NEWSPAPER CONSOLIDATIONS

(From Eugene Morning Register) Consolidation of the two newspapers at Albany is another straw that shows how the journalistic winds in Oregon are blowing. They are blowing plainly in the direction of fewer and stronger papers.

Albany is the fourth Oregon City to drop in recent years from two daily newspapers to only one. The others are Medford, Roseburg and Pendleton. In each case the result has been a better newspaper than existed before.

Another reason is the decline of partisanship. Time was when the average man felt that he must read only the newspapers of his own particular political persuasion.

With a few exceptions, the newspapers have changed radically in that respect. They present the news of all parties and all factions fairly, and even in their editorial columns they are much fairer and more independent than in the old days.

In every recent case of newspaper consolidation in Oregon, the result has been better service for readers and advertisers alike. The consolidated institution, made stronger financially, is able to buy more news and more features and to employ more capable writers.

Hearty commendation should be given to the executive council of the International Typographical Union, for urging local unions to co-operate in measures against the printing of obscene literature.

While the majority of men are reluctant to serve on juries, and will take considerable pains to evade this service which they owe to their country, the women folks seem rather interested in doing this line of work.

If you don't like the tobacco tax involved by the state legislature, there's a nice way of getting out of the assessment—Just quit smoking—but don't go to chewing.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28.—Two holdup men attempting the robbery of a drug store in the residential district here last night were shot and killed by police detectives who had been "tipped off" two weeks ago and lay in wait at the store.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Ambassador Kellogg has made his first selection of state department officials to assist him when he takes over the duties of secretary of state, March 4.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The Shriners strutted their stuff yesterday eve which reminded a lot of 'em of the days when they uster play shinnny-on-ver-on-side.

THE SPRING BONNETS are beginning to appear which provides great delight for Jube Plovius who is soldiering up the holes in his Sprinklin' can.

OLYMPIA, Feb. 28.—The heart of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, South China leader, who was thought near death after he was operated upon on January 26, is "astonishingly good," but his general weakness is increasing, according to a bulletin issued here today.

PRUNE PICKIN'S

BY BERT G. BATES GOOD EVENING FOLKS— We noticed a couple days ago that the Boys are expectin' High prices For their prunes This season and We wonder if This colyum Will bring ya ed. Any more per line?

DUMBELL DORA THINKS Rin Tin Tin is the name of a w. k. Detroit auto.

OUR DAILY MAIL Editor Prune Colyum: While a stranger to me, I met Lather Barnes on the street and from your technical description recognized him at once. If your cognomen does not fit the gentleman it at least gives him a close shave.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" with the present epidemic among royalty so pronounced.

Jimmy Watson is movin' his law office this week and is bein' ably assisted by Josephus Murphy, who is attired in the conventional gingham. Both gentlemen are wearin' gas masks and between gasps are makin' caustic remarks concernin' a certain well known banker and his gol dern romantic ideas.

On acct. of the high cost of movin' the $25 and cost fines of Justice of the Peace Gavage Jones will be raised a nickel, makin' the bill exactly thirty bucks.

The annual predictions are bein' made about the members of the high school plays eventually becomin' great actors and actresses.

TODAY'S TINTYPE We've always known how a feller feels after payin' the first half of his taxes and his in come tax but little did we know that this colyum would ever be used to present pictorially the exact appearance of a down-trodden, heavily burdened taxpayer.

NICHOLAS HOME IN OAKLAND BURNED

The residence of W. L. Nicholas, Southern Pacific agent at Oakland, was burned to the ground last night, and is a total loss. The house was the property of Mrs. Eliza Hunt of this city, but was occupied by Mr. Nicholas and his family.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is believed that it started from a defective flue. The family had retired for the evening, going to bed on the sleeping porch. A short time later they discovered the entire interior to be a mass of fire and were unable to enter the building from the porch where they were sleeping.

Mr. Nicholas put on a few clothes and ran around the house and tried to get in the front way. He succeeded in saving a cedar chest filled with clothing and linen, but burned one hand quite badly, and was otherwise injured in this attempt. The chest comprised the entire savings from the house.

A great many of the Oakland people were in Sutherland attending a basketball game, and it took considerable time after the alarm was sounded to secure enough men to man the fire fighting apparatus. Nothing could be done to save the house and efforts were confined to preventing the spread to adjoining buildings.

The loss was partly covered by insurance.
