This cucumber is a strong, vigorous grower, producing heavy crops of uniform, long, dark green cucumbers. When placed on the market they hold their color and do not turn yellow like most other varieties. It is especially adapted for pickling and is equally fine for garden or greenhouse. Very popular with market gardeners.

Plant 4 feet each way in rich, loamy soil, from April 15 to June 1, 8 to 10 seeds to hill; thin to three good vines. Cover seeds one inch deep and press firm.

Cornell Has Housekeeping Course

Give Clothes to Tornado Victims

Welfare societies from all over the United States have contributed clothing, food, and other necessities of life to the homeless victims of the tornado which recently laid waste to twenty mid-western towns. Tents have been erected and everything possible is being done to make the survivors comfortable and cheerful.
