THE BATTLE OF CONCORD AND LEXINGTON

April 19, 1925, is the 150th anniversary of the battle of Concord and Lexington, which started the Revolutionary war. The whole country pays its tribute of respect to the heroes of those Massachusetts towns, who on that fateful day first defied the English government. It was an act of great courage, because in those first revolutionary days the patriots were an unorganized force. Later under the genius of George Washington they acquired the advantages of military discipline, in so far as their very poor equipment and the poor support given them by Congress would permit. But at Concord and Lexington they stood up in defiance of the kingly power without any of the advantages that an organized army possesses. The United States is blessed every day by the fact that its early patriots were men of long vision, as well as of dauntless heroism. Men of a more cautious type might have said that the policies of the English government would probably become more liberal in a few years, so that it was better for the colonies to give in and cheerfully accept their grievances. But these men could see that a new type of people were growing up in America, with ideas of democracy which were strange to Europe, and that they were entitled to a chance to develop on their own lines. They were willing to sacrifice everything for this ideal. The American people might have developed somewhat prosperously if they had not insisted on independence, but they never could have worked out the principles of democracy as thoroughly as they have done. Probably most of the world would have been submitting to kings and emperors still, if the old patriots had not defied the kingly power at Lexington and Concord and other fields of glory.

Eighteen full pages of advertising was the allotment made to Eugene papers by a certain firm of that city which opened its doors for business yesterday. It was the largest order for advertising ever placed by a single concern in the state. That the investment brought handsome returns to this progressive merchant there is no doubt. Being experienced in the game of merchandising for a long period of time, and having studied advertising from every angle to get the best results, placed his faith where known results could be obtained—in the newspapers. The power of advertising has started many a man on the road to success—the lack of using judicious space in newspapers has been the foundation for many a wreck.

Portland will necessarily be compelled to keep a clean house during the greater part of the present year. With sixteen conventions scheduled for 1925 the old city will be on her toes. However, no one will be disappointed. It's a habit of the queen city of the northwest to do 'em brown when providing entertainment and taking care of visitors to all important events held at that city.

When a fellow gets through with politics and tries to lead an honest life, the aftermath stirred up frequently ruins his future career—if he has any. Even if you do get into the game fair, you usually come out as straight as a cork-screw.

Play ball! The season is now in full swing.

STORM SWEEPING TWO STATES TAKES LIFE, LEAVES RUIN. (Associated Press Local Wire.) HENTON HAMBOLD, Mich., April 14.—A high wind and an electric storm caused two deaths, destroyed a partly completed factory building and stripped off numerous telephone poles in Berrien county last night.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 14.—A windstorm that almost attained the proportion of a tornado, swept about one Indiana last night, leaving in its wake a number of damaged houses, uprooted trees and leveled power and communication lines. Apparently entering the state from the west, the storm passed over southern to the northwestern section only a few miles north of the territory hit by last month's disastrous tornado. That moved northwest, leaving a path through Indianapolis, Columbus and South Bend, and veering eastward to Fort Wayne.

The damage will amount to several thousand dollars. Roads were blown from a few houses in Fort Wayne.

SLAPSTICK KING BACK FROM TOUR WITH GRAY LOCKS. (Associated Press Local Wire.) SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Charlie Chaplin arrived here yesterday on the steamer "Waco" and his company filmed one last scene of a picture. Chaplin posed for the cameras, but when they asked him to pose, with Georgia Hale, his new leading lady, he flatly refused. "You understand," he said, "she's not in her makeup and I'm not in mine." Then at an afterthought he said: "Remember, I'm married." When asked how his wife was he replied: "Fine—she's a great girl."

In reply to the question of his wife re-entertaining him, Chaplin said: "No, I don't think so. You see she's somewhat of an artist; that is, she paints. Futuristic stuff. Very fine."

Charlie's hair was very gray. At the temple it was almost white. It still is bushy, curly hair, but attraction and flecked with gray. Mrs. Chaplin was not with the party.

OLD AND YOUNG The old and young now bob their hair and fresco it and rouge their lips. The flimsy skirts all of them wear just barely reach below their hips.

The old folk just as young and prime as they did in their days of yore. They've shed a year for every dime invested at a beauty store.

And all of them refused to age, for it is such a cheap disguise, and no each goes on with the rage of painting sunsets on her face.

Walk along the streets today and watch the women just for fun. How old they are, no one can say, for none looks over twenty-one.

But some of them, beyond a doubt, have been on sick for count, less years, and now they paint and gaw about with dresses etc. up to their ears.

The women are so queer a set they don't know when to stop the game, and thirty years from now, I bet, we'll find them looking just the same.

They'll look the same, we're sure of that, but none can guess about their clothes. Perhaps they'll wear a stunning hat and nothing else to match, who knows!

Judgin' from the number of "million dollar rains" we've gettin' lately we'll all soon be able to retire.

