SEN. McCORMICK DIES SUDDENLY IN WASHINGTON

chase of the brain. The body, clothed in pajamas, was found in bed. One hand clasped across the mouth, as though the senator had sought to arise when the bleeding came upon him, and had fallen back. The physicians said death must have been instantaneous.

Mr. McCormick had been living alone at the hotel, Mrs. McCormick, a daughter of Mark Hanna, was in Chicago, where she went to be near Alice Roosevelt Longworth at the time of the birth of the Longworth baby. The two families had been close friends for many years.

Last night Senator McCormick retired early, and as always, he slept lightly, hotel attendants refused to awaken him when a caller sought admittance at 11 p. m. This morning at 8:30 he was heard moving about his room, but efforts to arouse him at 11 a. m. proved futile. The door then was taken down and physicians called in, who said he had been dead for about an hour.

Although Mr. McCormick apparently had been in fair health, some of his friends said today that he had been greatly depressed by political developments of the past few months. Last summer he was defeated for re-nomination for the senate and was to have gone out of office March 4.

Since his defeat his name had been brought forward for a diplomatic post and his confidants today said he first had hoped to be named ambassador to Great Britain, a post already filled, and then had applied to the ambassadorship at Berlin. Word reached him, it was said, that the latter post, too, would be given to another.

Although one of the younger members of the senate, Mr. McCormick possessed some qualities of unusual brilliance and had a wide knowledge of foreign affairs. He was one of the most incisive orators in the senate, particularly on questions of foreign policies.

Dr. Noble P. Barnes, who made the first medical examination after the senator's death had been discovered, communicated his findings to the coroner, who instructed him to issue a certificate of natural death.

Funeral arrangements will await the arrival of Mrs. McCormick from Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—It was announced here today that Mrs. Medill McCormick had been told of the senator's illness yesterday and had called up by long distance telephone in the afternoon and communicated with the senator's secretary at Washington. She was assured that the senator's condition was not alarming, and that he said he felt much improved and would probably be all right in a day or two.

Senator McCormick's active years in places of prominence included not only his Washington service, but such positions as vice chairman of the progressive party national committee which in 1912 carried the Roosevelt banner through the famous bull moose campaign and presidential election. He also was formerly publisher of the Chicago Tribune. Since his public office career began he had devoted himself exclusively to his public work.

The senator who would have retired from the senatorship on March 4, when Charles S. Deneen, former governor of Illinois, assumed the senatorship, has been many times mentioned as a possible ambassador or appointee to other high offices, but he had given no inkling of his plans after

March 4.

The senator was approaching his 48th birthday having been born in Chicago on May 16, 1877. He was a grandson of Joseph Medill, pioneer Chicago editor and founder of the Chicago Tribune. He was a son of Robert Sanderson McCormick. His mother was Katherine Van Etta Medill McCormick.

Senator McCormick bore the name of his distinguished grandfather, having been named Joseph Medill McCormick. His father, Robert Sanderson McCormick was ambassador to Austria-Hungary, by himself. The senator's mother, Mrs. Robert S. McCormick, has been in Florida for two months. The senator's father was a son of William Sanderson McCormick, who was a member of the famous Reaper family.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois died here early today. The senator was found dead in his room at the Hamilton hotel at 10 o'clock.

Circumstances surrounding his death were not immediately available. His office declined to make any statement.

It was said at the hotel however, that the death was the immediate result of gastric hemorrhages. Senator McCormick's death was discovered when Dr. Noble P. Barnes, who had been attending him, was called after hotel attendants found his rooms locked and could get no reply to requests for admittance.

A few intimate friends were advised of the death but under a promise to say nothing about it immediately in order that Mrs. McCormick might be apprised in Chicago.

During his service as Senator McCormick was a member of the foreign relations committee and during the fight over the Versailles treaty as an irreconcilable. Even after the defeat of the treaty he continued his attacks, making a trip to Europe to gather facts for his arguments.

Other assignments of Senator McCormick included the powerful finance committee, the rules committee and the insular committee.

