MARRIAGE DIFFICULTIES

In discussing the reasons why so many divorces occur, it should be considered that there are millions of young folks who find the difficulties in the way of making a discriminating marriage to be far more serious than they were years ago. In former years most young people settled down in their home towns in circles with which they were intimately acquainted. The result was that the boys and girls came to know each other very well indeed. People moved around from place to place with less freedom, and the great majority of the young folks had known their friends all through their school years. They thus had a pretty good idea of each other. If one had a bad disposition or was otherwise unsuitable for matrimony, that fact became generally known in the circle to which that young person belonged, and such a one was not so eagerly sought for in marriage. Today families drift around from place to place, and millions have their homes among strangers. Many people have left their homes and gone off to other places to work. All these folks make their friends among strangers, concerning whose antecedents and family and personal traits they know nothing, except what they can pick up by their own observation. Consequently many bluffs are put up. Many people put on a very presentable appearance at first sight, but if one knew their real nature, it would be seen that they were very unattractive. A girl may seem very fascinating when she is putting on her company manners, and a young man may seem very fine and purposeful, when he is on dress parade, but these young people may have such mean traits that neither can make a successful marriage. The wise young person will consider these conditions very thoughtfully, and not rush into marriage so heedlessly as many do.

Young men who are not physically fit and possessed of special qualifications should keep away from New York city, according to W. T. Diack of the Young Men's Christian Association of that city. He says that competition is so severe in the metropolis, that unless a fellow has unusual talents in specific lines, he is quite apt to do better in a smaller place. Probably the same thing is true of other big cities. Many fellows get the notion into their heads that the bigger a city is, the more chance for them to win a fortune. But greater size means more competition, and obscurity for the mass of ordinary workers. Many fellows who could win attention and position for themselves in a community the type of Roseburg are lost in the shuffle of the masses of population, and drag along for many years in the treadmill of metropolitan existence.

Business men often complain that the production facilities in their respective industries are able to turn out more goods than the market can absorb. It seems strange that over-production can exist, when there are so many people who lack things they really need. Yet when more goods are turned out than the public is able to buy, over-production exists. The war stimulated over-production, by increased demand for commodities always created by the needs of such a period. It will take some years to bring the country up to a point where consumption equals productive capacity. In choosing places of employment, one does well to attach himself to those that have a record for regular operation and which supply basic human needs, as these would seem to be less likely to be affected by over-production.

Rabbi Wise of New York said in a recent sermon, that the most dissatisfied people are those who have everything they want. There are many who fix their hearts on certain ambitions, and say that if they can get a certain amount of money, or attain certain power or social success, then they will begin to be happy. But there is a curious irony in experience. When they attain those goals, they are likely to be less happy than before. If people can't find happiness while doing their daily work and enjoying wholesome recreations, it will always elude them.

PLANS FOR DOLLAR DAY ARE WORKING OUT SATISFACTORY

Plans for the Dollar Drive, for the benefit of the Children's Farm Home, which will start Tuesday morning, April 7th, are working out satisfactorily. Organizations and clubs are responding in a wholehearted manner, and the Committee in charge feel certain that the drive will go over with a bang. Arrangements have been made with the Roseburg National Bank to care for and turn over to the Committee any money or checks left for the Children's Farm Home. If the Committee should miss any one during this drive, they can leave their dollar at the Roseburg National Bank.

Home is crowded to capacity, and is turning away pitifully needy children each day. These children are worth saving to good American citizenship. The Children's Farm Home under the fostering care of the Oregon W. C. T. U. is administered by a Board of Directors, composed of exceptionally successful business men and women appointed by the W. C. T. U. is distinctly Protestant in its administration, but opens its doors to children of every faith and color. The only question being asked is "Are you needy?" To such the home extends its arms with the assurance of real home care and mother love. For concrete work call Taylor, 112 No. Flint St. Tel. 225-R.

COUNCIL MAKES STUDY TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

be passed to control these conditions, but when this ordinance is drafted it is proposed to include in it sufficient regulations to control all angles of the situation, so that a complete new traffic code will have to be formulated before the council acts.

While the investigation is on several changes are being tried out and experiments conducted to determine the methods most suited to bring about the desired end.

The new traffic guides at the corner of Cass and Jackson streets and Cass and Rose, are working out well, and others will probably be ordered soon for other intersections on the main streets.

The main benefit which has resulted from these guides, is the enabling of cars with a long wheelbase to make the sharp turns. Heretofore when the long cars tried to swing around the domes in the center of the intersections, they frequently were unable to cut their wheels around enough and struck the curb, or were forced to stop and back up, holding up traffic behind them, and causing a congestion. Several accidents were caused by cars hitting the curbs, making the drivers lose control, so that collisions with other cars occurred. With the new guides in place even the long stages are able to make the turns in an easy manner eliminating the trouble which formerly existed.

The new guides also discourage turning in the intersections, and jaywalking. The old style center guide left a "gap of safety" in the center of the intersection, and encouraged jaywalkers to cut diagonally across, but under the present system, the corner is open, and jaywalking consequently becomes more and more hazardous. It is practically impossible to make a complete turn in an intersection, without striking the monument, except with a very short wheelbase car, so that this practice also meets discouragement.

