TODAY AT THE STATE LEGISLATURE

(Associated Press Special Wire.)
Will Censor Movies
STATE HOUSE, Salem, Ore., Feb. 23.—After bouncing around since February 6 from committee to desk and calendar, thanks back for amendments finally for a substitute measure, the moving picture censorship bill was passed today by the lower house with but ten dissenting votes.

A half hour of sharp debates marked the final action on the measure.

Representative Tucker of Linn county, father of the measure declared that censorship board with authority to eliminate "salacious films" would increase attendance 20 percent.

"The best way to stamp out salacious or doubtful films is not to patronize them," said Representative Kirkwood. "It is just as reasonable to censor our literature and speaking stage as these films."

Representative King, who, as a member of the house health and public morals committee submitted a minority report against the measure, house bill 465. He declared that the state was already overriden with boards and commissions.

"The Portland board has offered to censor films for the entire state free of charge," he argued. "So why saddle on this extra and useless board?"

Those voting against the censorship bill were: Gorman, Hamilton, Hammond, King, Kirkwood, Loneran, Meindl, Pierce, Rushlight and Shelton.

House bill 264 by Potter and Howard, requiring sheriffs to place at work outside the jail, prisoners serving for violation of the prohibition law, was indefinitely postponed by the senate today on an adverse report from the committee on alcoholic traffic.

Senate bill 232, providing for an appropriation of $400 for premiums at the Smith River in Douglas county was withdrawn. It is covered in another measure.

On 43rd Day
STATE HOUSE, Salem, Ore., Feb. 23.—The state legislature went into the 43rd day of its session today facing an eleventh hour attempt to provide the necessary revenue to meet the $7,149,675 in pending appropriation bills. Several plans were under consideration to make up the $1,150,000 difference between that amount and the total to be derived from the property tax levy and other revenues already provided. Among the items proposed to meet the deficit was a 10 percent tax on tobacco, and a tax on gross earnings of corporations.

Actions on the governor's veto of the $100,000 public service commission measure which was returned to the legislature late Saturday and disposition of the bill naming members of the fish commission were reassembled this morning.

A moving picture censorship bill was another matter that was to be disposed of.

The governor who earlier in the session had requested that no funds at all be provided for the public service commission announced in his veto of the $100,000 appropriation that he would compromise with the legislature if a tax be placed on the gross earnings of utility corporations which is expected to yield about $80,000 in the next two years.

Another veto returned by the governor late Saturday was on the bill permitting a railway company to condemn and take any water right and sever it from the land to which it belongs. The governor said that while he had been informed that the object of the bill is to secure water during dry seasons for locomotives of the Southern Pacific company, the act is too far-reaching, and that "it will unsettle the entire water code of Oregon."

Among bills passed by the senate was S. B. 207, Unatilla delegation, authorizing grain and forage experimental and demonstration work in Unatilla county.

To Support Veto
STATE HOUSE, Salem, Ore., Feb. 23.—A group of independent senators has agreed to support Governor Pierce's veto of the $100,000 appropriation for the public service commission, it became known today, and the same senators also agreed to sustain the governor's expected veto of the bill which undertakes to name the members of the fish commission.

Education Bills Up
STATE HOUSE, Salem, Ore., Feb. 23.—Educational bills will occupy the senate for an hour or two tomorrow morning beginning at 10:30 o'clock when they are made a special order.

The ways and means committee today returned an adverse report on S. B. 196, appropriating $70,000 for teachers training centers in 10 high schools of the state. Senator Clark, chairman of the education committee fought the adverse report and wanted it tabled. Since the committee has reported favorably on the Beals bill, for 20 branch normals under the state department of education the locations to be designated by the Monmouth normal, and appropriating $125,000 for the purpose, Clark said he could not see the logic of action. After a discussion on the floor both were set as a special order for tomorrow.

Next came an adverse report on the report of the ways and means committee on S. B. 46, providing for two high school inspectors, and this also was made a special order to be considered with the other two.

Senator Miller criticized the board of regents of the normal school for having no definite policy at the beginning of the legislative session. Since the board has adopted a policy for building up the Monmouth normal and reestablishing the Ashland normal school, The Ashland bill is on the calendar for third reading today. It has passed the house.
