ROSEBURG, OREGON, THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1925.

POLITICAL DIFFERENCES

According to the students of history, the differences that existed between the several states composing the American union were so sharp, that it was a wonder that they were able to get together in one government. It was particularly difficult to reconcile the interests of the large and the small states, the latter fearing the tyranny of the big commonwealths.

If Governor Pierce keeps on slashing appropriation measures passed at the last session of the legislature there is still a good chance for the state to break even.

Cal was just "as cool as a cucumber" during the inaugural ceremonies yesterday. Can't fuss the old boy up—no matter what the occasion.

Mr. Dawes and his pipe are a pretty good combination. Both will be strong factors in the senate chamber.

REFORESTATION BILL IS VETOED BY GOV. PIERCE

Income derived from the business of marketing such timber.

"Under the present form of our constitutional legislation respecting the power of taxation (article IX, section 1) whereby assessment and taxation are required to be 'uniform but are not required to be equal' there is imminent judicial authority that the legislature may authorize such a contract between the state and a land owner and that once such a contract is made, it is binding upon the state. It may be well believed that once this bill becomes a law all owners of lands within its purvey will hasten to contract with the state in accordance with its provisions. If such a contract be binding upon the state, and there is in my judgment grave reason to apprehend that it would be, the state would be bound to the owner of these lands for two generations not to change in any respect whatever its policy of taxation adopted in this bill.

In my long experience in legislative work in the state of Oregon I never have examined a bill that might be as far reaching and as serious in its consequences as this one.

Governor Pierce vetoed appropriation bills totalling $504,769. Yesterday he completed the work by looping off $149,683 before the time expired for filing bills.

four years, but did not go out for the team, playing independent basketball instead. This is his first year on the squad and with a little more experience should develop into a star.

Frank Reinhardt, forward, was a star all round athlete for the Salem high school. He played four years football; four years baseball and three years basketball. He is one of the best outfielders in the school and should win a baseball letter as well as a basketball numeral. Reinhardt is a sophomore.

Farley Stoddard of Baker is playing his first year on the team. He plays either forward or guard. He had played three years football and basketball on the Baker high school team before coming here.

Clarence Carter of Myrtle Point played high school football and basketball. He is a substitute center. Carter is a sophomore in the school of business administration.

Pat Hughes, substitute guard, was an all-star athlete in the Lincoln high school, Portland. He is a sophomore.

Louis Anderson, a junior, of North Bend, made his mark on the football team as quarterback. He played basketball before entering Oregon on the American Legion team at Marshfield. Anderson is a substitute guard on the varsity five.

ENFORCEMENT LAW TO BENEFIT SEN. EDDY SAYS

experience in enforcing the law consider the new act a great improvement over the old and that local officers are not unduly hampered by its provisions.

"It goes without saying that in order to have successful enforcement of the prohibition law, there must be not only vigilant and competent officers, but a strong public sentiment back of them. No law is self-enforcing. Past experience has shown that in some counties there has been a laxity of public sentiment and also indifference or opposition to the law on the part of some officials, who have perhaps found it easier to invent excuses than to do their duty. These conditions will doubtless be improved.

The following statement shows the situation as to the prohibition fines in Douglas county during 1924:

Balance on hand, January 1, 1924 $2785.67 Receipts for year 1924 5589.00

Total $8374.67 Remitted to Secretary of State $2,287.24 Disbursed by Dist. Atty. and Sheriff 1,772.38 Total disbursements 7069.62 Balance on hand January 1, 1925 $1305.05

"It thus appears that after the expenditure of $4,773.38 by the district attorney and sheriff in Douglas county there was still a balance on hand of $1,305.05 at the end of the year.

"Granting for the sake of argument that the new law should increase the remittance from Douglas county to the state by one thousand dollars, the local officers would still have large funds to expend in Douglas county during the year 1925. In order that the public might fully judge of the operations of this department of law enforcement work, I would suggest that the sheriffs and district attorneys ought to publish itemized statements showing in detail the expenditures of these funds during the year 1924, for example, except as to any pending prosecutions begun in that year."

"What makes this concert of more than usual importance are several numbers in which Miss Shepherd will compare her voice with its Recreation by Mr. Edison's new phonograph.
