WHAT THE SCOUTS ARE DOING

The Boy Scout, according to his custom, goes modestly along his way, doing good turns, helping other people and making remarkable strides in health and skill.

At the Scout's Anniversary Week time—February 8-14th, we like to turn the spotlight on these knights in khaki and rejoice in their record of efficient kindness, service and good citizenship.

Records compiled at the National Scout office show that since the beginning of the Movement, over 1,000 awards for life-saving have been issued.

Burning buildings, icy lakes, whirling waters, were frequently the scenes of these brave rescues—exploits which grimly tested the skill, presence of mind, and courage of these youthful heroes.

Civic service totalling thousands of hours is the unvarying record of every Scout council. Honolulu alone lists for the past year 21,000 hours of service contributed in response to 21 different calls for assistance from local institutions and organizations.

The acres of timber land saved from ravages of forest fires by the Scouts can never be estimated.

Tree planting—conservation of natural resources, preservation of bird life—by building bird houses and replenishing bird sanctuaries with food all winter long, are some other activities of the Scouts.

Serving on school traffic corps, helping the younger children cross streets safely, installing radio sets for the blind, chopping wood for old people, keeping city hydrants clear of snow and ice, are just a few of the thousands of other ways these lads have been rendering service.

As to progress in Scouting activities, records for 1924 show that 9,631 boys have won a merit badge for fireman's work, 9,603 for public health and 9,426 for personal health. Thousands of other badges have been won for the remaining 67 subjects in the curriculum.

Scouting is doing well its wonderful job for the future citizenship and security of our country. May the influence of this sterling movement soon reach the lives of the 8,000,000 boys of Scout age not yet within the ranks.

The prophets who predicted the end of the world February 6, may have concluded by this time that a planet that was apparently some millions of years in getting ready for its present condition is not likely to "bust up" without giving warning. The world will keep revolving for ages after our present civilization is so far back in history that it is looked at as a condition of barbarism.

Some one presented President Coolidge with a photograph of the academy class at Ludlow, Vermont, where he graduated in 1890, and he smiled at the odd dress those young folks wore at that period. Most middle aged people have photographs of somewhere around the same date, and both young men and women look very stiff and uncomfortable in the typical dress of those periods.

The loss of property by fire in 1923 was $535,000,000, more than ever before, and it is stated that the greatest single cause was the discarded matches and tobacco of careless smokers. The men will not give up their smoking habit, but it is up to any man who throws away a match or ignited tobacco to make sure that he is putting the same in a harmless place.

The Roseburg Rod and Gun club held its annual election last night, taking up also a number of matters of business relative to the future work of the organization. The club met at the Palace of Sweets at 6:30 p. m. and enjoyed a delicious banquet after which the business session took place.

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—
A gay evening again
Walked into a

This a. m. and Looked over the Valentine stock
And finally pointing
To one on which read:
"Your's the Only one I love,"
Said to the clerk:
"Gimme about a Dozen of those."

DUMBELL DORA THINKS
The fellow who sent her that nasty comic Valentine oughta be drawn and quartered.

The best Valentine they could send Collins is a square meal and a few rays of sunlight.

Tonight is the w. k. bath-nite and white steppin' from the tub we caution you to keep at least one foot off the cake of soap.

Oh! Sol shed a few beams of kindness on the village this a. m. which the populace eagerly absorbed. On the strength of the spring-like day, several of us hid ourselves in the bedroom for the conventional B. V. D.'s, but later in the p. m. went slinkin' back to the domicile after the discarded red flannels.

The Medford lads and lassies run the local gas and opposite sex jockeying yestidy eve in what some jokers referred to as a basketball game.

Some fellers run off at the mouth and repent at leisure.

The news dispatches today inform us that Mr. and Mrs. Nick Longworth have a baby girl and the whole nation seems to be quite stirred about the occurrence. Personally we're not very excited. The advent of a youngster into any household is of course the biggest event in the world for that particular family but the outside world rolls on regardless of the population increase.

The seed-senders of congress have been rather neglectful as only eight packets of choice sunflowers have been rec'd at this 'sanctum durin' the past week.

Some disgusted reader of this column left us a comic Valentine a couple days ago and made the entire office force promise not to reveal his name. Well, all we wanted to tell him was that we haven't even squeezed a giggle out of an acct. of the said Valentine.

