Woman's Club Has Interesting Meeting

Americanization was the topic of the program given by the Roseburg Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. A. C. Marsters on Tuesday afternoon, and arranged by Mrs. William Bell, Mrs. A. C. Marsters, and Mrs. R. D. Compton. A short business session presided over by Mrs. Foster Butler preceded the program. The minutes were read by the Secretary, Mrs. J. C. Ponder, and committee reports were made by Mrs. William Bell relative to the Rummage Sale May second, and the food sale held recently from which the club voted to cooperate with the National Music Week committee and a program consisting of musical numbers will be given during music week, May third to ninth.

Hanning was successful in spelling during the other contestants, and was awarded a prize. At the short business meeting it was decided to piece a quilt for the Children's Farm Home at Corvallis, and Mrs. J. J. Keator was appointed delegate to the state convention at Marshfield with Mrs. W. E. Holte as alternate.

Plans Completed for Easter Ball

Plans for the annual Easter Ball are nearly completed and the event promises to be one of the most brilliant of the year. The Legion Auxiliary will be hostesses for the ball, which will be at the Armory on Tuesday evening April 14th. Hundreds of pink blossoms, both imitation and real will be used to transform the Armory into a Japanese tea garden, and other attractive features will make the dance unusual. Clever programs are being printed, and the list of patrons and patronesses has been announced.

Ten Mile Club Meets With Mrs. Anna Watson

April Meeting Missionary Society Interesting

The April meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was held Thursday afternoon in the church parlors, with Mrs. McCullagh in the chair. The short business meeting was held at the opening. Mrs. Scott, Associate Member Secretary, reported six new members for her department. At this time it was requested that clean, old muslin for use in the sick room, be handed to Mrs. Bodie or the President. Volunteers to attend the Presbyterian meeting in Ashland May 7 to 9, were called for. A letter from Dr. Tootell Hospital thanked the Society in a most appreciative manner for the Overseas Sewing and Hospital supplies sent for the work in China, China.

Betty Jane Dixon Hostess to Friends

Miss Betty Jane Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dixon entertained a group of little friends Tuesday afternoon, commemorating her seventh birthday anniversary. Miss Dixon and her young guests attended the marionette presentation of Cinderella at the Amateurs theatre, and later luncheon was served at the Orange Lancers Tea room, at a table congenial with a birthday cake with seven candles. Covers were placed for Martha Herman, Phyllis Ann Butler, Mary Margaret Geaney, Emma Baker, Maxine Smith, Roberta Treivora and Betty Jane Dixon.

Semi-Annual Rummage Sale to Be Held

The semi-annual Rummage Sale of the Roseburg Woman's Club will be held on May second, for the benefit of the club house fund. Plans for the sale were completed Tuesday at a meeting of the club house board, composed of Mrs. William Bell, Mrs. J. C. Ponder, Mrs. Washington Hughes, Mrs. H. D. Harris and Mrs. George Hubbard. An appeal for articles for the sale is made to the general public and club women alike. Anyone having donations may call any member of the board and the package will be called for.

A great many are under the impression that old clothing constitutes rummage sale, but articles such as dresses, coats, odds and ends of ribbon, lace, remnants, pans, vases, pictures, hats, hose, underwear, corsets, shoes, plants and shrubs, canned fruit, jelly, jam, curtains, drapes, and any miscellaneous articles will be received and sold by the Woman's Club.

State President to Hold "Club Institute" Here

Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, state president of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs will preside at a club institute to be held in Roseburg on April 13th, at the South Methodist church. The institute will open at 9:30, continuing throughout the day. Clubs of Roseburg and Douglas County, also clubs within the Southern Oregon federation district will be eligible to attend the institute, and the members are anticipating the occasion with much interest. The institute will deal with the structure of a club, election and duties of the officers and chairmen, eligibility for membership, relation of club and community and participation in community affairs, fundamental principles every club woman should know, and many other topics of interest to club women and prospective club women.