He was chairman of the committee on expenditures in executive departments, Senator McCormick was in the senate yesterday, but then he apparently was not in the best of health. He had just returned from Florida, where he had spent a week or more with his mother at her winter home.

A few days ago the senator gave up his apartment here preparatory to retirement from official life and took a room at the hotel.

Physicians said he had been gone about an hour when they reached him. Hotel employees said they heard him moving about in his room as late as 8:30 this morning.

Formal announcement of the senator's death was made in the senate by his colleague, Senator McKinley, and the senate immediately adjourned until tomorrow out of respect for his memory.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Senator McCormick, who was defeated for re-nomination in the Illinois republican primaries by former Governor Charles S. Deneen, was to have retired on March 4. He recently had been prominently mentioned for a diplomatic post.

Born in Chicago, May 16, 1877, he was the son of Robert S. and Katherine Medill McCormick, and was a member of a famous Illinois family.

The senator was a graduate of Yale, and his wife, Mrs. Ruth McCormick, is a daughter of Mark Hanna.

He was formerly a member of the Illinois legislature and was a representative at large from Illinois.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—News of the death of Senator Medill McCormick in Washington was so completely unexpected that at the moment press wires were carrying bulletins of his death the senator's office here could not credit the dispatches.

Mrs. McCormick, who is here had not received the news, General Frank Dickson, the senators' personal representative here, said. Mrs. McCormick who before her marriage, was Ruth Hanna, daughter of Mark Hanna, Ohio's master political strategist, was entirely unprepared for the shock of the news of her husband's death. She was virtually prostrated by the shock, but nevertheless prepared to depart at 1 p. m. for Washington.

Are you feeling blue? Do you want to forget your troubles for an evening? Go to "The Hottentot." It is full of laughs.

CAPPER-CAUGEN BILL IS GIVEN FIRST ON LIST

(Continued from page one) Capper-Haugen measure and request consideration for the Capper-Axwell bill which would provide for a national farm marketing system, owned and controlled by the farmers themselves. Mr. Yokum said the condition of the farmer was "deplorable." If the congress believes, he said, in the enactment of such destructive bills as the Capper-Haugen bill, which bills are wholly in the interest of the dealers, there is a sorry day ahead of those who support them.

and told me to lock the doors. "Miss Pope called six times that evening and under orders of Mr. Shepherd, Signe, the maid, told her Mrs. Shepherd was too busy to talk.

"After Billy died, Miss Pope asked for her pictures and letters she had given Billy and Mrs. Shepherd said 'give her the pictures but don't give her the letters.' Later Mr. Shepherd burned the letters in the furnace. A newspaper reporter interviewed Shepherd after Billy died and during the talk, Shepherd, in response to a question as to whether Miss Pope and a minister had gone to the house for the purpose of a marriage while Billy was ill, said that if she and a minister had come there he would have taken them by the neck and thrown them out.

"Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd were in good spirits the day Billy died and they laughed and joked. Mrs. Shepherd fainted the day the papers said that seven cousins would fight the will. Mr. Shepherd told me not to show the papers to her. "The Shepherds were like angels to Miss Pope to her face but behind her back they were like poison snakes. They said all she wanted was his money.

"When the two states attorneys came I was pushed down in the basement until they were through. Then I was brought up again and taken out side.

In response to questions Klesau said "I did not think it funny that the dishes Billy used while he was sick were separated from the rest. A nurse told me he had the grip."

TO LET CONTRACTS ON N. UMPQUA ROAD

J. M. Myers, contractor in charge of the North Umpqua road work, stated today that bids will be opened on March 29, on five more contracts which will take the work to within six miles of Steamboat. Workmen are now clearing two more miles of the right of way and about the first of May the contract will be let upon this section, which will carry the road to within four miles of Steamboat.

Mr. Myers states that he will be able to build ten miles of new road within the $60,000 originally appropriated for this work. A further appropriation of $30,000 has been approved, and will probably be made if the funds are available, which will complete the road into Steamboat.

Mr. Myers states that he expects to go back over the right of way after completing the grade to within four miles of Steamboat, and put in considerable time clearing out slides, and putting the road in good shape for summer travel during the vacation season.

Send your children to see "The Hottentot," February 26.
