ARCTIC REGION TO BE GOAL OF NAVY AIRCRAFT

Expedition Expected to Be of Great Geographical, Scientific Value.

LAND OBJECT SOUGHT

Will Determine Character of Great Expanse Lying Between North Pole and Alaska.

(Associated Press Local Wire.)

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Naval aircraft will attempt this summer to bridge the vast expanse that has so far shut out from human knowledge great regions of the Arctic where a supposed continent has long lured the tolls of effort of man by fled with out an answer to his guess.

In an expedition headed by Donald B. MacMillan, who is returning north on his ninth voyage of exploration next June, naval pilots will bring their craft to the avails of man's struggle to map the mysteries of an area of more than a million square miles between Alaska and the North Pole.

Although not a government project, the plan has been approved by Secretary Wilbur and endorsed by President Coolidge and also will have both the financial and scientific backing of the national geographic society.

Thus having a private status and differing in this respect from the project abandoned last year for a polar expedition with the dirigible Shenandoah, the naval pilots to accompany the expedition will be granted and extended leave for the purpose.

Commander Byrd will be in charge of all flight operations. Two planes of the Loening Amphibian type will be supplied, having a cruising range of more than 1,000 miles and a speed of more than 120 miles an hour. In charting the unknown regions, as well as the many other scientific undertakings projected, including high altitude temperature and weather observations, Mr. MacMillan believes more can be accomplished with planes in two months than has been done in the last century.

Leaving Wisconsin, Maine, about June 15, the expedition will make its way along the Labrador and Greenland coasts up to the Axel Heiberg land, at the northern point of which, probably 250 miles from where the ship will station, an attempt will be made to establish an advance flying base.

From there the planes will venture over the unknown northwest to determine whether land exists there. Such land probably could be utilized for aircraft bases in flight routes from Europe to Asia. Explorations of the ancient Norse ruins in Labrador and Greenland, recovery of the records which Peary left at Cape Columbia before the final dash from there to the pole and extensive radio experiments for which Eugene P. McDonald, Jr., president of the National Association of Broadcasters of Chicago, will accom-

PROHIBITION LOSERS IN WEST AUSTRALIA

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
PERTH, Australia, April 6.—West Australia has decided against prohibition. In yesterday's polling on the question 25,892 votes were cast for prohibition while 64,377 votes were against it.

BOY AUTO THIEF WEARIES OF GAME; BACK TO SCHOOL

(Associated Press Local Wire.)
BOSTON, April 6.—James Sheehan, 16 year old automobile thief, who played tag with the Boston force of motorcycle police for four days "because he liked the thrill," wearied of the sport today and returned to the state school for boys at Shirley, from which he escaped several months ago.

"I did it just for the fun of the thing," was the boy's explanation. "I wanted to get the thrill."
Sheehan said that he began his recent career as a speedster March 2, when he stole an automobile in Clinton. Since then he has "borrowed" one car after another, his record on Saturday being four large automobiles. In a hide-and-seek charade with the police in the Charlestown district yesterday crowds turned out to cheer the youth whose exploits had been widely heralded.

pany the expedition, are among the other undertakings projected.
