ADMIRAL DEWEY'S BODY REMOVED AT WIDOW'S REQUEST

(Associated Press Local Wire.) WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—Memories of Spanish-American war days crowded in today on the occasion of removal of the body of Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, from its resting place of nearly eight years in Arlington Cemetery to the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral to repose there with other noted dead.

Pull military honors attended arrangements for the transfer of the body, including the stationing of blue jackets and marines, with the navy band, to face the casket within the entrance to the cathedral grounds.

For the escort from the Mausoleum, however, where the naval hero was laid within rows of his dead comrades in war there was only a little group—his widow, at whose request the transfer was arranged; his son George G. Dewey of Chicago, and as honorary pall bearers, fellow officers who served with him in the battle of Manila. A brief service at the cathedral chapel awaited the group there.

FLOUR MILL CO. SERVING BISCUITS

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lawrence of the Fisher Flouring Mills Co. are spending two weeks in Roseburg demonstrating the products of the company by which they are employed. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence desire to serve hot biscuits to every organization holding a banquet or meeting during the two weeks that they are in the city. He carries a portable electric oven which is capable of baking 200 biscuits every eleven minutes. This oven is installed in the dining room, banquet room or hall, wherever the meeting is being conducted, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence serve piping hot biscuits direct from the oven.

This is an advertising scheme supported by the Fisher Flouring Mills Company, and one that is greatly appreciated by organizations. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence have just been in Southern Oregon and Northern California, where they served over 125 lodges, church organizations, booster clubs and patriotic orders. No charges are made, everything being entirely free. Arrangements have already been made in Roseburg for serving the Odd Fellows, Maecabees and Umpqua Chieftans and dates are being saved for several others. Mr. Lawrence is staying at the Umpqua Hotel, and states that he will be glad to plan for serving any assembly for forty or more people.

MR. PAUL SPEAKS AT P. T. A. MEETING.

The meeting of the Benson P. T. A., held Friday evening, was made especially interesting by a Travelogue, given by W. G. Paul, of this city. Mr. Paul spent a number of years on the continent of Asia as a soldier in the United States service, a newspaper correspondent, and as a member of an English exploring expedition. His lecture consisted of word pictures of the Chinese country and its people, and his adventures in crossing the Gobi desert to Kathgar. It was while here that he was presented with the sacred "White Camel" by the government which guarantees its possessor against attacks of other tribes.

LEE GOODMAN IS GIVEN ACQUITTAL

Lee Goodman, tried yesterday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle for hire without a license, was found not guilty yesterday evening by the jury which heard the case. Goodman was charged with carrying passengers outside of the city limits. The state law provides that any car driven for hire outside of the limits of an incorporated town, must have a state license, issued by the public service commission. Inside of cities the ordinances govern the operation of autos and the state law does not apply. Goodman denied carrying passengers outside of the city at the time specified in the complaint. He was charged with carrying passengers during the month of March, while the state's only testimony covered a trip alleged to have been made in January. The jury after hearing the testimony and the arguments brought in a verdict of not guilty.

It's worth something to have it delivered fresh right from the oven every day. GRIMM BROS. MILK BREAD, Phone 133.

WILLIAM E. ROSE DIES THIS MORNING

William E. Rose, who for a great many years has been engaged in the barber business in Roseburg, passed away this morning after a long illness. Mr. Rose has been in poor health for several years, and death comes after a gradual failing in health.

He was born in Missouri, 61 years ago, the son of A. O. Rose, who still survives, and came to Oregon when quite young. He took up the farming profession and opened a shop in this city, later moving to California, where he remained for a short time. He came back to Roseburg about ten years ago, and has made his home in this city continuously since that time.

He is survived by a wife, a son Roy, who was engaged in business with him in this city, another son in California, and seven step-children.

The funeral services will be held on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Christian Church, with interment in the Masonic cemetery. The funeral services will be conducted by the Roseburg Undertaking company, and Rev. H. E. Mow, pastor of the Christian Church, will officiate.

It is very likely that the Presbyterian and South Methodist churches will each have a scout troop in the near future. The matter now rests with some men who are prospects for scout masters. Service given by scoutmasters is one of the greatest services rendered to the community and is strictly a volunteer proposition. It is hoped that the men approached will consent to serve as they are very high type men who are well liked by boys.

Each troop is requested to plan some entertainment pertaining to scouting and be ready to do your stuff on the evening of the third Tuesday in April. This is your opportunity to show before a very appreciative audience—the High School Parent Teachers Association.

We are also requested to give a scout demonstration before the Melrose P. T. A. at the Melrose school, Friday evening, April 3rd. Only a few scouts will be seen along for this occasion. Some of the members of the scout council will also make the trip. V. T. Jackson, president of the council will make a short address on scouting.