RAILROADS DESIRE TO RAISE WESTERN RATES. (Associated Press Local Wire.) CHICAGO, April 14.—Western railroads met here in asking federal court relief for a 10 per cent increase in the interstate commerce commission from present freight rates in the west. F. W. Sargent, counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission, said that the railroads of the west and north and consequently yield a lower return, a situation, Mr. Sargent contended, had to be corrected by court action, participated in by all the western roads.

NEW CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SEC. TO COME JUNE 1

The Chamber of Commerce work is proceeding with little confusion despite the fact that the organization has been without a secretary for several weeks, following the resignation and departure of Will Holburn, who is now in North Dakota. L. A. Taylor, of Bend, who has been employed as the new secretary will not be able to come to Roseburg for several weeks yet, as he is remaining in charge of the Bend office until arrangements can be made for his release there. He will probably be here about the last of May or first of June, according to present indications. Mr. Taylor is recognized as one of the most efficient commercial secretaries in the state. He has been with the Bend Chamber of Commerce for four years. He served one term as president of the state association, and was called by the state chamber of commerce at one time to head its land settlement work.

(Associated Press Local Wire.) LONDON, April 14.—Problems involved in furthering the economic restoration of countries not yet recovered from the shock of war will have first place on the program of the third biennial conference of the international chamber of commerce to be held at Brussels July 21-27.

An outline of the completed program was made public today by the American section of the chamber, which showed that the conference, at which forty nations will be represented, will also take up a number of specific questions with the purpose of facilitating international trade by standardizing and simplifying commercial practices.

It was estimated that the American delegation will include more than 200 representative bankers, financiers and industrialists.

OREGON SUPREME COURT DECISIONS ON TWO APPEALS

SALEM, Ore., April 14.—The supreme court today, in an opinion written by Justice Burnett, reversed Judge Robert G. Morrow of the lower court for Multnomah county the case of A. L. Powell against the City of Portland, appealing from the results of a large number of inspectors employed by the city. The city commission decided to reduce the number of inspectors by 50 per cent by discharging all of them, then allowing all of them and no others to take a civil service examination, on the results of which half of them would be re-employed.

Powell and some others refused to take the examination and sued for wages. Judge Morrow decided in his favor, holding that the action of the city was an attempt to abolish a position and discharge an employee, then re-employ the same officer and employ another. It is said that had the supreme court upheld the lower court, the city would have lost about $40,000.

The supreme court, in an opinion by Chief Justice McBride, affirmed Judge George W. Stapleton in the case of Heben Hosen against the Clarke and Wilson Lumber Company appellants, in which the plaintiff received damages from the company for $20,000, having sued for $20,000. She had, through an employment agency, secured employment for the company as a waitress in one of its dining camps. She arrived at the camp on one of the company's logging locomotives, and in alighting from the engine in the dark was injured. Inasmuch as she had not yet gone to work, it is held that she could not collect under the workmen's compensation act or the employer's liability act, but judgment was accorded her as a passenger on the company's train.

Important Liquor Case Again Up For Consideration. For the third time the supreme court is today hearing argument in the case of state against E. J. Daniel, on appeal from Ben-a-county and involving the question of whether evidence found on the person or individual by illegal search can be used against him.

Liquor was found on McDaniel by an officer in a search that is claimed to be illegal, and the lower court he was convicted on a possession charge. On appeal the case was argued in the supreme court and then a re-argument was allowed before the opinion came down. When the opinion came down the court was divided four to three, the prevailing opinion, written by Judge Pipes, holding that the evidence was illegal and could not be used. The majority judges were McBride, Burnett and Coslow.

Pipes then retired from the bench and was succeeded by Justice H. H. Bell and a re-hearing of the case was granted. Because of the issue involved, the case is considered one of the most important that has been before the court in years.

Avoids Operation In Serious Case Of Kidney Trouble

"For the past three years I had serious thoughts of an operation, due to a serious case of kidney and prostate trouble. In talking to a friend regarding this trouble he suggested I try Alvida, assuring me if it did me no good it would surely do me no harm as it was purely vegetable compound. I used it five times each night, and I am entirely relieved after taking one month's treatment of Alvida. Do you know it has even helped my appetite." (Signed) R. G. FLAZZELL.

Alvida Tablets are scientifically prepared from the wonderful alfalfa plant, which through its long root absorbs the vital elements—lime, iron and phosphates—necessary to health and vigor. BRITISH RUM SHIP TAKEN WITH CARGO WORTH $500,000. NEW YORK, April 14.—Capture of the three-masted auxiliary British schooner Madeline Adams yesterday by the coast guard cutter Seminole, after a chase of 150 miles off the New York coast was reported today when the schooner was brought into port with its crew of nine men as prisoners and its liquor cargo valued at $500,000 under seizure.

Coast guard officials said the Madeline Adams was the schooner from which the government patrol boat 203 obtained 500 cases of whiskey and champagne on Saturday, when an alleged conspiracy to smuggle liquor from Rum Row on government boats was uncovered with the arrest of two men, who were held as agents of the rum fleet.

The state department had made urgent representations to the Mexican government in this case and officials were gratified by the forceful and prompt action taken by the Mexico city government.
