HERE IS WHAT STANWOOD PEOPLE SAY ABOUT

"MOORITE"

Mr. Judson Lowe, East Stanwood, states, after using two boxes of Moorite, which he took for a blood remedy:

"I will truthfully say that I never found no other medicine that did such wonders as it has for me.

"I have been for the last eighteen months with sores breaking out on my body and have tried many other so-called medicines, but none seemed to have any effect. Finally Moorite was recommended to me by a friend. I decided to give it a trial, and will say that I never will regret the decision, for within two weeks I began to take it the sores were completely healed up and I feel almost a new man, and I am giving Moorite full credit for the health I now have.

"So I advise one and all who need a blood purifier to give this wonderful medicine a fair trial."

MOORITE is sold under a positive money-back guarantee. You are to be the judge.

AUTO EXHIBITION OPENS UP TONIGHT

Everything is set for the Buick demonstration and exhibition at the armory tonight. The various model cars to be shown were placed in the building this morning, and while the display was ready early in the afternoon for inspection of visitors, only comparatively few visited the place, doubtless waiting for the evening, when the band concert will be a feature of opening night.

Practically all of the Buick models are on exhibition. The favorite cars are the enclosed models, and several of these luxurious automobiles are among the models shown. Coupes and sedans, the motor coach, and touring cars, and also the chassis are included in the showing, and after one has gone over the list and inspected all of the cars, many people start all over again, just to feast on the wonderful improvements that have been added to this line of motorium within a few short years.

Assisting Mr. Baker, of the Motor Shop Garage, who is putting on this display are Mr. Ed V. Knox, territorial representative for the Buick Motor Company, and Mr. I. N. Denzel, territorial service expert. The latter gentleman will explain to inquiring visitors all about the Buick sealed chassis and how all the working parts are housed in so that there can possibly be no dirt or grit to get in, and how all oil and grease is kept from getting out.

Tonight the Douglas County Concert Band will present a musical program that will be a real treat. In addition to this musical feature there will be a movie show and a lecture in connection. More than this, every one attending this big free show will be given a number, and the visitor holding the lucky one will be presented with a $25 credit on the price of any Buick model they may wish to buy. Tickets will also be given out tomorrow, and the lucky holder of the winning number will also be given a $25 credit on the purchase price of a Buick car.

Aside from the social features of the exhibition, the instructive and educational side of the affair should appeal to every automobile owner. Not only Buick owners, but motorists generally will find in this demonstration something that will help to make him a more efficient motorist.

There is no charge of any sort connected with this exhibition. The public is just cordially urged by Mr. Baker and the Buick Motor Company to visit the Armory and spend a pleasant evening, enjoy the music, the pictures and the lecture and have a sociable time with friends—because they are all expected to be there tonight.

Theatres

Antlers Theatre What is conceded to be one of the most interesting and valuable motion pictures ever made, "Abraham Lincoln," has been booked by the Antlers theatre for showing tonight, Friday and Saturday.

This assures the presentation of this most valuable historical dramatic film in this city at the same time as in at least 5,000 other of the most important theatres of the United States and Canada. "Abraham Lincoln" is in keeping with productions of only the highest grade, according to the announcement of Richard Rowland, production manager for First National Pictures, the organization handling it.

Liberty Theatre A picture which combines the thrills and action of the rugged western drama with the charm and atmosphere of a dog story comes to the Liberty theatre on tomorrow and Saturday for its first showing locally when "The Range Terror," third of the Bob Custer series of Texas Ranger stories is screened. Next to the star himself, and indeed dividing honors with the good looking son of the Texas plains, is Alaska, a huge dog, more than half wolf. Alaska is a motion picture find, and bids fair to rival Rin Tin Tin and other famous dog stars in popularity. A story crackling with action is well interpreted by Custer and his supporting cast, which includes Thais Valdemar, Henry J. Herbert, Claire de Lorez and others. William James Craft has directed an excellent production.

