SECRETARY WAR JOHN W. WEEKS SERIOUSLY ILL

Has Been Confined to His Home for Several Days With Thrombosis.

IS 64 YEARS OF AGE

Been in Bad Health Some Time—Disease With Which He Is Afflicted. May Be Fatal.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) WASHINGTON, April 3.—The condition of Secretary Weeks who is suffering from thrombosis was described as "entirely satisfactory" late today after his physician had concluded a thorough medical examination.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Secretary John W. Weeks of the war department is ill with thrombosis. The war secretary has been confined at his home for several days but there has been no intimation that he was seriously ill until his physicians today announced the cause. Dr. B. L. Harold, Mr. Weeks' physician, issued a bulletin today saying that the secretary on the morning of April 1 had a "thrombosis of one of the small branches of the middle cerebral artery," which had produced weakness of the muscles of the left arm, but that no other symptoms had resulted. The statement added that Mr. Weeks should be out "in a short time."

Mr. Weeks, who is approaching his 64th year, has not been in robust health for some years. He returned to his office early this week after a two week's vacation in Florida and subsequent visits to other southern states. He appeared at the time of his return to be enjoying improved health. In the interval since he returned he has been exercising his functions as secretary of war. Papers dealing with important war department business still were being sent to his residence today for his consideration. Because of his health, however, the war secretary in agreeing last month to continue as secretary of war in the Coolidge cabinet, did so with the understanding that he would return to private life if his physical condition at any time required a lessening of physical exertion.

Thrombosis is an obstruction of the blood circulation by a clot, which in this case, apparently has lodged in the brain. A stoppage of any particular proportions there would have immediately been fatal results and even in a mild form might cause paralysis.

Old Scottish Buildings Something of Mystery

All over Scotland are hundreds of forts built on hilltops. The White Cairn, in Forfarshire, is a good example of these. It consists of four circles of stone, the diameter of the inner circle being 80 paces. The stones are 25 feet thick at the top and over 100 feet thick at the base. Beyond the outer circle is a ditch with an entrenchment round it, while beyond this, again, runs a double entrenchment. Four entrances to these various circles are dug, so that each remains covered by fortifications. The fort at Bannikin, in Aberdeenshire, has five great stone circles, all flawlessly built, although there are no landmarks to show how they were shaped. These buildings are interesting, but not puzzling, but there are others, commonly known as Pict's Burghs, to which no use can be assigned.

Wedding Season in India

Customs in India bring annually a wedding season, marriages being practically unknown at other seasons. The wedding lasts three days from summer to late autumn, and the bride must wear gold and silver ornaments and decorations, no man being so poverty stricken as to contemplate marriage without making the silver and gold presents. The material must be imported from other countries, and this year there has been sent from New York to London for India more than $2,000,000 each of gold and silver.—Ohio State Journal.

Giants Credited With Building of Causeway

The Giants' causeway is a group of basaltic rocks on the north coast of Antrim, Ireland. The promontory, which is a portion of the basaltic formations found in the county of Antrim and near Londonderry, projects into the North channel. It is called Giants' causeway, from the legend that it was the beginning of a road which the giants began to build across the channel to Scotland. In past geological periods the basaltic rock seems to have been forced upward. After long periods of erosion a long line of perpendicular cliffs 225 feet high, in all, for a distance of about 500 or 600 feet are many thousands of vertical columns. Most of them are six-sided, although some of them have five, seven, eight and even nine regularly formed sides. In diameter they range from 20 to 200 inches. The tops of these pillars form an uneven pavement, hence the name "causeway," strictly speaking, the Giants' causeway is formed of three main groups, the Little, Honeycomb and Grand causeways.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Water Denizen That Has Few Vital Organs

The little creature called the lancelet is slender and pointed at both ends, and not very easy to see, since it is almost transparent, and is only from an inch and a half to two and a half inches in length. It lives in shallow water and likes to stick its head end into the sand, into which it burrows with great rapidity. It remains thus for a long time with its tail sticking out. When on the surface of the water it lies on its side. While it can neither see nor hear, there is reason for believing that it possesses the sense of smell and taste. Its eggs are laid about sunset and the larvae hatch out early the next morning. The lancelet has no head. Moreover, it has neither legs nor pairs of fins. It has a mouth, however, placed at one end, which, therefore, may be called the head end of the body. It has a stomach, a very simple form of liver and another simple organ which takes the place of a heart, since it is capable of contracting and thus forcing the blood, which is quite colorless, forward to the area of the gills, where it is purified.—Review of Reviews.

Business Now Made of Producing Spider Silk

Spider farming is one of the little known industries of modern times. The end in view is not the intensive fighting of the fly pest, but the production of spider silk, than which there is nothing better for the cross lines of surveying and other instruments. Supplies in vastly larger quantities are needed for the manufacture of spider-silk stockings, and it is to meet this demand that special spider farms have been started from time to time, says Tit-Bits. It is no easy matter to keep and feed the spiders, to prevent them from engaging in mortal combat, and to collect their silk in suitable form. The process of "silking" the spider amounts to playing catchball, with the spider as the ball. In its passage through the air the spider instinctively pays out silk, and it can be induced to part with a hundred yards or more during a succession of such flights.