Mrs. Dunbar will be assisted by department heads of both Southern Oregon and Portland, and many representatives will be present from other clubs in the state. Mrs. Foster Butler and the entire membership of the Roseburg Woman's Club will be present and assist with the program. A general invitation to all women of Roseburg to attend is extended by the Roseburg club.

The worth of an active women's club has been demonstrated many times in many cities. In addition to the social work, the clubs work cooperatively with business organizations to further public utility and public service. The Roseburg Woman's Club is now working for a club house, and several entertainments are being planned to finance this project.

Easter Egg Hunt at Country Club

An Easter egg hunt at the Roseburg Country Club on Easter Sunday for the children of the members of the club is being planned, and will be an innovation here in children's entertainment. The egg hunt will be held at one thirty, followed by informal outdoor games for the children. A luncheon will be served later in the afternoon, the winners winning cakes, sandwiches, and other delicacies. The coffee will be made at the club house.

Music Week Urged in Proclamations

A series of official proclamations, both state and municipal, and possibly resulting eventually in a national proclamation, is promised on behalf of the National Music Week, May 3 to 9. For the first national observance last May, proclamations were issued by the governors of Massachusetts, Ohio, Arkansas and Hawaii, and by the mayors of a large number of cities. This action was taken before the movement had assumed the proportions represented by the nearly 800 cities which participated last May. It is therefore expected by the National Music Week Committee that a great many more states and cities will be represented by proclamations for next May. Already, the governors of Illinois and Mississippi have agreed to issue a proclamation. The texts of last year's proclamations are reproduced in the "History of National Music Week" issued by the National Music Week Committee at its headquarters, 45 West 45th street, New York City.

Possibly the first municipality to take such action in preparation for the coming Music Week is Cleveland, Ohio. It is that city's mayor, Clayton C. Towens, first states: "Music is a valuable element and force in our world and time, and being all too neglected by the general public, National Music Week was instituted several years ago, and has been observed by many cities and states throughout the country since that time."

Music week will be observed in Roseburg by programs and recitals that will fill each evening, as well as feature all no-tunes during that period. The program is being planned by the Douglas County Music Teachers Association.

The party will start at nine o'clock, and covers and cards will be the entertainment with refreshments at the eleven.

Youth Dances in Chiffons

Colleen Moore's Choice of Evening Frocks Favors Chiffon Brilliant With Rhinestone Trimming

Delicacy is the spirit of the mode, so the frock favored by fashion for the spring formal occasion is that which is of chiffon, plain or figured, in colors soft and becoming. The lines in these youthfully designed frocks feature bouffants, godets and the circular flare, many of which are trimmed with the smart laces of the mode, while others favor rhinestone trimmings in delicate patterns. The newest youthful silhouettes, with its circular skirt, gives great prominence to the trimming on the skirt, especially if that be in rhinestone decoration. The bodice of the newer type of frock remains simple in design and relies for its effectiveness upon its simplicity and its colorful decoration at the shoulder, and frequently a scarf which is attached to the shoulder. It adds a note of feminine appeal.

The pastel evening gown of chiffon, which has been so much the vogue in Paris Beach, will probably duplicate its success here as the favored frock for dances and theatre in the spring. In soft or radiant tints, these chiffon frocks are at their loveliest when fashioned along simple lines which swirl into flounces at the bottom, rippling often into petals and points.

A PORTFOLIO FROCK IN A FERRONIERE PRINT

QUITE the newest theme in a season of printed silks which are notable because they derive their inspiration from the delicate tracery of the ironwork of Edgar Brandt, great French ferronier, or iron master, who designed the gates of the Verdun Movement for the French Government.