Nobody knows you better than your next door neighbor. In fact, your neighbor usually gets a better angle of your daily life than any other person. Prune Pickin's lived for many years right along side the subject of this sketch. We were "next" to his daily doings—his family life. He didn't have any kids of his own, so you might naturally think that he would be a bit ruffled when the gang would congregate on his lawn, smear his sidewalk and front steps with a lot of mushy terra firma to make it easy sliding for himself, and estimable wife to reach the outer world. But, he never got sore—never got peeved in any way—just let the whole matter go over his head with the thought "kids will be kids and I was there once myself." You know, impressions made on a youngster are lasting, and every time we meet "Billy" Mainline we can't help but think that he ought to punch us on the nose for the way we used to impose upon his good nature. If it wasn't for the good you get out of other people in this old world—the lessons that impress you most by their daily habits—we would be a mighty nasty set of individuals. Living next to our friend ironed out many a disagreeable wrinkle in our makeup, evidence that kindness is far-reaching in one's daily life and a virtue of more than ordinary importance.

GRADE TEAMS OF THIS CITY AND MEDFORD TO PLAY

Inter city grade school rivalry between Roseburg and Medford will be focused tonight on the basketball game at the high school gymnasium between picked teams from the Medford and Roseburg grade schools. This rivalry started during the football season when the Medford team came to Roseburg and defeated the local players. A return game was also lost by the Roseburg boys, but both were close and exciting games. The rivalry has now been extended to basket ball and tonight's game is expected to be a "digger". The teams are made up of star athletes from all of the grade schools. The game is to be played at 7:15 p. m.

PROPHECY WAS NO PROFIT TO SEERESS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Margaret W. Rowe, Hollywood seeress made no financial profit out of her "end of the world" prophecy which failed to materialize last Friday, the city prosecutors office was assured last yesterday by Dr. B. E. Fullmer, her chief adviser.

Dr. Fullmer and W. Andrews attorney for Mrs. Rowe, called on the prosecutor in response to the latter's request for information concerning alleged donations made to Mrs. Rowe by believers in her prediction that February 6, 1925, would see the end of the world. "Mrs. Rowe never has made a cent out of her church work," said Dr. Fullmer. "She has been supported by her husband, a working man, and still is being supported by him. She has no property of great value, either in sight or hidden. Some of the property of the church 'Reformed Seventh Day Adventists' is in her name."

"As to the allegations that a group of New Jerseyites, under the leadership of Robert Reid had turned over all their property to Mrs. Rowe," Fullmer added, "Let me say that they have contributed less than $100."

The doctor explained that Mrs. Rowe preferred to remain in seclusion for the present due to "dozens of threatening letters," sent to her Hollywood home.

An inquiry into the dooms day prophecy will be continued Monday, it was announced.

BIG MEETING AT SALVATION ARMY
The crowds still continue each night at the Salvation Army revival. The meeting last night was in every sense a big meeting. Big in attendance, in interest, and in results. One young man, a wanderer from home, a prodigal son from "way down east" in Connecticut; one of the many who stop at the Army for a "hand out" and a place to sleep, gave his heart and life to Jesus last night. How it did touch our hearts to see the old mothers gather around that other mother's "wandering boy" and pray God to bless him. Tonight the subject of the sermon will be "A Rebellious People." A larger attendance than ever is expected. Mr. Scott will sing a special solo at each service. Tomorrow the services will be as follows: 7 a. m. knee drill; 11:00 Holloway; 2 p. m. Sunday school. At 3 o'clock Mr. Scott will tell how the Lord performed a miracle in healing him of blindness eight years ago, and will also pray for the healing of the sick. His song and preaching service at 7:30 p. m. lengthy report of the work during that period reciting statistics covering the past five years, and showing conclusively that the county has enjoyed a great deal of real benefit from the work of the club. He stated that the members support the game program now before the legislature and that letters be written to encourage the proponents of the various beneficial measures now proposed. Short talks were made by several members, all being optimistic for the coming year. There was some discussion of the merchandise show to be held on Sunday, which, if weather is right, is expected to be a well-attended event. This will also be the monthly meal show.