Secret Safe

"Oh, Alice!" Virginia exclaimed. "Have you heard about Gladys?" "No; what about her?" Alice demanded. "Well, she and Dick Rodney are going to be married in June!" "You don't say! Well, I always knew Dick thought a lot of Gladys. But I never think she would agree to marry him." "And Alice," Virginia continued, "the engagement is a secret just now. I promised Gladys I wouldn't tell a living soul, so don't you breathe a word of it to anyone." "Why, Virginia," Alice replied, "you know I wouldn't say any more than I think of telling it than you would."

Salesmen may be gracious and elegant, but the knowledge of the goods they are expected to sell. This is a sad fact and a handicap to good salesmanship. A story is told of a general storekeeper in central Ohio whose education in selling was of the kindergarten variety. A customer came in and asked for a little cheddar cheese. The storekeeper, however, disengaged, but came back lugging a large specimen of a New York cheese. "Here's the cheese," he said, "but I'll be dog-busted if I know how I'm going to get the cloth often it!"

PHILADELPHIA GANG ARRESTED FOR S. F. CRIME

(Continued from page 1.) Known as Joseph Barlow; Harry Green, known as Tommy Eggers and John Smith, known as John Bricker and Erna Brown. The girl is said to be May Vaughn, known also the police said as Maria Kelly, Agnes Allen and Anne Tierney. Photographs of the prisoners were sent by air mail today to California by the department of justice to expedite possible identification. They were arrested in a house where shotguns and ammunition were sent by air mail today to played counsel and planned through habeas corpus proceedings to win their freedom from the city police who charge them with banditry. It was the intention of the police to turn over the prisoners to the federal authorities. Later in the day the police said it was not likely the girl would be wanted by the police of San Francisco. Detectives said she was known to the Atlantic City and Camden, N. J., police. She was given two or three years in the New Jersey state prison in 1923 for stealing furs in Atlantic City and was released on parole.

From Pillar to Post

"From pillar to post" means from one thing to another without any definite purpose, hither and thither, to and fro, from one court of appeal to another without any decision. The origin of the expression is somewhat obscure. Some authorities say it refers to the long his and hers, others believe it to be an allusion to the schools of horsemanship in France before the Revolution. The pillar was the center of the riding ground and the posts were the columns around the circumference of the ring.—Pathfinder Magazine.

An Omission

Mr. Justus—Yes, dearie, those cakes are really delicious, but as you say, they are a little bit flat. Mrs. White—And I followed the recipe exactly, but it didn't say a word about how to inflate them. FISH COMMISSIONER FILES HIS ANSWER

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) PORTLAND, Ore., April 3.—John C. Veatch, recently appointed state fish commissioner by Governor Pierce today filed answer to the quo warranto action brought about a week ago by Dr. Thomas W. Ross, deposed commissioner, asking that Veatch appear in court and show cause and by what authority he holds office as commissioner. Ross, in his quo warranto action claimed that he had never been legally dismissed from the commission, and that he was a commissioner in fact. Veatch in his answer denies that Ross' removal was illegal. He states that December 16, 1924, Governor Pierce brought charges against Ross on which a hearing was held December 22. Ross was subsequently removed from the commission and Veatch was appointed January 10, the answer states. The dispute is expected to come up in court in about two weeks.

GANG OF SAFE BLOWERS FOUND IN KLAMATH FALLS

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., April 3.—A gang of safe-blowers which had planned on making Klamath Falls its headquarters while it invaded towns in Central Oregon and Northern California, has been routed through the efforts of Fred Morley, special state agent, it became known today. Working in conjunction with Sheriff Calkins of Siskiyou county, California, and other officers in this section of the state and in Northern California, Morley got so close to the trail of the yeggs, and becoming frightened at the activities of the local officers notified his pals, and they fled from the city. Information revealed today showed that an acetylene tank had been shipped to Klamath county from California by the yeggs, and they had arranged to use it in blowing open a safe in a Lake county bank. Also, it was reported that a quantity of nitro-glycerine had been cached close to Klamath Falls a few weeks ago for use in the safe-blowing operations. Some members of the gang was known to have been in Klamath Falls a week ago, it was reported. One of the members was arrested for vagrancy but was released, and becoming frightened at the activities of the local officers notified his pals, and they fled from the city. Morley has been in almost daily telegraphic communication with police officers in this section of the state and in California. One of the acetylene tanks used by new after an unsuccessful effort in California bank a few days the yeggs was found in a North-to blow open the bank vault. DUELL SAYS HE IS BAD WITNESS

NEW YORK, April 3.—Under perjury charges as a result of testimony which he gave in his suit to compel Lillian Gish to make pictures for his company and also facing disbarment proceedings, Charles H. Duell, has issued a statement terming himself "the world's worst witness." And reiterating that he and Miss Gish had been engaged. Although a lawyer himself, Duell said that he was "utterly paralyzed and humiliated," while on the witness stand. It was while he was under cross-examination that Federal Judge Mack dismissed the suit, ordered Duell held for perjury and announced disbarment proceedings will be instituted. Duell, a son of the late Chas. Duell, a judge of the United States Court at Appeals is a member of an old Knickerbocker family. He is related to Ethel Root. Duell made public a letter he said had been written by Miss Gish's mother, in support of his claim of an engagement. An extract from the letter read: "Lillian makes me good a wife, as she has a daughter, four life together is going to be perfect." Duell also gave out an unsigned radio message and a letter which he said was from Miss Gish. The letter which began "Christina," said it "closed into very much" and concluded "love him, real, true, blue." The explanation was a love code, he said. The radio message referred to "heart trouble," and ungrammatical, "blue, yes, blue."
