PORTLAND MAN IS FROZEN TO DEATH

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, Mar. 15.—The gasoline schooner, Dalay, arrived today with the body of Hugh Dennehy, manager for the Western Livestock company at Portland, Ore., who perished in a storm on Unalaska Island, one of the Aleutian chain.

Dennehy's body was found, after many other efforts had failed, by watching his dog through a field glass.

Dennehy was lost while he was crossing Unalaska Island in the Pacific Ocean to the Bering Sea with Ralph Stacy of the Aleutian Livestock company. These concerns have been engaged for two years in initiating sheep raising on the island.

Dennehy and Stacy became bewildered in a fog. After wandering all night they agreed to separate for better hope of finding the way. Stacy reached Chernofski, their headquarters, at the opposite end of the island from Dutch Harbor and set out on horseback to the spot where he had parted with Dennehy. Dennehy was not found there, nor by parties that went out afterward. Dennehy's dog twice left Chernofski alone and returned.

In the Dalay, Rex Sproat, manager of the Aleutian Livestock company went to Chernofski, 75 miles from here. Hearing of the dog's trips, Sproat had the animal watched when he went out again, by a man on a hill with a glass.

The dog went to Dennehy's body and snuggled to it.

The body lay six miles from Chernofski. Indications were that Dennehy had fallen asleep and frozen to death.

You often hear people refer to the "dear old days of romance"—to the time when knight-errants roamed the earth to do honor to a lady's blue eyes.

These folks say we are living in an age of realism!

An age of "realism" where the human voice is hurled across the world without wires; where the temperature of Mars is taken more than thirty millions of miles away; where tons of steel and people ride easily and safely through the air or under the sea!

An age of realism! Why, this is the most romantic of all ages!

The advertising columns of this paper are full of romance—of the romance of men who have devoted their lives to bringing new comforts, conveniences and pleasures for mankind.

Advertisements tell these stories, not with the romantic exaggeration of a jongleur, but with the calm, simple words of sincerity. Here is a firm that spent millions to develop a product that makes your baby comfortable. Here is a company that has labored fifty years to cut a single hour of toil from your day's work. Here is a man who has searched the Seven Seas to produce a new flavor for your dinner.

Romance—this age is full of it. Not just empty romance, but the true romance of achievement, of progress, of the betterment of mankind.

ADVERTISEMENTS TELL YOU WHAT THE ROMANCE OF BUSINESS IS DOING FOR YOU. READ THEM!