Roseburg Boy Scout News

FIRST TROOP NEWS

Scoutmaster Russell Lintott attended the Kiwanis banquet at Eugene Monday night and was not, of course, on hand for the troop meeting. Before leaving, however, he arranged that the second patrol with Elton Jackson as leader and Donald Chase as assistant, would have charge of the meeting. With the assistance of Rev. Knotts a successful meeting was reported. Rev. Knotts has proven himself to be an honest to goodness boys' man.

In addition to the regular program Dr. Chas. B. Wade, physician and surgeon located in the Perkins building, rendered an excellent service in giving the boys a forty-five minute lecture on "First Aid." He was very thorough in his work. Good turns, such as Dr. Wade will in all probability, enable some scout or scouts to be of valuable assistance to persons needing first aid and may, in extreme cases mean the saving of a life.

Rev. Knotts and some of the scouts went fishing—they wonder how in the world they ever carried in such big fish.

Troop Joke—There was a show going on—a kind of traveling circus. But the dwarf wasn't going down at all well. People were becoming indignant, and finally a man pushed his way up to the manager (Rev. Knotts) of the circus.

"Look here," he said, "this is rank swindle. This man isn't a dwarf. Why, he's over five feet high."

"I know," said Rev. Knotts, "that is just the point."

"What do you mean?"

"That's Scout Church and he is the tallest dwarf in the world."

If weather permits this troop will meet at the engine bridge at 6:30 Monday evening and go to the camp ground for troop meeting. Bring hot dogs and bread.

SECOND TROOPS NEWS

This troop, fostered by the First Baptist Church, is making rapid advancement in scouting. In addition to his regular duties which consist of working full time at the U. S. Land Office, fulfilling church obligations, raising a big garden and other things too numerous to mention, Scoutmaster R. E. Crawford finds time to serve the community and its boys, by heading up this troop.

Troop two is planning on making good use of the Kiwanis-Scout camp by holding the regular troop meetings there.

Harold Thomas is scribe of the troop and as such is a busy scout. His duties include the record keeping of all troop business as well as looking after the individual record of each scout.

Tom McDowell was told not to go swimming ever again with the boys in the river.

One night after school he came home with wet hair and his mother accused him of going swimming. After a second or two of thinking, Tom said:

"Mother, I did it to save Sten Lohbek."

"Oh, my noble boy," his mother cried, "did you jump in after him?"

"No, mother," was the answer, "I jumped in first so as to be there when Sten fell in."

The bird house contest is on and it is reported that some dandy homes are being built for our feathered friends. The contest ends Monday night and the judges will be on hand. Make 'em, but remember, they are for service.

THIRD TROOP NEWS

Since the doings of this troop were published last week there is not much to report at this time.

Rev. E. V. Mow, Scoutmaster, is now in possession of the applications for troop charter and appointments. As soon as there are properly filled out they will be mailed to New York and a charter received in due time.

It is due time to be seen that the boys in our troop are up on their toes and are learning to do by doing.

District vice-president O. C. Johnson in an address to this troop said, "If you want a thing done right do it yourself."

Brand new tenderfoot—"How about a haircut?"

SCOUT ACTIVITIES

It is very likely that the Presbyterian and South Methodist churches will each have a scout troop in the near future. The matter now rests with some men who are prospects for scout masters. Service given by scoutmasters is one of the greatest services rendered to the community and is strictly a volunteer proposition. It is hoped that the men approached will consent to serve as they are very high type men who are well liked by boys.

SUMMER CAMP

Here it is at last—the good glad Spring. We should really laugh and toss our hats and sing but then we cannot be making a nuisance of ourselves on the street. But we smile instead, and we look our hats at a rakish angle and when we go home tonight perhaps we will join the great army of spring poets and write a poem, with "thee" and "thou" in it, with reference to the birds, and possibly, particular reference to one of them, the gentle and easy rhyming dove.

Well you know how it is—the restless desire to be up and doing. And this morning as we stepped out on our way to school, everything looked as if it had been scrubbed by the sunlight. Look at the following walking ahead of you with the jaunty top and a baseball bat under his arm. I'll say it is here. Oh, boy, it certainly does feel good.

Well fellows, it's time to be getting ready for camp. Though it may seem now that we have a lot of time ahead, that time will go far too quickly for us. Just as soon as our Scout Commissioner, Mr. Runyan, returns from the Rotarian convention in Portland, we will get busy with a Camping Committee on the summer camp.

Is your pack sack ready? Are you getting all those old clothes mended up for camp? How about the knife and ax? Now listen—don't expect to get a lot of spending money from dad and SPEND it all and then all of a sudden try to work him for the full price of everything you need. Fellows, it will work a hardship on him even if he does buy it for you, do him a good turn, buy a little at a time and cooperate with dad. He is for you. Help him out.

