the boy's home in Wisconsin. He is one of 11 children, seven of whom are younger than himself. Letters testifying as to his character, when he was helping his mother support the family were read. Two companions, declared with him in Roseburg, were blamed for his downfall.

Ritter was arrested at Medford by government operatives after he had passed altered bills in this city. His capture came after he had cashed a counterfeit bill at the Liberty Theatre in this city. The bill, originally for the sum of $1 had been changed to $10 and he received the change after paying his admission to the theatre. Mr. Marks, however, detected the fraudulent bill and a detection concert; 6 p. m. Hickman's orchestra; 7:45 p. m. income tax talk; 10 p. m. Hickman's orchestra; 11:30 p. m. "The Los Angeles."
