CHILD WORKERS

A study of the health of a group of working children 14 to 15 years of age, just made by the industrial commissioner of New York state, indicates that nearly half of them have physical defects that are aggravated by the work they are doing.

CENTRALIZED BUREAUCRACY

Governor Pierce struck a popular note in his comment on governmental encroachment upon state powers as recently set forth by Senator Borah in answer to an inquiry from an eastern publication as to the governor's views on the question.

Over one-half of the area of our state is now under federal control through forest reserves. We feel the encroachment of the bureaucratic government at Washington in almost every activity.

Say what you want, advertising is the life of business. The fellow who fails to tell the public what he has—or what he wants—is losing one of his greatest business opportunities.

The News-Review is going into the homes of over four thousand people every day. This means that it is read by over twenty thousand people in this county alone.

Come on, boys. Get your name on the dotted line for the annual Strawberry Festival for Roseburg. This is always a big event and one that the city and county takes much pride in supporting.

The man who is looking for exercise can get it on his lawn. He will also help beautify the city. A little work each day will accomplish wonders for a run down man or yard.

The real offenders of traffic laws are seldom caught until they bump the other fellow off the highway. When, some of them fail to realize the seriousness of reckless driving.

Portland is getting ready for its annual Rose Festival—an event of nation-wide importance and always a big success from the standpoint of genuine entertainment.

Some fellows who complain of being overworked spend half of their time talking during business hours. Too much "jawbone" has killed many an otherwise good employee.

Greet the tourist with a smile and a handshake. A little good cheer in this direction will pay big dividends.

Many a man belongs to so many organizations that the only thing that he is real sure of is a big funeral.

The only man that ever died of overwork is already dead. So don't let this little matter worry you.

With Babe Ruth out of baseball for ten days one need not anticipate many thrills until his return.

This is regular strawberry weather.

The Portland ball team suffered a severe setback yesterday at the hand of the Los Angeles fellers. Now the Beavers are gettin' back to normal.

Since the red necktie epidemic has broke out in the village we can't help thinkin' that a feller is never a prophet in his own home town. Frinstance take Claud Cannon. He was the originator of the fad ten years ago and the same feller who boomed him for the outlandish color scheme are this week sportin' the Solasheviki national emblem.

Missus Cal Coolidge has decided to attend Easter services in the bonnet she wore before. The song, "Put on your old gray bonnet with the red ribbon on it," will be sung by the choir, we imagine.

A London news item says blonde chorus girls are scarce and the use of peroxide is practically passé. Well, well, that's encouragin'. Now a feller can marry a chorus girl and know what they look like out of the calcium.

Happy is the man who can talk his wife into weedin' the garden and mowin' the front lawn.

CONGREGATION WATCHES PRIEST CAPTURE THIEF (Associated Press Local Wire.) CHICAGO, April 9.—A man who attempted to rob the rectory of St. Clement's Catholic Church here yesterday was discovered, chased through the adjoining church and captured after a fight by the Rev. Peter Englin, assistant pastor, while startled worshippers, leaving a lenten service, looked on.

The robber had collected most of the pastor's valuables when the priest intervened. He dashed down a passageway into the church closely followed by the priest, who snatched him as they reached the altar.

When police arrived they found the robber subdued. He was held on a charge of attempted burglary.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—An atmosphere reminiscent of the worse series days of last October surrounded the home coming today of the capital's own world champion. With them were their rivals accompanying them were their rivals in the struggle for the diamond crown, the New York Giants, with another clash scheduled between the two pennant winners here today to revive the tense memories of the 1924 classic.

NATURAL INCREASE OF WATER CLOSES IMPORTANT DEAL

(Associated Press Local Wire.) LOS ANGELES, April 9.—Sparkling bubbling comment on the public service commission's recent announcement that the Owens Valley water feud was in a fair way to be settled by block purchase of valley land and water rights, was pouring down the Los Angeles aqueduct today in the shape of eighty-two second feet of additional water from ditches in the Bishop creek of Inyo county.

Two agents of the city were in the valley yesterday with instructions to turn over deposits aggregating $170,000 to sellers of a block of about 8,000 acres of headwater land as soon as delivery of water into the aqueduct began. Before word was received here that the transaction had been completed, a sudden swelling of the flood into Halverson reservoir, chief storage basin of the aqueduct, was noted, an increase of eighty-two second feet or about 33,000,000 gallons daily.

To observers watching the blizzard this was as good as a telegram stating that the deal was closed.

This is the completed sarcophagus over the tomb of the late Woodrow Wilson in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral, where it has just been unveiled. The three flags surmounting it are historic. Two of them are the "President's Flag," presented by the Government to each President, representing Mr. Wilson's two inaugurations. The third is the American flag carried by the first American troops who marched through London in the World War, with Mr. Wilson as their Commander-in-Chief at home.