SCOUT HIKES

Last Saturday Kenneth Rada- baugh, Donald Chase, Elton Jackson, Eugene Love, Lenor Stanton, Sten Lohbek, Lester Russell and Claude Patterson under the leadership of the scout executive hiked over to the Kiwanis-scout camp ground and spent the day there. It was originally planned to spend but an hour or so there and to spend time the hike along Mt. Nebo ridge. However, it was so pleasant at the camp ground that all were satisfied to spend the entire day there. The time before noon was spent in making an inspection of the grounds and making plans for the development of the camp. In this the scouts made some very valuable suggestions.

At noon fires were made and in a very short time the boys had dinners prepared that were fit for a king. Some used cooking utensils while others used the green sticks but in any case the eats were, besides being good, digestible. Kenneth Rada- baugh and Claude Patterson followed the following tests—knife and hatchet, mile at scout's pace, fire building, second class, second class cooking. Lenor Stanton passed the first class cooking test.

Suggestions for future hikes will be made from within the troop themselves. Plans made by them. The executive has agreed to accompany any groups on hikes in case they cannot secure any other adults connected with the troop. In case there are several groups planning on hikes and want the executive to accompany them these groups will, in most cases be combined.

Get busy fellows and start something.

CORN DODGERS

One teaspoon of salt to one cup of cornmeal, mixed with the meal while dry, then mix the meal with cold water until it is thoroughly saturated, then seal it with boiling hot water until it makes a stiff batter, make it into round cakes and set them on a greased griddle to sizzle and bake. When one side is brown, turn them over and bake the other side. You can travel further and do more work on corn bread than you can on wheat bread, consequently corn bread is more fitting for a camp or hike than white bread and as soon as you learn to like it, you will learn to LOVE it—you will learn to like it as soon as you are real hungry and try it. For there is no use talking, it does satisfy one's hunger.

Wise Cracks

"Let George do it" was a popular slogan a few years back. Who is George in your troop? Yourself? Or, is it as it should be, your patrol leader?

Anything that isn't growing is dying. Are your scouts moving forward through the tests, or is their interest gradually dying?

A dead program gathers no recruits.

SCOUT GOOD TURNS

A good turn is defined as something you do without being asked and for which a scout accepts no pay. Before hitting the good turns it might be in order to tell the following story:

Scoutmaster—"Have you done a good turn today?"

Scout—"Yes, I went to the store and got some ice cream for dinner."

Scoutmaster—"Are you sure that was a good turn?"

Scout—"Yes, nobody told me to do it. I thought of it myself and asked Pa for the money."

Here they are—

Helped another scout saw wood—Helped boy carry groceries from the store—Another scout and myself gave first aid to a small boy—Went on an errand for a neighbor lady—Carried wood for another scout's mother, while he was away.

Come on fellow, for our sake please do not be so modest. Report your good turns. If you haven't been doing any, get busy. Live up to your motto, "Do a Good Turn Daily."

INVESTING IN BOYHOOD

(By An Ex-Scout)

A black lion, somewhat fringed (from an old broadcloth suit of dad's), on a once-white patrol flag (formerly part of a sheet) hangs on my wall as I write this. That flag, made in haste to be carried by the newly organized Lion Patrol of Troop 37, Brooklyn, in the annual Sunday school parade, is a cherished souvenir of my first days in scouting—way back in May, 1911.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

What is the best time during the troop meeting for the game period? Ans.: As to the best time during the meeting to have games can not be so sure that there is any best time. In order to keep the boys busy before the troop is called to order, it is a good plan to play such games as "Swat 'em" and "Hothead" under the leadership of a patrol leader or an assistant scoutmaster. Such games as these, which do not require teams, permit each boy to join in as soon as he arrives at the meeting.

Toward the close of the meeting it is a good plan to have games and contests definitely focused on scoutcraft, mostly between patrol teams. Of course, the closing ceremonies would follow this period.

What is the ideal number of patrols in a troop? Ans.: As to the number of patrols that a troop should have, this is largely an open question that has been debated at considerable length among scout leaders. The most permanently successful troops have averaged about twenty or twenty-four boys divided into three or four patrols. The arbitrary number of eight, which is really the size of a military squad, should not be regarded as the ideal size of a patrol. The natural play gangs formed by boys from twelve to seventeen normally have an average membership of five or six. It is probably preferable that scout patrols, especially of younger boys, approximate this size rather than attempt to grow to the size of a military squad. The average patrol leader can accomplish more with a small patrol than with a large one.

Loyalty to our city costs nothing and pays big returns.

Be a sportsman but do not be a sport.

A good spunky spirit says, "Here you, hands off. I'm as good as the next fellow." But when he isn't got to spirit the fellow says, "Oh, that's all right. I'm nuthin' but a per- terter bug, and I'd be pleased to be squashed."

Gill's Improved Golden Bantam. Here is a very remarkable strain. It is nearly twice the size of the original Golden Bantam and very much superior in quality. Nearly all ears carry 12 rows of kernels, yellow kernels, set close upon the cob. Do not compare this with the original strain, as it is far superior in every respect