The new ordinance is expected to prohibit both jaywalking on the part of pedestrians, and turning around in intersections on the part of auto drivers. These regulations being applicable only to the main streets. Both of these cause considerable confusion and annoyance at present, as well as creating a danger which should be eliminated.

SHAW SAYS RADIO THREATENS STAGE

(Associated Press Lead Wire.)

LIVERPOOL, Eng., April 3.—George Bernard Shaw is one of those who believe that the theatre is threatened by the radio. He writes in the Playgoer:

"All I can say is that if I could see and hear a play by my fire-side I would never enter a theatre again. I shall not prophesy but I again remind our managers that theatroping is very dear, very inconvenient and horribly stuffy and promiscuous."

"Unless they can overcome these disadvantages by the overpowering fascination of good plays, good acting and theatres that are like enchanted palaces, the radio will knock them out."

REV. CALDWELL BACK FROM BUSINESS TRIP TO KANSAS

Rev. H. L. Caldwell, pastor of the local Baptist church, returned home last night after an absence of three weeks. He was called to Kansas City to attend to important business affairs arising after the death of his father-in-law. During his stay in Kansas he had an opportunity to visit with his own parents at Sedalia, Kansas. He was in the state during the visit of the tornado which destroyed so much property and cost many lives. Although not in the tornado district, he states that terrific winds visited Kansas City and neighboring sections of the state. The middle west is still in the grip of winter, he reports, and it is a pleasure to get back to the Pacific coast where the hills and lowlands are green and the trees are beginning to blossom.

The food of all foods is bread and milk. Here you have both incorporated in a loaf of GRIMM BROS. MILK BREAD. Phone 133

My doctor could not help me. Six doses of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy have entirely cured me. I have regained my weight and every one is congratulating me how well I look." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

ELKS INSTALL OFFICERS AND ENJOY A SMOKER

Big Crowd of Bills Witness One of Finest Athletic Programs in City. HAND IS OUTCLASSED Cottage Grover Fails to Pin Amort, Local Wrestler, to Mat in Allotted Thirty Minutes.

Installation of the newly elected officers of B. P. O. Elks No. 256 was held last night before a record attendance of members. Following the installation a fine athletic program was staged, consisting of boxing and wrestling. The retiring exalted ruler, Dean Hubar, thanked the brothers and officers for their hearty cooperation during the past year. Mr. Hubar has made an excellent presiding officer for the lodge and under his administration the order has prospered.

The officers installed last night were J. G. Day Jr., exalted ruler; Harley Watson, esteemed leader; James Rice, treasurer; Douglas Waite, alternate delegate and Walter Good, tiler. Exalted Ruler Day appointed R. L. Whipple as esquire, Ed Singleton as inner guard and Mr. Arundel as organist. Other appointments will be made later.

All of the officers made short talks, declaring themselves ready to give the lodge their best efforts during the ensuing year.

At 6:30 o'clock a baked salmon dinner was served to the members. The Fishers Blend Flour man was on hand to serve hot biscuits and they vanished like snow before a noonday sun. The dinner was served in splendid style and many of the Bills were in line for the "hand-out."

After several fast preliminary matches were staged, Britton and Burnbank each obtained a fall in the first match which was halted when Britton threw his knee out of place in a body tosser. The event was a fast one and the two boys should be matched again.

In the handicap match between Ralph Hand, well known Cottage Grove wrestler and Paul Amort, local mat artist, the Bills were given an exhibition unequalled anywhere for thrills. Hand had agreed to throw Amort twice in thirty minutes, but the agreement was far from being fulfilled. In fact, Hand found himself on the bottom most of the time struggling loose from some terrific hold clamped on him by the Roseburg lad. Amort outclassed Hand at every stage of the contest and several times nearly pinned his adversary to the canvas. The fans were shouting at the top of their lungs when time was finally called and they rushed onto the mat to congratulate Amort. He is a mighty clever wrestler and Hand was unable to pull any new tricks out of his kit for his edification. Both of the wrestlers engaged in a clean contest, showing fine sportsmanship and giving the Elks a real exhibition of grappling.

Many of the Bills have expressed themselves as being anxious to see the two boys matched in a finish bout and it is possible that an attempt will be made to arrange the contest in the city.

Past Exalted Ruler Hubar and his entertainment committee are to be congratulated upon arranging such an excellent program and it is hoped that these features will be continued by the incoming officers.

DANGER SIGNAL FLASHED BY "NERVES"

When you suffer from sharp, darting, pains, nervous aching, nerve fatigue, accompanied by a feeling of exhaustion, yet are too restless and upset to seek needed relaxation, the nerves are sending out to you a cry for help. Heed this plea! If you do not, serious consequences may result.

For years scientists have sought an effective remedy for such a condition. Thousands of tests and experiments have been made, yet, heretofore, no sure remedy has resulted. Now, at last, an eminent San Francisco physician announces a new discovery based upon the science of Homeopathy, a form of treatment recognized by many prominent physicians as the most effective remedial agent known to science.

This discovery is compounded into Epsa Neuritis Tablets and is now available to all who want to get from neuritis, neuralgia, nerve pains and other forms of nervous disorders. If you suffer from "nerves," try this remarkable preparation at once before your condition gets worse.