FLU SERIOUS IN OREGON THIS YEAR

Influenza is more serious in Oregon than for many years past, according to a bulletin issued by the Oregon State Board of Health. The bulletin gives some simple methods for preventing this disease, and caution is advised. The bulletin issued is as follows:

While we do not think there is cause for serious alarm, there is no question that influenza is more prevalent than it has been for some time in Oregon. Reports from other parts of the United States show that there are many cases of the disease. Notwithstanding the great amount of study that has been devoted to influenza, we are still unable to prescribe measures for its complete control. It is impossible to classify this disease properly until more studies have been made by the clinical bacteriologist.

As a result of the absence of exact diagnostic criteria, influenza is today a diagnostic scrap basket into which has been thrown the odd and ends in the way of minor infections which the bacteriologist is not yet ready to help the clinician classify with precision. The cause of the epidemic, or of the supposedly existing sporadic influenza is not surely known. We are as far as ever from conclusive knowledge as to the source of influenza.

There is undoubtedly some connection between the common cold and influenza. There seem to be cases of common cold which are almost indistinguishable clinically and the bacteriological findings in the nose and throat of influenza sufferers and persons having a common cold are, as far as the evidence goes, practically the same. The preventive measures are practically the same.

These infections are spread by crowding, artificial heating, soiled handkerchiefs, soiled hands, promiscuous spitting and imperfectly cleaned and sterilized eating and drinking utensils.

Prevent influenza by: Keeping away from places that are overcrowded; Plenty of sleep—Sleep with an abundance of fresh air; Careful diet—Eat in moderation; Warm feet and dry clothes—Avoid chilling; Keeping fingers out of mouth and washing hands before eating; If sick, keep away from others until cured!

Gave Tint to Water

Opposite Buckingham palace is to be found the Victoria memorial. This beautiful piece of workmanship is particularly remarkable for the clear, delicate green of the water in its marble basins. The secret of its coloring and translucency was revealed recently when two workmen were observed solemnly drawing a large sack to and fro through the water. They explained to an interested onlooker that the sack was filled with a certain substance which, while preventing the growth of weeds, gave the water its delicate apple-green tint.—London Times.

Oldest Form of Writing

The Egyptian system of writing is perhaps the oldest of the known scripts. This writing was in the form of pictures. The most ancient Egyptian papyrus now known contains accounts of the reign of King Acha (2350-2280 B. C.). The earliest literary papyrus is that known from the name of its former owner as the Parris Papyrus, now preserved in Paris. It contains a work composed in the reign of a king of the fifth dynasty, and is computed to have been written as early as 2500 B. C.

Caddy's Limitations

One day "Fery" was coddling for a rather petulant golfer, who, after missing a short putt on the ninth green at Muirfield threw his putter into the neighboring potato field to relieve his feelings.

With face unmoved, "Fery" was walking in the direction of the next tee when the golfer said: "Oh! 'Fery', you might go and get my putter."

To this "Fery" replied: "I'm paid for carry, no the fetch and carry."

PACKED HOUSE GREETS ANNUAL FASHION SHOW

Marksbury Co. wore two costumes, the first being a summer gown of sport print with a large white garden hat, and the other a gray and red ensemble suit. Their other model, Miss Mildred Mathews, displayed a street coat of green charmesse, with tie collar and band of fox fur, over a dinner dress of beaded green silk crepe.

Three young ladies for the Ladies Shoppe displayed three distinctly different toilettes. Miss Mary Reams appeared as the sports girl in yellow flannel banded in black, with yellow hose and black pumps. Miss Eddy's costume was a mahogany charmesse street ensemble with white ermine trim, and Miss Reymers was attired for the dinner or dance in a deep coral georgette with matching hose, silver slippers, and feather fan from Knutson's Gift Shop.

The Terminal Hotel Beauty Shoppe's hair model was Miss Velma McDonald, and for the Clark Beauty Shoppe, Miss Georgia Lee, Miss Thelma Newhard was the maid.

The collure's for all the models were done by both Beauty shops, and the flowers carried and worn by the mannequins, as well as distributed at the door were from The Fern. The Hat Models, adding the last touch of elegance to the costumes were from The Vogue, and the Specialty Shoppe. The Blue Devils orchestra played throughout the fashion parade.