These silks, originated by Henri Creange, art director of Cheney Brothers, employ the characteristic Brandt motifs of tendrils and scrolls in delicate and spirited composition adding the beauty and warmth of color. One of these Ferroniere designs has been used for the delightful frock sketched, which is developed in cambric tones of amber to copper. The border of the material has been used for the trimming which extends in a band down the entire left side, and around the hem of the skirt. The skirt itself is made "en portefeuille," or as we would say wrap-around, and a wide shawl ties at the side, giving a very feminine aspect to the costume. The buttoning at the top of the bodice repeats itself on the skirt. The lady in the picture has cannily used a piece of the border of her printed silk to band her large drooping black hat, which may very well be of softest velvet, since velvet seems to have invaded the realm of summer millinery lately and is to be seen on terms of close intimacy with chiffon, lace, and other ethereal fabrics.

POETS' CORNER

Signed Contributions for This Department May Be Sent to the Society Editor of The News-Review, and Will Be Used as Space is Available.

A poem entitled "Evolution," by Alden Harness of Roseburg, appeared in the April issue of Reality. This magazine, which is published in New York City, has a nationwide circulation and some of our most advanced thinkers contribute articles to it. After congratulating Mr. Harness on the merit of his poem the publishers wrote to him as follows: "We hope that with your splendid talent, that the 'muse' will move you, so that Reality may have the pleasure of publishing another poem of yours for its May issue, providing it is as good as this one, and arrives in time."

The following is the poem published in Reality.

EVOLUTION
The fossils in the shale,
Down in this mountain pass,
Unfold a mystic tale,
To you and me, my lass.
We lived, the rocks before us
show.
More than a million years ago
The Mammoth we have known,
With spear, with knife of stone,
We hunted, when this earth was young.
With me 'thru jungle trees
For miles and miles with ease
From branch to branch you
lightly swung.
And often would we dare
To lure the great Cave Bear
To hidden pits beside the fen.
Crossed we the desert sands
To unknown, Western lands,
You filled my life! I loved you then!

Since first upon the earth,
Beneath the tropic skies,
The human mind had birth

And man begin to rise;
In the domain of endless change,
From bondage, fear, relentless,
strange,
That held us to the cloud,
To freedom, knowledge, God,
Thru unguessed ages we have passed—
Our lives are new once more;
Our hearts, as long before,
With happiness and joy are blest.
And as your years increase
You still shall know the peace,
The holy peace that crowns your brow.
Where thoughts from Truth are drawn
We face a brighter dawn,
You fill my life! I love you now!

ALDEN HARNESS
PLAYING HOUSE
When we play house we always have
Just anything we wish
A stove, a table, lots of chairs
A bed, a couch, a dish.
Our chauffeur comes at beck and
call
Our butler old and staid,
And every time we dress or dine
We call our port French maid.
Of things to eat, we never lack
We've courses four or more
And money, money by the peck
With jewels and gems galore.
We play and play and have our dolls
And all of their relation
And if you ask just how 'tis done
Why, just imagination.

PANSY WARD

Completely surprising one of their number, Miss Althea Hembree, the grade school teachers of Roseburg joined in giving her a shower Friday evening at the home of the Misses Mae and Margaret Baldwin. Miss Hembree has recently announced her engagement to J. A. Caraway of the J. C. Penney Co. here. The wedding is to be an event of the summer following the close of school. An additional surprise was the presence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hembree of Portland at the party, they having motored here Friday to attend.

Apple blossoms and fancies of pink and white crepe paper, gave a beautiful spring like effect to the rooms, and a mock wedding was performed under a huge pink and white wedding bell. The principals and attendants at the ceremony were chosen from Miss Hembree's fellow teachers at the Rose School. Other appropriate games and contests diverted the guests, and following a delicious luncheon a handsome electric peniculator was presented to Miss Hembree by Mrs. Arline Parfisch. Above the supper table was suspended a Japanese parasol with floral streamers reaching to the table. Large bouquets of red tulips were used about the dining room. Invited to honor Miss Hembree hall, and all members outside of Roseburg are especially urged to attend. The Blue Devils orchestra will play, and their will be cards for those who do not care to dance.
