Winter Fruits

The orange is especially prized during the winter months, when it is at its best and most plentiful and good flavored.

The winter diet, being rich and heavy, needs such fruit to keep the body in good condition.

Its beautiful color makes the orange particularly enjoyed in winter, when color in foods is most appreciated.

As a garnish the orange has wide possibilities. Baskets, cups, flowers, confectios, may be prepared, the fruit preserved and served as a confection, or as receptacles for salads or jellies.

A sherbet is easily prepared using citrus fruit, orange or lemon juice, sugar sirup and water.

Turkish delight prepared with gelatin, sugar sirup and fruit juices, cooled in a flat dish and cut into oblongs, then rolled in powdered sugar is another very popular confection.

To prepare the sirup for gleeed fruits take two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of boiling water, one-third of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar.

Boil until the sirup begins to color light brown, or to 310 degrees F., then dip each piece quickly, keeping the sirup over hot water.

Sculptor in Memorial Squabble

Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor of the Confederate Memorial on the face of Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., was summarily dismissed by the committee in charge of the construction of the statue. It is charged that Borglum then destroyed the precious models and plans of the memorial and suit for $50,000 was begun against him for alleged vandalism.
